Fathers Day is June 17th!

Father's Day was first celebrated in 1910 by Sonora Smart Dodd. Its first celebration was in Spokane, Washington on June 19, 1910. Her father, the Civil War veteran William Jackson Smart, was a single parent who reared his six children alone. After hearing a sermon about Anna Jarvis' Mother's Day Memorial in 1909, she told her pastor that fathers should have a similar holiday honoring them. Although she initially suggested June 5, her father's birthday, the pastors hadn't enough time to prepare their sermons, and the celebration was deferred to the third Sunday of June.

Initially it was not a success. In the 1920s, Dodd stopped promoting the celebration because she was studying in the Art Institute of Chicago, and it faded into relative obscurity, even in Spokane. In the 1930s Dodd returned to Spokane and started promoting the celebration again, raising awareness at a national level.

She had the help of those trade groups that would benefit most from the holiday, for example the manufacturers of ties, tobacco pipes, and any traditional present to fathers.

Since 1938 she had the help of the Father's Day Council, founded by the New York Associated Men's Wear Retailers to consolidate and systematize the commer-

The Adventures of...

by Doug Smith

'The Bradbury Chronicles'

Rocket Man's First Mate will stick some takeout in the oven and ask, "It's not going to catch fire in there, is it?" To which Rocket Man will always reply, "Set it at 450. Paper catches fire at Fahrenheit 451."

Everything Rocket Man knows about the flashpoint of paper he learned from Ray Bradbury in a grim futuristic novel of 60 years ago. "Fahrenheit 451" described a society in which all reading is banned because of its capacity for inspiring unconventional thought. The temperature is that required to set a book afire. (Even Bradbury conceded that 451 was a generalized estimate.)

The "happy ending" was that rebels and free-thinkers would gather to memorize books so as to retain their contents for future generations (sorry for the "spoiler," but that was 1950.) At the moment, America was heavily influenced by a Wisconsin senator Joe McCarthy and his House Un-American Activities Committee, hounding out perceived communists in the entertainment industry.

Rocket Man still believes that McCarthy's fears were justified, even if his means were extreme. Nonetheless, he loved "Fahrenheit 451," little realizing that later it would make him indispensable in the kitchen. While many groused about its message, he couldn't help noticing that no one went to jail, whereas in the Soviet Union, possession would unquestionably result in proving it.

An irrational movie-maker appropriated its title, "Fahrenheit 9/11," ridiculing President George W. Bush's responses to the attacks of 2001. Bradbury protested, to no avail.

As a boy Rocket Man was hooked on Bradbury, much to his mother's distress. Bradbury's "Martian Chronicles" puzzled him, as it seemed to keep starting over. At the time, the thought of some sort of life on Mars bordered on the plausible, and in "Chronicles," an anthology that looked like a novel, Bradbury designed varying perspectives for observation of human foibles and worse.

In one, a Martian quietly kills an Earthly visitor out of jealousy. In another, newly-arrived Earthlings seeking welcome are shuttled from one governmental agency to another. And in the one recalled most vividly, African-Americans in the Deep South build their own rockets to escape injustices, as folks we would today call "rednecks" shouted scorn from their porches.

Just a few years ago, Rocket Man's car radio picked up Dennis Miller interviewing Bradbury, live. Bradbury was stunningly quick-witted, as Miller rightfully fawned over him, and Rocket Man called his own Firstborn to tune him in. He had not lost a step, and probably did not until last week, when finally he drifted away. A poignant editorial cartoon depicted "Ray Bradbury Transiting Mars."

While perilous, his works and his vision were mostly gentle, and his foresight 20-20. Paper might not catch fire at 451, but at any temperature, Ray Bradbury ignited the imaginations of generations.

Northwest Buffalo Beat

by Joe Bortz

"Hurt In A Car? Call William Mattar"

Ever hear that? Now what does that catchy phrase have to do with this column in the Buffalo Rocket? Believe it or not, there is a strong connection. At one time a young William Mattar used to deliver the North Buffalo Rocket, door to door, in North Buffalo. As did his brother Mark and his two sisters. One of the many good families with good upbringing, handing down the Rocket routes from member to member.

Had the pleasure of dealing with lots of good families back in the 70's as the Rocket progressed. The ones I recall, and forgive me as my memory is not what it used to be, are those who had three or more members as carriers. The Boyd family on Crescent, Don, Jeff and Nancy. Still to this day see the mother and father, Winnie and Don. The Zengers on Woodward, became friends with George the father. The Shamrocks on Saranac, Jo the mother, was on the board of the North Buffalo community center with me. The Ostrowskis on Hertel and I am sure there are more that I would be glad to mention if I remembered. It was forty years ago and lots of water traveled under the bridge since then. Let's call it a memory overload.

The Rocket started out as a slinger, delivered door to door by my children to help advertise my printing business on Tacoma. Four or five of my eight, and maybe more, would spend every Wednesday delivering. As the Rocket grew into a weekly and a tabloid it was time to solicit other delivery people. Have to think the insurance laws were more lenient then as I could never afford the coverage now. The pay was a penny a paper (and the benefit of seeing me every Thursday at payday). Back then, getting a route delivering the daily paper was tough to acquire. Delivering the Rocket was much easier as we always had openings. The usual route was like 300 to 500 papers. No collecting and a once a week project. The decent kids did it properly, and we could eventually tell who did well and who did not. Many stacks of Rockets were found un-delivered by the railroad tracks. We relied on the Rocket being popular and people calling if they did not get it. We had people call if they did not get it, and some call and say they did get it and did not want it. Some so adamant about not wanting it, we would have to discontinue the whole block. That of course would cause a problem for the people who did want to receive it on that block. So we would just tell them the address of the person who was responsible for the non-delivery. Usually that would solve the problem.

My team of delivery people would line up in my hall on payday, which was Thursday, as the paper was delivered on Wednesday back then. I would make my weekly trip to the bank to get cash for my mostly "little" workers. One would assume the three to five dollars they made was enough to keep them content for a week, as they were happy to see me when I returned with the money. Maybe the only time I have seen so many smiley faces glad to see me all at once. They would all be lined up in the hallway on Tacoma. Sometimes if I was maybe a little late, a slight cheer would erupt amongst my young employees as I entered. I kind of liked that, even if it was paid for admiration.

Have to say it was a delight and a wonderful experience having to be able to accomplish this simple little thing. Giving these little entrepreneurs a chance to make a little side money. Giving them the chance to earn a few bucks on their own and learning responsibility at the same time. Every once in a while I run into a former delivery person. They recognize me as I have changed little in the past forty years. At least they tell me that. I have to wonder if I looked this old forty years ago. They were mostly about 12 years old at the time and are now in their fifties and naturally have changed considerable. Usually I remember the name, but the faces have changed. Some I have seen come to contribute greatly to the community, like the Mattars and the Zengers to mention a few.

"Hurt in a car, call William Mattar". "Got an empty pocket, fill it with a Rocket." Somebody must have done that as we are still around. Make sure you read Joe Bortz, he is funny, witty, but a poor writer. Just ask any of his former editors.

own Franc Scinta as the entertainment director.

To further mark the anniversary, the festival committee is offering a free trip for two to Italy. Entries will be available at the festival in the Ilio DePaulo Italian Heritage Tent, located at Hertel and Virgil Avenues during the festival.

An Italian bilingual mass will be celebrated at 9:30am on Sunday, July 15th at the Jazz stage, on Hertel and Commonwealth Avenues.

Love of God, family and Italian culture are at the very heart of every Italian. Whether you are Italian or not, you are welcome to embrace the Italian heritage and eat, drink, sing, dance and enjoy all the best the festival has to offer.

refugees now living on the West Side of Buffalo. These students came to the U.S. only three or four years ago. Yet each has overcome language barriers and other obstacles, earned high grades in high school and are determined to continue their studies in college.

The winners, who were chosen, based upon several criteria, including academic achievement, residency on the West Side and/or a demonstration of significant community service for residents of the West Side, include: Ivelisse Trujillo of DaVinci High School, who will attend UB, Elizabeth Poe-Mu, of Lafayette High School who will attend ECC, and Kamala Ghimirey and Toma Dhital, both from Lafayette High School, who will attend D'Youville College.

"The WSBTA is pleased to invest in the future of Buffalo's young people living in our West Side community though our annual educational awards program," said WSBTA President Ronald A. Carnevale. "One of our primary aims is to foster the growth and development of the Greater West Side Community, and this educational awards program is just one of the ways we will be assisting members of our community during these challenging economic times."

The West Side Business & Taxpayers' Association (WSBTA) is a nonprofit, community based, volunteer organization, which fosters the growth and development of the Greater West Side Community and the city of Buffalo. Established in 1903 and incorporated in the 1920's, the WSBTA is the oldest continuously operating business organization in Buffalo, NY.

Peace Bridge Authority v. Italian Heritage Neighborhood

By John Duke

Last Friday on June 8 2012, Black Rock / Riverside Councilman Joseph Golombek jr. called on Governor Andrew Cuomo and the PBA (Peace Bridge Authority) to "Do the Right Thing" and stop the expansion of a plaza that would remove a Historic Italian Heritage Neighborhood from Buffalo's History. The neighborhood's only newspaper for a long time was the West Side Times, which began there in 1893 and now survives in the Buffalo Rocket.

The PBA wants to demolish very expensive homes on Prospect and Columbus Avenues to build a truck stop. According to Golombek the increase in truck exhaust will wreck havoc with the residents already suffering from breathing problems along a 12 mile path from Porter Avenue to past Kenmore Avenue. The Rite Aid on Niagara Street sells more Azmacort than all other Drug Stores combined.

Unlike most places in the United States, Canada is not to the north of Buffalo, it is to the west and the vast majority of time the wind blows from west to east. The residents of Black Rock / Riverside would end up directly in the path of toxic fumes. Mayor Brown has sent a letter to the Governor asking that the PBA be more transparent about its intentions. Elected Officials have a moral obligation to object. Although some do not.

While at the state level it has become very obvious that some politicians are always putting politics first and people last (all the while claiming just the opposite) it is because Councilman Golombek and Mayor Brown are looking out for us that we can all breathe a little easier at night...

cial promotion. Americans resisted the holiday during a few decades, perceiving it as just an attempt by merchants to replicate the commercial success of Mother's Day, and newspapers frequently featured cynical and sarcastic attacks and jokes.

A bill to accord national recognition of the holiday was introduced in Congress in 1913. In 1916, President Woodrow Wilson went to Spokane to speak in a Father's Day celebration and wanted to make it official, but Congress resisted, fearing that it would become commercialized. US President Calvin Coolidge recommended in 1924 that the day be observed by the nation, but stopped short of issuing a national proclamation.

It was not until 1966, when President Lyndon B. Johnson issued the first presidential proclamation honoring fathers, designating the third Sunday in June as Father's Day. Six years later, the day was made a permanent national holiday when President Richard Nixon signed it into law in 1972.
