Day of Caring

The 18th annual Elmwood Kiwanis Fishing Derby was held Wednesday at Hoyt Lake in Delaware Park. Volunteers from National Grid and Price Waterhouse Cooper assisted with 100 campers from the Delaware YMCA for this year's event. Members of the U.S. Navy Sea Cadets were also on hand to assist with setup and helping the kids fish.

More than 3,250 volunteers from 145 organizations lent their time, talent and sweat equity to help local non-profit organizations during United Way's 2015 Day of Caring. Western New York's largest community service event, Day of Caring was held on Wednesday, August 19th. Volunteers spent the day working on 184 community service projects for 125 organizations, including painting, gardening, clean up, activities with children, chaperoning field trips, organizing donations, and much more.

The event kicked off at First Niagara Center with a volunteer breakfast and rally, followed by transportation to volunteer sites.

Each year the United Way Day of Caring provides much-needed volunteer-power to non-profit organizations' major projects and facility upkeep that would otherwise cost organizations resources that Taking part in the Big Brothers Big Sisters of Erie County Day of Caring event were: Dionte C.; Nyzaire C.; Christopher D.; Jaleal A.; Symirah F.; General Mills volunteers Gabriela Lira; Jonathan Correa; Aloexandra Villabos; Eddie Morris and BBBSEC volunteer LaGuan Rodgers.

Moving Day Raises Parkinson's Awareness

The 4th annual Moving Day walk and movement celebration, sponsored by the National Parkinson Foundation of Western New York, will be held on Sunday September 13th at Coca Cola Field. The event is called Moving Day because it is much more than just a walk. It truly is a celebration of movement, incorporating dance, Tai Chi, yoga, a drum circle and many more dimensions of motion and physical expression. The event also raises funds for the organization which help support the many support groups, exercise sessions, therapeutic programs and social gatherings that the organization provides for the growing Parkinson's community in Western New York.

Movement of almost any sort is a key component in the battle against Parkinson's Disease. Parkinson's is a degenerative neurological disease that can strike someone of most any age, though it is most common in people over the age of 60. The disease disrupts the signals that the brain sends to the body's muscles, thereby causing slow or uncontrollable movements, like an interrupted gait or shaking in the hands. The more a Parkinson's patient moves, the longer it takes for the disease to affect those muscles. Moving Day incorporates many different aspects of movement in a celebration of keeping all of our bodies healthy and in motion.

Though the event is only in its fourth year, it is growing at a tremendous rate. "Last year we had more than 600 participants and raised better than $70,000," said Moving Day Co-Chairperson Laurice Russell. "People in our area who have a connection to Parkinson's are really dedicated to making life better for the Parkinson's community as a whole," she continued. According to president Vicky Glamuzina, this is the capstone of a year's worth of work. "This is our biggest fundraising event of the year, and it is the most important part of supporting all of our programs. The goal for this annual fundraising walk is $80,000 this year. Everyone has such a great time. We're calling this year's walk a pre-game warm up for the Bills' game," said Glamuzina.

Parkinson's is a little understood disease that affects nearly 9,000 Western New Yorkers. When caregivers and family members are considered, tens of thousands of people in our region are affected by the disease. Parts of our area lead the nation in the prevalence of Parkinson's diagnoses. The reasons why it is so prominent here remain a matter of research, and there is no cure.

The Adventures of...

Rocket Man

by Doug Smith

Accidental Instant Classic

A little over three years ago, First Mate endured a scary series of medical procedures. When at last she emerged, bearing what amounted to a certificate of good health, Rocket Man made an offer not likely to be refused: “Why don’t we go out and buy you a car.”

Actually, it wasn’t the largesse it sounds. First Mate’s blue Mini, itself a gift (Christmas) from six years past, was well into middle age, six years, 50,000 miles. They’re durable little critters, these Minis, but she was beginning to show her age, the car, that is, not First Mate, whose nickname Mininana adorned its vanity plate.

Mininana turns heads wherever she goes.

As the landing party docked at the agency, First Mate spied a Mini of a sort neither had ever seen. It had but two seats, black with what seemed like a silver cockpit, outfitted with gadgets neither would ever employ. They test-launched and First Mate was thrilled. When she ultimately ruled the little speedster as over-equipped, the salesman offered her the chance to sit at a computer and design her own, in a spiffy color called orange spice. “We will build it for you from the ground up,” and five weeks later it arrived, costing far less than anyone had planned, about the price of an ordinary sedan.

First Mate drove it a mile or two and stopped at a ‘burger joint to catch her breath. Immediately, a couple in an adjacent car looked it over, sized up First Mate and Rocket Man’s age and exhaled “You go, kids!”

The hits just kept on coming. That same day in Canada they accidentally happened upon a tight-rope walker (not Wallenda) crossing between 11th-floor rooms in two hotels. Oriental tourists lowered their cameras to catch the passage of Mininana’s, some perilously stepping into traffic to inquire of its origins.

The hubbub has never stopped, at least a comment a day. Funny thing is, they’ve seen few others on the road, two in one single day but only about a half-dozen others. When Mininana’s Mini reached its third birthday last week, he took it back to the agency for service. Predictably, a sales rep approached, hoping to interest Rocket Man in something new.

“That’s mine,” he said, pointing to the lot where the just-inspected car awaited. The rep gasped. “What a beautiful car,” he said. “But we’re not going to make them any more. There’ll be none for 2016. Would you like me to check around?”

“Not on your life,” said Rocket Man, “But I can’t believe you’ve discontinued them. We’ve never had a car so popular.”

“Guess you have an instant classic,” the salesman said. Indeed. Don’t even ask.

An open letter from Buffalo Teachers Federation President Philip Rumore

Setting the record straight after The Buffalo News misrepresents the facts in contract negotiations with the Buffalo School District

The Buffalo News refused to print this article

Again, The Buffalo News misrepresents the facts.

Under the current Board (Contract) proposal, some teachers would actually earn less salary after they pay for their health care benefits.

The average base-salary increase for 2015-2018 is 3.5% minus the 20% teachers must pay for their benefits.

The Board's salary offer is an average of only nine-tenths of a percent (.9%) per year when you include the 11 years that Buffalo teachers have been without a new contract. They will now have to pay 20% of their health care benefits, amounting to approximately $3,600 per year for some.

If that isn't bad enough, the Board further decreases its salary proposal by increasing the school year by 2.2%, plus the school day by 12.2% (a 14.4% total increase) — putting the Board's proposal below a 0% increase.

Also not mentioned by The Buffalo News:

- the 17% reduction of sick days (usually at least one of your 30 or 150 students has a cold);
- mandating seeing a doctor on the day you are ill;
- increasing prescription co-pays from $5/$10 to $10/$25/$40;
- increasing teaching periods from five to six periods (a 20% increase); and
- the withdrawal of arbitrations and other BTF legal victories that would cost the district more than $20 million.

As a further insult to Buffalo teachers, this Board's offer is $16 million less than the Board's last offer.

A subsequent offer was withdrawn as a result of an improper practice charge filed by the BTF.

Yes, this — plus other detrimental proposals — is what the Board is demanding from Buffalo teachers, who work under some of the most difficult conditions and who are already $20,000 — yes, $20,000 — behind their colleagues in surrounding and other city school districts.

Yet, The Buffalo News characterizes the district's offer "as the starting point for serious negotiations."

In an incredible statement, The Buffalo News first refers to "work rules that have prevented significant progress in improving educational outcomes."

Then, in the next sentence — The Buffalo News states, "some of those antiquated requirements are almost laughable, including a smoking room in each school, a vending machine for each school's staff use only, access to outside telephones and a requirement that notices be posted on a bulletin board!"

Besides the fact that, with our agreement, there have not been pay phones or smoking rooms in schools for years, that The Buffalo News makes a statement linking these obsolete items to educational outcomes is bizarre.

While Buffalo teachers have come to expect these distortions, we hope the public will also see through them.

Day of Caring Draws Thousands of Volunteers from Western New York

could be spent on fulfilling their missions. Many of the projects also connect volunteers with children and seniors in the community who benefit from the time and attention that joint activities provide. At the same time, local companies and their employees have the opportunity to work together and contribute to local organizations that strengthen the community.

This year Day of Caring also served as the official launch of the new and improved VolunteerWNY.org website. The collaboration between the United Way of Buffalo and Erie County and The Service Collaborative allows members of the community to search for volunteer opportunities all over Western New York on one easy to use website.

Parkside Volunteers Take Part in Community Cleanup

In 2014, the Parkside Community Association was fortunate enough to host roughly 30 volunteers from area businesses. On that day, elderly and handicapped homeowners were assisted with landscaping and minor home beautification as well as landscaping at People's Park and a community cleanup on Parkside Avenue and Amherst Street. The Association participated again this year, and benefited from another community cleanup, as well as landscaping assistance in public spaces.

HELP FOR HOMEOWNERS IN FORECLOSURE NEW YORK STATE LAW REQUIRES THAT WE SEND YOU THIS NOTICE ABOUT THE FORECLOSURE PROCESS. PLEASE READ IT CAREFULLY.SUMMONS AND COMPLAINT. YOU ARE IN DANGER OF LOSING YOUR HOME. IF YOU FAIL TO RESPOND TO THE SUMMONS AND COMPLAINT IN THIS FORECLOSURE ACTION, YOU MAY LOSE YOUR HOME. PLEASE READ THE SUMMONS AND COMPLAINT CAREFULLY. YOU SHOULD IMMEDIATELY CONTACT AN ATTORNEY OR YOUR LOCAL LEGAL AID OFFICE TO OBTAIN ADVICE ON HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION AND ASSISTANCE. The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure. In addition to seeking assistance from an attorney or legal aid office, there are government agencies and non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about possible options, including trying to work with your lender during this process. To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by the New York State Banking Department of Financial Services at 1-800-342-3736 or visit the Department's website at www.dfs.ny.gov.

FORECLOSURE RESCUE SCAMS Be careful of people who approach you with offers to "save" your home. There are individuals who watch for notices of foreclosure actions in order to unfairly profit from a homeowner's distress. You should be extremely careful about any such promises and any suggestions that you pay them a fee or sign over your deed. State law requires anyone offering such services for profit to enter into a contract which fully describes the services they will perform and fees they will charge, and which prohibits them from taking any money from you until they have completed all such promised services.
