Viva L'Italia!

Caruso's Tradition Will Continue

The Italian Heritage Festival celebrates the diversity of Italy's 20 regions.

By Peter LoJacano

The Galbani Italian Heritage Festival sponsored by its three founding organizations: the Hertel North Buffalo Business Association, North Buffalo Community Center and West Side Business and Taxpayers' Association will fill North Buffalo with the sights, sounds and aromas of our beloved Italy Thursday July 17th

– Sunday July 20th 11am -10pm daily. This annual event has become a highlight of the Buffalo Summer festival season. It has outgrown a neighborhood event and has truly become a great destination for the entire Western New York community, as tens of thousands of people come from far and near to get their fill of Italian food, culture and entertainment.

Our festival this year boasts great daily entertainment featuring a variety of Italian performers both local and international. Many of our traditional food vendors are back, along with several new additions and a variety of cultural activities

Caruso's Italian Imports, one of the largest specialty food stores on Hertel Avenue, is going through a renaissance.

When Vince Caruso purchased the building on the corner of Hertel and Lovering Avenues, he decided he would like to carry on the tradition of an Italian Import Food store that the previous owner had started years before. It seemed to be a perfect location, in the Heart of Little Italy.

Now, almost 25 years to the day, the torch is being passed on to the next owner. Vince Caruso decided it was time to retire and be with his family. Time to enjoy them and the things he likes to do.

The new owner, Erik Hoertz, is currently remodeling the store and hopes to have it open by the beginning of August.

The Adventures of...

Rocket Man

by Doug Smith

Woody and Brian

The big paper last week carried an extensive obituary of a gentleman named Ellwood Wardlow, "Woody" to almost everybody, second-ranking officer in its editorial department for many years. Woody was 90 and left peacefully in Sarasota, FL.

Rocket Man leaked a little viewscreen liquid at this news. It was Woody Wardlow who was responsible for the orbit he has maintained since 1967.

It was then that Rocket Man, a career sportswriter since 1948, became disenchanted with his commanding officers in Erie, PA, and put in for a transfer. Mr.

Wardlow – it seems hard to address him otherwise – interviewed him, then called back four weeks later and told him – well, actually, the First Mate, as Rocket Man was bathing – that while sports had no appropriate opening at the moment, the paper would like to add him to the general copy desk. There, he would evaluate articles written on a wide variety of topics, with which he had no familiarity whatsoever. Rocket Man cherished his sports cocoon, and through the bubbles told the First Mate to tell Mr. Wardlow thank you very much, very much, but no thanks.

The First Mate returned about 10 minutes later. "I don't know how to tell you this," she said, "but you start in Buffalo in two weeks."

The rest is history, or something like that, and here is Rocket Man, still babbling away with minimal information. Mr. Wardlow did some unintentionally funny things during his long tenure at the big paper, but Rocket Man will always owe him big time for seeing in Rocket Man something he never saw in himself. Thanks, Woody, rest in peace.

ON ANOTHER TOPIC, there is the matter of Buffalo Rocket alumni Brian Meyer taking over as news director at WBFO radio, and, according to one source, a social-media outpouring of best wishes.

Brian is a wonderful fellow. He worked intensely with Rocket Man and First Mate on two Cheap Gourmet books, which were, we must admit, wildly successful. We have seldom met anyone with such integrity and inner-directed ambition. Some climb over others on the way to the top. Meyer would pull them up with him.

It's an odd orbit for Meyer, whose new salary at WBFO can't possibly compare with his earnings at the big paper, which he left voluntarily on excellent terms. Let us add our feeble best wishes, and observe that surely, Woody would have loved him too.

LOST IN SPACE: Both Brian and Mr. Wardlow would decommission Rocket Man for his commentary on the Old Bedell Grille July 3rd. It lacked directions. For GPSers, it's at 1437 East Ferry Road, Grand Island. For seat-of-pantsers, cross the South Grand Island Bridge, take the parkway toward Beaver Island, follow it about three miles to Ferry Road, turn left and head east. When your hat floats, you're there. Call 796-9332 for menu updates. Apologies and thanks.

California, There I Went

Have to say instead of California, here I come, I have returned so there I went. I know one of my former editors would correct me for bad grammar but she should be used to it by now as I am famous for it.

Speaking of former editors, next weeks column should be about my visit to Lodi, New York to see another of my former editors, Paul Likodis. But this week is devoted to California and my big brother's ninetieth birthday. That is 90 years old.

Flying to the West coast used to be a fun thing to do. I would always use Southwest airlines and fly first direct to Vegas, spend some time there and either rent a car and drive the five hours to Burbank or fly the Southwest shuttle for $25. That is not the way it is anymore and if you have flown lately, it is not cheap to fly anywhere. Maybe not for some that do not know how it used to be.

The direct flight to Vegas was $300, and if you were a frequent flyer, your companion flew free. So two tickets direct to Vegas cost me $300. Not only that, in the middle of the four hour flight, we both got a meal! That went out the window along with the unlimited luggage allowance. Now they give you a small bag of peanuts, but if you ask, you can have a second bag. So you have to plan on eating before boarding the plane at the airport. They ask you to be there at least an hour before your flight time. Most restaurants if you pay 8-10 dollars for a sandwich or burger there is a certain amount of ambience that comes with it. But at the airport? You are a captive customer and you pay a bit higher because you have no choice.

If you have ever flown Southwest you know you are not assigned seats. You line up like cattle according to letters and numbers. I thought I heard some mooing one time. You are either an A, B or C The number is determined by how fast you are in going online and getting your boarding pass. You are not allowed to do so before 24 hours of your flight time. So people, and I am one of them, sit and watch the clock and click the computer at exactly to the second it is 24 hours in advance. I did that and got an A-52. That is not bad, but not the best. Your fear and it has happened, is when you board the plane all that is left is the middle seats. The worst case scenario is you do not sit with your companion for a four hour flight, next to two snorers. What could possibly be worst? I could think of an incident but do not want to say here.

California is California. It is a different world and very beautiful with the mountains and desert and ocean. It does not snow there so having to deal with the elements is uncommon. That is except for earthquakes and fires which tend to be destructive. If you like warm weather it is the place to be. It was in the 90's when we were there and I would say hot. Not to the natives as they claim it is a dry heat. I think what that means is it is so hot the sweat evaporates before it has a chance to come out your pores. So you remain dry, and hot. Like Florida and other western states, there are no seasons, like spring and fall. Just summer and hot, hot, hot. Coming back we flew to Phoenix and it was 106 degrees, dry heat, but so hot you cannot touch anything metal without getting burned. The locals know better than to do that but us dumb Easterners tend to lean on things. Ouch! It was so good to get off the plane in Buffalo to 74 degrees.

The party was great with over 120 people attending. Since he was born in the twenties, the theme of the party was the roaring twenties. There were some great twenties costumes. It is always good to see relatives you do not see too often. Problem is the time between visits is sometimes so long that people change. Especially the little people who are no longer little people but big people. Really big people. One fellow there was 6'7" and weighed in at a little over 300 lbs. I asked him what pro football team he played for and he said he liked basketball. I thought they told me his name was Noah and I kept asking him if he was building an ark. Wondered why he looked at me like I was nuts. His name is Nolan. Dah! He is going to marry one of my sweetest nieces who we seldom see.

Fun party, fun time, glad to be back in cool Buffalo.

Brian Meyer Named News Director of WBFO Radio

Veteran journalist Brian Meyer, who cut his reporting teeth as a teenaged correspondent for Buffalo Rocket Publications in the 1970s, has been appointed News Director of WBFO-FM 88.7 Radio.

A graduate of St. Joseph's Collegiate Institute and Marquette University, Meyer began his Buffalo radio career in 1982 at WBEN. He left his post as Managing Editor in 1997 to join the Buffalo News, where he served as a Business Reporter, City Hall reporter and Digital Media Producer.

"We're thrilled to have Brian join the team at WBFO", said Donald K. Boswell, President and CEO of WNED/WBFO.

"He brings a tremendous amount of award-winning local journalism expertise to our newsroom, which will build an even more robust news service to our members and listeners."

Meyer, who has lived in the Parkside neighborhood for 32 years, said his days as a teenage reporter for the Rocket Publications helped him to discover the joys of journalism.

Brian Meyer's career began at The Buffalo Rocket in the 1970s.

His earliest reporting assignments, doled out by Rocket Publisher David Gallagher, included covering the opening of a senior citizen apartment complex on the West Side and an article that looked at the history of the Buffalo Psychiatric Center.

"Dave was my first boss in the journalism arena. When you are 15 or 16 and really green, you need someone to encourage you and nurture your skills. Dave was that person," Meyer said.

Meyer later wrote hundreds of articles, small business features and columns for Rocket Publications from 1982 through 1997.

Meyer was inducted into the Buffalo Broadcaster's Hall of Fame in 2010. Throughout his career, he has won dozens of regional and statewide awards for his reporting.

"I was bitten by the radio news bug during my freshman year in college and have had a passion for radio news ever since. I can't tell you how thrilled I am to be joining the talented staff at WBFO," he said.

Meyer will begin his new position on September 22nd. Over the next few months, he will serve as a consultant to WBFO.

- Ron Carnevale: an original founder and past President of the Hertel Ave. Festival and President of the West Side Business and Taxpayers' Association, who worked tirelessly on all aspects of the festival and in later years particularly on the entertainment and Jazz Stage component of the festival.
- Chuck Cordone: an accomplished barber and musician who was one of the original Connecticut St. Festival performers and also entertained many years here on Hertel Ave.

- Sam Falzone: an accomplished music teacher and saxophone player who played many years in the Jazz combo at the Hertel Avenue festival

- Ida Muscarella: matriarch of the Muscarella Bakery family, who for years helped her family's stand at the Hertel Ave. festival become a cannoli capital!

In your memory we will continue to keep our Italian traditions alive following the great examples you have left us. We are so honored to have had you all in our lives.

We also would like to thank you, the residents of North Buffalo for your patience, patronage and hospitality. Organizing an event of this scale is a full year job and a labor of love. This is our home and we are proud of it! Now let us show it off to all of Buffalo! Grazie e Viva l'Italia!

ADOPT A PET

This week's featured friend:

ZORRO

I am a strikingly handsome young boy named Zorro who is here at the shelter patiently waiting for my forever home. My shelter volunteer human friends have commented on how good I am on my walks, and that I know basic commands such as "sit" and "down". I enjoy playing fetch so if you have a few tennis balls around to throw me, I am as happy as can be!! I was around some young kids recently, I did really good with them, so if my new family comes with kids, I will be a great family dog. Of course, it is best that young kids learn good dog manners so that we can be best buds. I appear to be housebroken, so brushing up on those skills in a home shouldn't take long at all. I really am a wonderful boy and if you take the time to meet me, I am sure that you will feel the same way!

HELP FOR HOMEOWNERS IN FORECLOSURE

New York State requires that we send you this notice about the foreclosure process. Please read it carefully. SUMMONS AND COMPLAINT You are in danger of losing your home. If you fail to respond to the summons and complaint in this foreclosure action, you may lose your home. Please read the summons and complaint carefully. You should immediately contact an attorney or your local legal aid office to obtain advice on how to protect yourself.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION AND ASSISTANCE

The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure. In addition to seeking assistance from an attorney or legal aid, there are government agencies, and non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about possible options, including trying to work with our lender during this process. To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by New York State Banking Department at 1-877-Bank-NYS or visit the Department's website at www.banking.state.ny.us FORECLOSURE RESCUE SCAMS Be careful of people who approach you with offers to "save" your home. There are individuals who watch for notices of foreclosure actions in order to unfairly profit from a homeowner's distress. You should be extremely careful about any such promises and any suggestions that you pay them a fee or sign over your deed. State law requires anyone offering such services for profit to enter into a contract which fully describes the services they will perform and fees they will charge, and which prohibits them from taking any money from you until they have completed all such promised services. Section 1303 NOTICE YOU ARE IN DANGER OF LOSING YOUR HOME If you do not respond to this summons and complaint by serving the copy of the answer on the attorney for the mortgage company who filed this foreclosure proceeding against you and filing the answer with the court, a default judgment may be entered and you may lose your home. Speak to an attorney or go to the court where your case is pending for further information on how to answer the summons and protect your property. Sending a payment to your mortgage company will not stop this foreclosure action. YOU MUST RESPOND BY SERVING A COPY OF THE ANSWER ON THE ATTORNEY FOR THE PLAINTIFF MORTGAGE COMPANY AND FILING AN ANSWER WITH THE COURT.
