

17th Annual National Buffalo Wing Festival

Festival season comes to a close paying homage to Buffalo’s own renowned chicken wing.

The National Buffalo Wing Festival, one of the country’s most beloved food festivals, returns to Coca-Cola Field in Buffalo, New York Sept. 1st - 2nd to celebrate its 17th year. The festival, which attracted over 50,000 attendees from all 50 states and 44 different countries last year, will feature more than 25 local, regional, national, and international eateries serving over 100 styles of chicken wings as well as other festival food favorites.

“As the birthplace of the chicken wing, Buffalo pushes the celebration of the wing to greater heights every year via the National Buffalo Chicken Wing Festival. Now in its 17th year, it’s become a must-attend event for local residents and wing fans from across the U.S., Canada and the world. I’m looking forward to another fantastic wing-filled weekend on September 1st and 2nd,” said Buffalo Mayor Byron W. Brown.

Back by popular demand, the mechanical chicken wing ride will be at Wingfest. Similar to a mechanical bull ride, except shaped in the form of a chicken wing, attendees can challenge their friends and see if they can ride like a real cowboy. The ride is

North Buffalo Baseball Has Been A Real Hit This Season

Reds major boys team, ages 11-12, won Championship over Mets 13-6 on August 7th.

By Bill Snyder

While the guys in New York, Cleveland or Toronto still have two months to play before their playoffs start, the boys and girls in Shoshone Park have had their seasons wrap up faster than you can try to steal second on a passed ball behind the plate. What started out back in early May with over 49 teams playing nightly and on Saturday has finished happily for seven teams winning division championships. Here are your winners in the house

North Buffalo Youth Baseball Players Meet Buffalo Hockey Player

Rand Avenue residents Sean and Corey McCrone, left to right, meet Pat LaFontaine of the Buffalo Sabres at the recent County Executive's Baseball Tournament. Sean, 8, plays with the Hertel-North Park Rookie League, which lost a three-way tie for the division championship due to total points. Corey, age 6, plays in the Hertel-North Park T-ball League, which did not take part in the tournament. LaFontaine visited with players after throwing out the first ball.

D District Chief's Monthly Meeting

This month Chief Barba of D District will conduct his monthly meeting on Wednesday, September 5th at 11:00 am. The meeting is open to the community and everyone is welcome. Block clubs and members of neighborhood associations are especially encouraged to attend. Keeping the lines of communication open between law enforcement and community residents is an important tool in fighting crime. Do your part and come to a meeting at D District Station, 669 Hertel Avenue.

National Preparedness Month

Disaster restoration specialists remind Buffalo-area property owners that September is National Preparedness Month. This annual event, sponsored by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), provides families and businesses with the information and resources they need to plan for, react to, survive, and recover from an emergency, before the emergency happens. (<https://www.ready.gov/september>)

For National Preparedness Month 2018, themed "Disasters happen, prepare now, learn how," FEMA has prepared a week-by-week calendar of recommended actions property owners can take to be ready if disaster does strike:

Week 1. Create an emergency plan that includes signing up for emergency alerts and making contingency plans for shelter, evacuation, and family communication.

Week 2. Learn life-saving skills. CPR is a good place to start, but also be certain you know how to turn off the utilities in your home and ensure your smoke and CO detectors are properly installed and working.

Disasters Happen

PREPARE NOW LEARN HOW

National Preparedness Month 2018

Week 3. Check your insurance coverage. Once the emergency is over, appropriate and sufficient insurance will be key to getting your life back to normal, or at least on track.

Week 4. Plan financially for the possibility of a disaster. This goes beyond having a "rainy day fund" for immediate needs. Gather and organize important home, business, insurance, financial, and personal documents and keep them up-to-date and stored in a secure, water-and-fire proof location.

"There's a difference between surviving a disaster and recovering from a disaster," says Sue Steen, Servpro Industries, Inc., chief executive officer. "Families and businesses who take the time to create both a short- and long-term plan to deal with the unexpected are better able to respond quickly if the unexpected happens, which can improve their chances of survival. Having key information at their fingertips in the aftermath of the emergency can set them on the path to recovery more quickly and with less stress."

When In Rome, Behave

A few years back my wife and I went on a three week vacation to Europe. Flew into Nice, France for the first four days. My model daughter had a male friend in Nice and this young man was going to show us the better side of Southern France. And that he did. His interest in my daughter I am sure motivated him to extend himself to make sure our time there was a delight. He spent the four days with us and we were shown things and places I am sure most tourist do not get to see. Southern France is beautiful with beaches and crystal clear water. Quaint villages and charming people. Nothing like Paris where Americans are not well liked.

At the end of the most joyous four days we were on to Rome, Italy. We had purchased EuroRail tickets, which meant we could hop on a train anywhere in Europe and ride to wherever. It was a direct ride no stops and the fastest, but it was an overnight train. This was our first experience on EuroRail in a foreign country. A train ride is a train ride, right? Not on this train. We were warned to keep our luggage close to us at all time. Even lock it if we could. Lots of looting and bad people. That seemed unusual and different. Not like that in the good old USA.

As we boarded the train we noticed in each compartment we passed the luggage was chained with a padlock.

Now we really wondered how safe was this trip going to be. Overnight in the dark into Italy. Did not take too long to see it was going to be quite a venture. Just before we pulled out, two soldiers with automatic weapons came on and checked each booth. That also was new as seldom at that time did you see heavily armed officers. Grim and solemn looking with no smile or greeting, just a curious stare at each and every passenger. Actually I regretted seeing them leave the train, as then it was every man for himself.

Once we left the station it didn't take long to find out what a scary ride this was going to be. As I walked down the narrow aisle to the bathroom, I ran into a mid-eastern man decked in Arab garb. Seeing I was an American he immediately confronted me. American, he asked, not in a nice tone exhaling a drag of smoke from his cigarette. Yes I am American, do you have a problem with that, I asked. His glare was enough to make me have to go worst that I had to before. Fortunately I stood a foot taller than him so he just passed. I hurried to the bathroom.

So here it is dark and the train is moving. We had just left and already I wished we were there. Soon afterwards there was a knock on the door. How could a simple knock be so scary? But it was. Turned out it was a young USA college girl from the next room. There were six of them and terrified of the long ride without protection. They asked if I would please sleep in their compartment as they wanted an American man with them. Macho man to the rescue. Of course my wife came with me. Here in this little space slept eight people and all their luggage. It was so tight we could not have fitted a grasshopper in there. I knew I snored so I stayed awake all night with only room to half sit. Besides, I was on guard for any potential danger that may occur. Nothing happened.

We arrived safely in Rome at about 7 AM. I was bushed from not sleeping all night. We went to check into our hotel only to be told our room would not be ready 'til 1 PM. The counterman suggested we go to see the coliseum as it was within walking distance. That we did and returned about 11:30. Still our room was not ready. Too bad as I was so tired I went into the lobby and crashed. They said I snored but I did not hear it. All I know is that within 15 minutes they found the penthouse was available to us. Not what we paid for, but I'll take it. Could it have been my snoring in the lobby? All I know is we could see all of Rome from our balcony. The Vatican, the coliseum, It was magnificent. Maybe this was a payback for helping those girls. But really, I didn't mind. I am sure any red blooded American male would have done what I did.

Do you have a birthday greeting you would like to see here? Birthdays, anniversaries, interesting pictures, short stories or even a 500 word column of interest to your neighbors. Send them to me and I will see what I can do. Nothing political or controversial. Send to Jbortze@aol.com players and for some, the first time a boy or girl will receive such an award to take home and cherish.

It's been a successful season for the 62 year old North Buffalo League. Earlier this summer, meetings were held between league president Donald Morris and two members of the Buffalo Common Council whose districts include Shoshone Park. Delaware district council member Joel Feroletto and University district council member Rasheed N.C. Wyatt were in contact with Morris to talk of making baseball and softball a year round event in North Buffalo. This would surely make Shoshone Park a Field of Dreams.

HAPPY LABOR DAY!

FROM THE BUFFALO ROCKET

Labor Day in the United States is a public holiday celebrated on the first Monday in September. It honors the American labor movement and the contributions that workers have made to the strength, prosperity, laws and well-being of the country. It is the Monday of the long weekend known as Labor Day Weekend and it is considered the unofficial end of summer in the United States. It is recognized as a federal holiday. Beginning in the late 19th century, as the trade union and labor movements grew, trade unionists proposed that a day be set aside to celebrate labor. "Labor Day" was promoted by the Central Labor Union and the Knights of Labor, which organized the first parade in New York City. In 1887, Oregon was the first state of the United States to make it an official public holiday. By the time it became an official federal holiday in 1894, thirty states in the United States officially celebrated Labor Day.

Tips for Safe Travel

Summer vacations are the norm for full-fledged families with work and school schedules, but retirees prefer the leisurely, less costly pace of off-season escapes, says Dan Weber, president of the Association of Mature American Citizens. Thus, he says, the start of the peak travel season for senior citizens begins after Labor Day.

“While the rest of the world goes back to school and back to work, the most popular vacation destinations are not so crowded and in many cases less expensive. These are ideal conditions for seniors,” Weber explains.

There are a lot of reasons travel is at the top of the lists for retirees. Those who can afford it want to see the world and fly or sail off to exotic destinations now that they have the time. Even those on limited budgets can satisfy their wanderlust by taking road trips.

Once you’ve picked a destination that’s right for you, here are a few tips:

- Pack a sufficient supply of the medications you take in your carry-on luggage so that they will be easily accessible when you need them. And, make a list of the meds, just in case you run out or lose them.
- Check with your insurance provider to make sure you can receive insured medical attention at your destination if and when you might need it. If your insurance does not cover you, purchase supplemental coverage that will be available at your destination or destinations.

- Make sure you pack comfortable walking shoes and, if you are headed into a sunny clime, get yourself headwear that will protect you.

- Provide a family member and/or a trusted neighbor with an itinerary, complete with the names and locations of the hotels at which you’ll be staying.

- If you are flying to your destination and have any dietary restrictions, contact your airline to ensure they can provide meals that meet those restrictions.

- Check that your passports are in order if you are traveling abroad and if you don’t have a current passport, apply for it giving yourself time for it to be processed.

- Take a spare pair of glasses—particularly prescription glasses, just in case of breakage or loss.

- If you have a long flight to your destination, be sure to periodically walk the aisles during your flight lest you fall prey to Deep Vein Thrombosis.

- Use a money belt or safety pouch to carry your valuables, including your passport, travelers’ checks and cash. Leave expensive jewelry at home.

- Make copies of all the documents you carry, including your passport, airline tickets, etc. Leave one set with a family member or a trusted friend; hold on to a second set—just in case you misplace an original.

This Week's Featured Friend:

CHINA

Say hello to China! This happy wiggly lady is appx 7yrs old with a lot of youth still in her. She was surrendered with her housemate Kong, who is also available for adoption and ready to find a new life and home. She has an adorable smile and super cute ears that will just make your day. She loves to give kisses, love and snuggles to anyone letting her do so. China is a little unneutered right now at the shelter in her kennel due to the overstimulation and noise around her. She might prefer to be in a home that will let her chill out, and doesn't expect her to be the life of a big party. Just like people, some dogs prefer the social spotlight, while others prefer a few good friends and pizza night. China girl loves to run in the yard and take walks and then settle down after to some pets and scratches behind those ears. "Older" dogs still make amazing pets and China still has a lot of life and love to give.

enclosed in a large cushioned plastic pool to ensure safety for all riders and is speed controlled based on the age of the rider. Prizes will be given to the five riders that last the longest on the wing.

The 2018 lineup of restaurants and eateries is shaping up to be impressive with seven new restaurants coming in from as far as Portland, Oregon. Twenty-Eight food booths including 19 wing eateries will be serving over 100 different styles of wings as well as additional "Buffalo Style" favorite foods. The festival will feature two international restaurants for the first time.

The wing restaurants will compete in the annual National Sauce-Off Competition for bragging rights to the best wing sauces in America. The competition includes eight different categories of wing styles including traditional medium, hot and extra-hot as well as creative, traditional BBQ, creative BBQ, creative sweet and creative spicy.

One of the annual highlights of the festival weekend is the United States Chicken Wing Eating Championship. This popular event, sanctioned by the International Federation of Competitive Eating, happens September 2nd at 5 pm. This year, the competition takes on epic proportions as top-ranked competitive eater Joey Chestnut returns to defend his title. Last year, Chestnut devoured 188 wings in 12 minutes to take the title. Crowd favorite and five-time Wingfest World Champion Sonya Thomas will be on hand to battle the field.

In addition, the pros will compete in the Russell's Buffalo Buffet Bowl on September 1st at 6:00 pm. The battle challenges eaters to consume five pounds of some of Buffalo's favorite foods including pizza and roast beef on week.

Other wing-eating competitions during the festival include the Frank's Red Hot Amateur Chicken Wing Eating Contest, Hot Wing Eating Contest with wings from Wing's Army, and the College Wing Eating Competition.

The festival benefits Alzheimer's Association Western New York Chapter, Food Bank of WNY and Meals on Wheels for Western New York Inc. The festival has raised more than $365,000 since its inception in 2002. For more information visit www.buffalowing.com

Help for Homeowners in Foreclosure

New York State Law requires that we send you this notice about the foreclosure process. Please read it carefully.

Summons and Complaint
You are in danger of losing your home. If you fail to respond to the summons and complaint in this foreclosure action, you may lose your home. Please read the summons and complaint carefully. You should immediately contact an attorney or your local legal aid office to obtain advice on how to protect yourself.

Sources of Information and Assistance

The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure. In addition to seeking assistance from an attorney or legal aid office, there are government agencies and non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about possible options, including trying to work with your lender during this process.

To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by the New York State Department of Financial Services at (800) 342-3736 or visit the Department's website at <http://www.dfs.ny.gov>.

Rights and Obligations

YOU ARE NOT REQUIRED TO LEAVE YOUR HOME AT THIS TIME. You have the right to stay in your home during the foreclosure process. You are not required to leave your home unless and until your property is sold at auction pursuant to a judgment of foreclosure and sale.

Regardless of whether you choose to remain in your home, YOU ARE REQUIRED TO TAKE CARE OF YOUR PROPERTY and pay property taxes in accordance with state and local law.

Foreclosure Rescue Scams

Be careful of people who approach you with offers to "save" your home. There are individuals who watch for notices of foreclosure actions in order to unfairly profit from a homeowner's distress. You should be extremely careful about any such promises and any suggestions that you pay them a fee or sign over your deed. State law requires anyone offering such services for profit to enter into a contract which fully describes the services they will perform and fees they will charge, and which prohibits them from taking any money from you until they have completed all such promised services. 33-36
