Lessons For the Sabres from Toronto in the 2018 Playoffs

The opening round series between the Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs has provided riveting entertainment. In the first two games played at Boston's TD Gardens, the Bruins line of Patrice Bergeron, Brad Marchand and David Pasternak ran amok against the Leafs scoring, outscoring the Leafs 9-0. Their success came primarily playing directly against the Auston Matthews line. Even though he is the Leafs best player, Matthews was overwhelmed against the veteran line especially Bergeron who is the premier two way forward in the game.

When the series resumed in Toronto for game three with the Leafs having the home ice advantage of last line change the Leafs wisely removed Matthews from head to head play against Bergeron and assigned that role to the veteran Tomas Plekanec. The former Montreal Canadien Plekanec is a veteran who has years of experience playing against Bergeron's line and it showed as the Leafs outscored them 3-0 in a 4-2 victory. Eventually Matthews will need to learn to compete against the Bergeron line, the best line in the league, for the Leafs to be a playoff contender. But for now he is over his head in that role.

Similarly here in Buffalo, Jack Eichel is matched against the leagues top players. But the statistics show that he matches up poorly against these opponents. While Eichel is one of the league's best young players, he ranks only 35th in points per game at 0.96 among full time NHL player for the 2017-18 season. He trails the leagues top stars like Connor MacDavid at 1.32, Evgeni Malkin 1.26, Brad Marchand at 1.25 and many others who are well above a point per game.

Eichel's plus minus of

-25 is obviously skewed by playing for the leagues worst team but it is an ugly fact that he ranks 786 out for 805 players in the plus minus statistics. There are only nine forwards in the league with a worse plus minus. That list includes his Sabres teammates Johan Larson at -30 (799th) and Kyle Okposo at -34 (804).

Eichel will forever be linked to Connor MacDavid who won his second consecutive scoring title and was a plus 20 playing for a weak Edmonton team. MacDavid has established himself as an elite player who can score and outscore the opposition at even strength while playing for a poor defensive team. This illustrates that Eichel has room for improvement in his game. Ideally he needs veteran help to do so. That's up to GM Jason Botterill who has a lot of work to do bring veteran leadership here to help Eichel and the Sabres become a playoff contender.

“A Tree Grows in Brooklyn”

A couple of weeks ago it was suggested to my wife that she read the book “A Tree Grows in Brooklyn”. We went to the local library and requested and received the publication. She did in fact read it and seemed to enjoy it very much. I recalled that there was a movie made from the book years ago. I asked my wife if she would like to see it. I requested and received the DVD of the movie from the library along with a couple of movies more in line with my taste.

We watched my movies first, and finally I relented and put in the 1946 version of “A Tree Grows in Brooklyn”. I watched about ten minutes of it and decided it was not for me. I thought. I went into the other room and she fell asleep watching it. I thought that was it. I will return it and that is that. Not what happened. The next day she said she would like to see the rest of the movie. I proceeded to continue where she left off and left the room. Shortly after I saw she had again fallen asleep. So, I figured I would just put on something else. It was the middle of the movie, but something caught my eye. So, I sat down and watched it for about 30 minutes and wanted to go back and see it from the beginning. I should mention that in the 30 minutes I watched, I cried three times. I do cry a lot in movies. I was glad my wife was asleep as she has fun with my tears.

So back I go to the beginning, even watching the first ten minutes I had seen before. Then what happens? My wife wakes up. “I already saw this part, what are you doing?” Told her I wanted to see it from the start. She did not see the tears on my cheeks. She had read the book and knew what happens. She tells me the ending. I still enjoyed it.

I will not give out too much of the plot of the book or movie but why I found it so touching. It is about a little girl and her love for her father. Brought back some pleasant memories. I had three girls and they were all little at one time. My eldest was a girl and she was the second mother. Brilliant student and super smart. Being very young to be a father, I was able to converse with her on almost an equal scale and we did enjoy our time together. She went on to work in Washington. The middle girl loved to ride on my shoulders. We had a thing that she would cross her arms and I would grab her hands and swing her up onto my shoulders. She seemed to really enjoy being up there and would pat my cheeks with her little hand and I could feel her kiss the top of my head. It does not get any better than that. She went on to become a professional model in New York.

My youngest was a real sweetheart who everybody loved. I recall her having scoliosis (curvature of the spine). She was so upset to have to wear a removable cast for her back to school. She would cry when she put it on. My solution was to sing the song Embraceable you every morning after it was on. She now teaches English to refugees. The best memories and what also was in the movie was the saying goodnight to the girls. They did so much enjoy my made-up stories of the hero “Handsome Father”. Would lay there with the three girls and spin off some dumb tale of this legendary hero before saying goodnight. It does not get any better than that.

The movie was sad, but it was more the stirring of the memories that brought on the tears. I enjoyed the movie even though it was made 72 years ago.

Wellness Fair

Every May, the Administration on Aging, part of the Administration for Community Living, leads our nation's observance of Older American's Month. The 2018 theme, Engage at Every Age, emphasizes that you are never too old (or young) to take part in activities that can enrich your physical, mental, and emotional well-being. It also celebrates the many ways in which older adults make a difference in our communities.

Participating in activities that promote mental and physical wellness, offering your wisdom and experience to the next generation, seeking the mentorship of someone with more life experience than you—those are just a few examples of what being engaged can mean. No matter where you are in your life, there is no better time than now to start. We hope you will join in and Engage at Every Age.

In recognition of this, Mayor Byron Brown and the city of Buffalo will host the 4th Annual Senior Citizen Health & Wellness Fair on May 22nd, from 10:00 am - 2:00 pm at the Koessler Athletic Center, 1829 Main Street at E. Delavan. It will feature Over 40 health care providers, free legal advice, live demonstrations senior exercise, Zumba and line dancing along with a wellness walk and vision screenings. Food, fruit and refreshments will be provided. Free parking. Free admission with Ticket RSVP by May 15th 885-3290.

PRAYER TO ST. JUDE

Most holy apostle St. Jude Thaddeus faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the name of the traitor who delivered your beloved Master in to the hands of the enemies has caused you to be forgotten by many, but the Church honors and invokes you universally as the patron of hopeless cases and of things despaired of. Pray for me who am so needy; make use, I implore you of that particular privilege accorded to you to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolations and succor of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations and sufferings particularly (here mention your petition) ... and that I may bless God with you and all the elect throughout eternity. I promise you, O blessed Jude to be ever mindful of this great favor, and I will never cease to honor you as my special and powerful patron and to do all in my power to encourage devotion to you. Amen.
