The World War II Boeing B-17 Flying Fortress “Madras Maiden” will take to the skies over Buffalo. As the B-17 flies around town this weekend, its famous silhouette and unique sound will draw a great deal of attention.

The Liberty Foundation’s B-17 “Madras Maiden” is one of only 12 B-17’s that still fly today. The B-17 dubbed the “Flying Fortress” as a result of her defensive fire power, saw action in every theater of operation during WWII. The majority of all B-17’s were operated by the 8th Airforce in Europe and participated in countless missions from bases in England deep into enemy territory.

The Liberty Foundation’s B-17 provides visitors the opportunity to take a step back in time and gain respect for the men and women who gave so much to protect our freedoms. At each stop, flight “missions” are available in the “Madras Maiden” which allow people to take flights in this historic aircraft. During flight operations, there will be a designated, secure area for those who would like to watch the aircraft flights at no charge. For enthusiasts that choose to take a flight Victory celebration under the lights at Shoshone Park.

By Bill Snyder

The two best teams in the Minor Girls Division of the Hertel North Park Youth Baseball and Softball season this year certainly played like it Wednesday evening back on August 1 in front of family and friends. With the score tied at 1-1 after six innings, night was falling fast on the hopes and dreams of nine and ten year old girls, wishing for a Championship on the diamonds of Shoshone Park.

To Free Or Not To Free

"Emancipation" Basically means to set free. I used to use the term to describe a time in each of my children's lives. There are three times that I can relate to setting them free or emancipating them.

Number one, and the earliest emancipation is the very first day of school. After being cared for and home every day with their loving mother, they are suddenly sent off to be on their own to spend the day or at least part of it, with total strangers. This is not the most enjoyable setting free moment and must be traumatic to the little darlings. Tears flow. My oldest son got upset with the sight of his first Nun, all dressed head to toe in black with just their faces showing. It was a Catholic school and that was the way they dressed back then. Imagine a little kid experiencing this scene for the first time. Am I on a different planet, are these aliens? He was so upset he climbed out a window and was wandering around outside the school when a priest found him. He also was dressed head to toe in black, but his face and hair was showing. He also had a large cross around his neck, a symbol he recognized.

Fortunately the priest was a pious, soft spoken man and was able to take away his fears. He returned him to his Kindergarten class. He thought the priest was Jesus.

So now as you grow, you wander through grammar school and High school. Then comes your second emancipation. You are off to college! There are cases where the student stays home through college but that is extremely rare. It is move out time. Either to live in a Dorm or share an apartment with someone you may have just met. Another departure from the norm. To physically move out of your room, your childhood neighborhood, and your best friends. Here there is some joy as it is a new adventure. Then again it is kind of sad as the parents that you have spent your life with will no longer be physically there to talk to. To share your day with and to give you advice. Requested or not. Tears again begin to flow.

Third emancipation. It was expressed to my eight children that when they reached the age of 18, they were given their freedom to move out if they choose, but of course were welcome to stay. For a while anyway.

Four of the eight went off to college, one joined the Navy, two boys decided to get their own apartments. Both had serious girlfriends to kind of explain the desire to do that. The third girl was off to New York City to become a professional model. So the age eighteen year old limit for emancipation turned out to work.

Two returned home after their emancipation. One daughter who had gone off to college. The son in the Navy. Then we experienced for the first time, a sibling moving out to get married. A last and final emancipation. Even though this was by far the happiest of all the siblings departing the nest, tears still flowed. A house once filled with laughing, singing, running, joking people, was now going silent. Did not think much of it at the time, but I did not like any of the goodbyes. I cry at K Mart openings so even though I kept a stiff upper lip, I cried inside. Those final moments when they leave hurt for some reason. Why do they have to be emancipated? Then again I sure wouldn't want them all living home with me. What a thought. Hmm, maybe emancipation is a good thing. I kind of like the peace and quiet.

Do you have a birthday greeting you would like to see here? Birthdays, anniversaries, interesting pictures, short stories or even a 500 word column of interest to your neighbors. Send them to me and I will see what I can do. Nothing political or controversial. Send to Jbortze@aol.com experience on this legendary aircraft, these participants receive a pre-flight safety briefing containing the historical significance of the aircraft and a spectacular scenic air tour around the city. During the flight, passengers enjoy the unique opportunity of moving about the aircraft to the different combat crew positions to see the viewpoint that thousands of our heroes saw in combat over 70 years ago. World War II was the single greatest challenge to freedom in the 20th Century.

Through the 46 months of war, over 300,000 American soldiers, sailors and aviators died defending the beliefs that they held dear, with many more sacrificing in other ways. These men became our heroes through their struggles and came home to a grateful nation. Over the half century since, those heroes became our husbands, uncles, fathers and grandfathers; in many cases their stories were never shared with their families.

Estimates place the number of World War II veterans dying each day at over 1,500. With each death, another story of courage, honor and sacrifice is lost forever. This aircraft represents that legacy of courage and valor." The B-17 flight experience takes 45 minutes with approximately half hour in flight.

Flights are 10 am to 2 pm every hour on the hour. Ground tours are from 2:30 pm to 5:30 pm. Anyone seeking info can call (678) 589-7433 or visit www.libertyfoundation.org

Indians Are Number One!

offense caught fire in the top of the seventh on diamond 4, scoring four runs and proving to all on hand an upset was in the makings. But with a four run deficit at hand, Indians coaches proposed a move to another Park diamond that had four light towers not being used. Several hundred feet away on Diamond 2, the game resumed under the lights and a pleasant backdrop for a real Champion. In the bottom of the seventh, the Indians scored four wins to tie the game at 5-5 on a big hit by Elizabeth Hornung.

Julia Vuich took the mound for the Indians in the top of the eighth and kept the Yankees off the scoreboard. The team got excellent play from Gabrielle Gruehauf, Yasmin Kennedy, Claire McGillicuddy, Madelyn Lipowski, Taylor Dowell and MacKenzie Gunnarson. But in the bottom of the eighth, Abigail Armento knocked in Elisabeth Gannon from third base for the winning run, and the 6-5 final.

"It was an exciting season," said Indians coach John Hornung after the victory. "The girls all played hard and played their best when it counted. You can't ask for anything better than that." Offensively, the team was led by Amelia Cline, Chloe Claeys, Madison Marchiole and Alana Waikiki. The Indians finished in first place in the division and with the Yankees, drew a bye in the first round of the post season. They met the Athletics in round two before facing the Yankees in three consecutive games.

A 6-0 shut out victory by the Yankees July 31, set up the final meeting and the 6-5 final.

"I wish to thank all my coaches who helped me with the Indians and all of the parents," added Hornung. "It was wonderful to experience a Championship victory as a coach in a Park you grew up in."

Help for Homeowners in Foreclosure

New York State Law requires that we send you this notice about the foreclosure process. Please read it carefully.

Summons and Complaint
You are in danger of losing your home. If you fail to respond to the summons and complaint in this foreclosure action, you may lose your home. Please read the summons and complaint carefully. You should immediately contact an attorney or your local legal aid office to obtain advice on how to protect yourself.

Sources of Information and Assistance

The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure. In addition to seeking assistance from an attorney or legal aid office, there are government agencies and non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about possible options, including trying to work with your lender during this process.

To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by the New York State Department of Financial Services at (800) 342-3736 or visit the Department's website at <http://www.dfs.ny.gov>.

Rights and Obligations

YOU ARE NOT REQUIRED TO LEAVE YOUR HOME AT THIS TIME. You have the right to stay in your home during the foreclosure process. You are not required to leave your home unless and until your property is sold at auction pursuant to a judgment of foreclosure and sale.

Regardless of whether you choose to remain in your home, YOU ARE REQUIRED TO TAKE CARE OF YOUR PROPERTY and pay property taxes in accordance with state and local law.

Foreclosure Rescue Scams

Be careful of people who approach you with offers to "save" your home. There are individuals who watch for notices of foreclosure actions in order to unfairly profit from a homeowner's distress. You should be extremely careful about any such promises and any suggestions that you pay them a fee or sign over your deed. State law requires anyone offering such services for profit to enter into a contract which fully describes the services they will perform and fees they will charge, and which prohibits them from taking any money from you until they have completed all such promised services. 33-36
