"It's a Most Wonderful Time of the Year"

Christmas is, and always has been, the most wonderful time of the year. At least to little children and the parents who are fortunate enough to share it with them. Before I go any further it will be referred to as Christmas so if you find that offensive, stop reading now. We know why we celebrate the day and its meaning even if you are a non-believer. I respect the celebration of other special days at this time of the year, but let me enjoy the Christmas spirit and what it brings.

Since it is a happy time, I hesitate to bring up the tragedy that has made the headlines this past weekend. It will be a sad Christmas for people affected by the two Sandys, Hurricane Sandy and Sandy Hook. Especially Sandy Hook. You can rebuild a house, and even after suffering material loss, can stage a strong comeback. How in the world do you come back from what happened to those 20 little children? Do not want to go into that now as I do want to make this a light column. We all need something positive at this time.

One of the things that have come out of the Christmas season is the existence of Santa Claus. Here we have a little fat man with a white beard and a red suit. This fellow lives in the North Pole and makes toys for children all year and delivers them by a flying sleigh pulled by flying reindeer. He has enough toys in this bag for all the children in the world and finds a way to distribute them in one night.

Since the doors are locked his only entrance is down the chimney. E v e n though he is a jolly fat old slob, he manages to fit down the chimney without getting dirty or burned by the fire in the fireplace.

Now who would have a problem believing in Santa? This image is one that is so loved and so admired that even a picture of him, brings delight to those under the age of eight. Then to meet him in person, Forgetaboutit. That is the ultimate thing at this time of the year, to see Santa in person and tell him what you want for Christmas. Even if it is something your parents do not approve of, like a BB gun. You might shoot your eye out. There is just something about having a white beard and a red suit that gives off this special aura of kindness and caring. Believe in him or not, this is a good thing at this time of the year.

I can personally say that it is the image that is respected, not necessarily the man, as I have played the role more than once. You go from being just another face in the crowd and invisible. As soon as you change into that suit and don the beard, you become the most loved individual in the world. A delight to see in the eyes of small children. The excitement and euphoria emitted with just the sight of him is awesome, and overwhelming.

Not so long ago, our Kiwanis club had the pleasure of buying over 300 toys for the children at school 36 over on Days Park on the West Side. It was a bilingual school from K through 3rd grade. Perfect for what we wanted to achieve. These were mostly needy, lower west side, Hispanic children who loved Santa and what he represented. We would buy the toys, the teachers and parents would wrap them, put the gender and age on the package, and right before Christmas, Kiwanis and Santa would come and visit the school. He would sit on the stage prepared in the gym and class by class and one by one, each child got to sit on his lap and receive a wrapped toy. All 300 of them. Santa had his work cut out for him.

The school has since closed and we tried doing it at another school without the success we found at 36. We did this for many years and looked forward and planned for it all year. What a nice party it was, and we found the teachers so dedicated and loving of all the children. Seemed the happiness of the little ones was priority one for all the staff.

Most likely it is like that in schools everywhere in this world. My delight was the Hispanic dishes prepared by the parents after the party.

Let me mention one more little story of Santa. As recent as last week, my son Dennis and I attended an outdoor Holiday Festival. Just happened the scheduled Santa became ill and was not going to appear, much to the dismay of the organizers. Having been there more than once. Dennis volunteered to don the suit and beard and play the role. Needless to say the experience at school 36 seemed to make it an easy task. Just to see the love portrayed when he appeared is worth more than words can describe. Some hugged him so hard they had to be separated by the Jaws of Life. It was a good experience for him to bring joy to the dozens of kid in attendance. Me, I was too cold to enjoy it. They should have winter things indoors, out of the cold. That would probably pose a problem for the horse-drawn hay ride.

So enjoy the day and if you do happen to see a fellow with a white beard and wearing red, say hello and thank him for what he represents. Even if it is not Santa, he would appreciate it. You think??

Merry Christmas everyone and give your little ones, one extra hug. I know I would.

SIMA's 10 Tips for Safe Walking in Snow and Ice

Falls account for more than one million injuries in the U.S. annually. There are four types of walking accidents with the most common being the slip and fall. That's the type of fall that happens when you fall due to a surface not cleared of snow or ice.

BUFFALO ROCKET ISSUE 51

"Every winter the hazards of driving in snow and icy conditions are noted, but rarely is walking on snow and ice addressed," said Martin B. Tirado, CAE, Executive Director of the Snow & Ice Management Association. "Slipping and falling while walking accounts for a large number of winter-related injuries and can have an impact on the quality of life for the injured person."

SIMA, the national nonprofit organization representing the snow removal industry, has some tips on safe winter walking.

TIP #1: Wear proper footwear. Proper footwear should place the entire foot on the surface of the ground and have visible treads. Avoid a smooth sole and opt for a heavy treaded shoe with a flat bottom.

TIP #2: Accessorize to see and be seen. Wear sunglasses so that you can see in the reflective light of the snow. Also, wear a bright coat or scarf so that drivers can easily see you.

TIP #3: Plan ahead. While walking on snow or ice on sidewalks or in parking lots, walk consciously. Instead of looking down, look up and see where your feet will move next to anticipate ice or an uneven surface. Occasionally scan from left to right to ensure you are not in the way of vehicles or other hazards.

TIP #4: Make sure you can hear. While seeing the environment is important, you also want to be sure you can hear approaching traffic and other noises. Avoid listening to music or engaging in conversation that may prevent you from hearing oncoming traffic or snow removal equipment.

TIP #5: Anticipate ice. Be weary of thin sheets of ice that may appear as wet pavement (black ice). Often ice will appear in the morning, in shady spots or where the sun shines during the day and melted snow refreezes at night.

TIP #6: Walk steps slowly. When walking down steps, be sure to grip handrails firmly and plant your feet securely on each step.

TIP #7: Enter a building carefully. When you get to your destination such as school, work, shopping center, etc., be sure to look at the floor as you enter the building. The floor may be wet with melted snow and TIP #8: Be careful when you shift your weight. When stepping off a curb or getting into a car, be careful since shifting your weight may cause an imbalance and result in a fall.

TIP #9: Avoid taking shortcuts. Shortcuts are a good idea if you are in a hurry, but may be a bad idea if there is snow and ice on the ground. A shortcut path may be treacherous because it is likely to be located where snow and ice removal is not possible.

TIP #10: Look up. Be careful about what you walk under. Injuries also can result from falling snow/ice as it blows, melts, or breaks away from awnings, buildings, etc.

Following these tips will help ensure that you survive the snow and ice season safely.
