

This year, Easter Sunday will fall on April 21. Easter traditions vary around the globe - for most, it is a day of religious reflection, and time to relax with family.

Easter is a Christian holiday that celebrates the belief in the resurrection of Jesus Christ. In the New Testament of the Bible, the event is said to have occurred three days after Jesus was crucified by the Romans and died in roughly 30 A.D. The holiday concludes the “Passion of Christ,” a series of events and holidays that begins with Lent, a 40-day period of fasting, prayer and sacrifice, and ends with Holy Week, which includes Holy Thursday (the celebration of Jesus’ Last Supper with his 12 Apostles), Good Friday (on which Jesus’ crucifixion is observed), and Easter Sunday.

Easter services will be held throughout the world this weekend.

The following is the schedule for St. Joseph Cathedral, 50 Franklin St. Buffalo, NY. Holy Thursday, 7:00 pm - Mass of the Lord’s Supper, Adoration until 10 pm in the Lady Chapel. Good Friday, 7:30 am - Morning Prayer; Noon - Celebration of the Lord’s Passion. Holy Saturday, 7:30 am - Morning Prayer; 8:00 pm - Easter Vigil. Easter Sunday, 8:00 am - Mass for Easter Day; 10:30 am - Solemn Mass for Easter.

The following is the schedule for St. Rose, 500 Parker Ave, Buffalo, NY and St. Mark’s Church’s. 399 Woodward Ave, Buffalo, NY. Holy Thursday Mass of the Last Supper; 7:00 pm at St. Rose. Memories

From the Buffalo Rocket archives

Not as it seems!
This picture was in the archives but I do not think it made the paper. Often our photographer would take more than one picture on an assignment and we would pick the best to print. This photo was taken at the wrong time and at the wrong angle giving the impression the young man was expressing his displeasure with his mother. In reality she had centered a football and he had kicked it. Sometimes pictures do lie.

Solidarity

Downtown Buffalo was lit in the colors of the French flag on Tuesday night, in a show of solidarity with the people of France, and French people residing in Buffalo, after a fire engulfed the iconic Notre Dame Cathedral. Mayor Brown also asked the Buffalo Illumination Team (BuffaloLIT), to include the dome at City Hall, the Peace Bridge and Electric Tower, to light its iconic structures and buildings in the colors of the French flag.

Players With WNY Connections Thrive

Niagara Falls native Adam Clendening was part of NHL history on the blueline when the Columbus Bluejackets eliminated the NHL's top team the Tampa Bay Lightning Tuesday night in Columbus, Ohio. The Jackets swept Tampa 4-0 in the opening round, the first time the NHL Presidents Trophy winners were ever eliminated without ever winning a game.

Clendening had started the season on the blueline for Columbus but after four games he ended up spending rest of the season with Cleveland in the American Hockey League. He had an excellent season in the AHL playing 45 games and leading the team with 33 assists, a plus 18 and 98 penalty minutes.

But Sunday night he was on the third defensive pairing as the Jackets beat the Lightning 3-1 and again Tuesday for their history making 7-3 win.

Clendening has played 90 regular season NHL games with seven different team; Chicago, Vancouver, Pittsburgh, Edmonton, New York Rangers, Arizona, and Columbus along with 375 AHL games. Clendening also helped the Cleveland Monsters get into the AHL playoffs this week.

Columbus star defenseman Set Jones had high praise for Clendening after Sunday's game, "I thought Clenner played unbelievable tonight. He got pucks to the net, played physical in the D zone. He was a big part of it tonight for us, played some very good minutes for us. I thought he stepped in and did awesome."

Former Sabres Robin Lehner was front and center as his New York Islanders surprised the three time Stanley Cup Pittsburgh Penguins with another four game sweep. Lehner surrendered only six goals in four games against the likes of Sydney Crosby, Evgeni Malkin and Phil Kessel.

The NHL playoffs are a showcase of the leagues best teams and they have demonstrated a fast paced physical two way style of play which is certainly foreign to our local NHL team. The Blue Jackets and Islanders have shown that a dedication to defense and a team first mentality can produce success. The Sabres are so far far away from this caliber of play that it's hard to fathom how they will ever be able to compete at that level.

Local players Hayley Scamurra and Emily Pfalzer won Gold medals in a controversial game at the IIHF World Women's Hockey Championship in Espoo Finland. An apparent goal for Finland in overtime by Petra Nieminen was disallowed for goalie interference after a lengthy 14 minute video review. The players had to pick up their equipment and resume the game. Fans who chanted "Suomi!" and waved blue and white flags throughout the game and erupted into jubilation after the apparent winning goal rained boos down on the Americans when they were given their medals.

Believe It Or Not

Having been born at the tail end of the depression and growing up during the war besides being one of eight children, an allowance was unheard of. You scratched for any income you could. Shoveling walks, standing by the super market with a wagon hoping to help some elderly lady bring her groceries home for a dime. Dime would get you a coke at Sweetland's with the boys. Got my first steady job delivering the Courier Express, Buffalo's morning daily and Sunday paper at 12 years old. Had to arise at 5 am every morning 7 days a week, but it gave income and even able to help at home. When the West Side gangs tried to give me "protection" for a certain amount of money. I wanted no part of it. Worked too hard to give them anything. Tough times. Did that till I was 15 then got my first job with a paycheck working on the Ferry boat that went back and forth across the Niagara river to Canada. Made $1 an hour, Big money back then and it was a good summer. However, when I returned to school in the Fall, found myself desperate for revenue again. Could not wait till I was 16 to quit school and get a job. I had the taste of having money. It was ok with my Mom as it meant added income to the household, so I left in my junior year. Worked for Remington Rand at the same rate, a dollar an hour. Worked till I got a job at the gas company reading meters. Also worked nights at a chrome plating factory. Terrible job and dangerous. They would never allow those working conditions now. Chemicals and minor explosions. Enough to give you burns but not life threatening. Working the two jobs I was able to save enough to buy a car. $700 for a 1941 black Chevy sedan. When I was young someone gave me a rabbit's foot for luck. Carried it around for years and it was the first thing to go on the key chain of my new car. Wanted all the good luck I can get. Strange good luck symbol as it was not good luck for the rabbit. Added a small horseshoe with a four-leaf clover in the middle of it. All good luck charms and you believed if you wanted that they work. Back then we had all kinds of beliefs and suspicions. Don't walk under a ladder or have a black cat walk in front of you, that was bad luck. If you broke a mirror it was seven years bad luck but who kept track. If your palm itched, you were going to come into money. If your nose itched, you were going to kiss a fool. If you were telling a lie you crossed your fingers and it was ok, or it could be making a wish. Like wishing on the first star or first Robin in Spring or ending with the top half of the wishbone in a chicken meant your wish would come true. Where did these all

41 Chevy. First car. Nicknamed it "Chickmobile" come from? 13 is an unlucky number. Friday the 13th and a full moon is bad. Some buildings do not have a 13th floor. Goes from 12 to 14. Imagine believing so strongly that you skip a floor. Don't step in the cracks on the sidewalks. If you are walking with a friend or relative do not let an object make you split, both go on one side or the other. St Christopher protects our cars; St Anthony helps us find lost objects. Let us not forget St Joseph who helps sell our houses. Found him buried in the yard at the last house we bought. To really stretch our beliefs how about an older gentleman with a white beard in a red suit coming down your chimney to bring you gifts. In a sled with reindeer that can fly. Standing under the mistletoe meant you were going to be kissed. Even better a rabbit brings you candy at Easter and hides eggs. Like I said we believe what we want to believe. The good or the bad. I want to believe

Ask Rusty- Married Couple Confused About Social Security Benefits

Dear Rusty: We are a little confused about husband and wife Social Security benefits. I am 63 years old (born 1955) and still employed full-time. My wife turns 60 this month. She is retired military and has been working in the civilian sector for a number of years now. She has always earned more than me. We are confused as to how Social Security payments between us will work. I know I will start to collect before she does. Can you help with an explanation? Signed: Confused

Dear Confused: Social Security benefits for married couples can, indeed, be confusing, especially if you both still work. If your wife has always been the higher-earner, you could possibly be entitled to a spousal benefit from her record, but only if your own benefit amount at your full retirement age (FRA) is less than 50% of your wife's benefit amount at her FRA.

Since you say you will claim Social Security before your higher-earning wife, any spousal benefit you may be entitled to will not take effect until your wife starts her benefits. To be clear, a spousal benefit is only due if that amount is more than you are entitled to on your own work record; otherwise you only get your own benefit. If a spousal benefit is due, what essentially happens is that you get your own Social Security benefit plus a "spousal boost" to bring you up to what you are entitled to as a spouse. The spousal benefit can be 50% of the higher earner's FRA benefit amount (if that is more than your own) but you only get the full 50% if it starts at your full retirement age; otherwise it is less than 50%. That's because any time any Social Security benefit is taken earlier than your FRA it is actuarially reduced according to the number of months before your FRA that it is taken.

If you (or your wife) collect Social Security before you have reached your full retirement age and you continue to work, you will be subject to an annual earnings limit ($17,640 for 2019) which, if exceeded, will cause SS to withhold benefits equal to $1 for every $2 you are over the limit. Since they don't withhold partial benefits, that could mean some months without benefits. That is true up to the year you reach your full retirement age when the earnings limit goes up by more than 2.5 times and the penalty is less ($1 for every $3 over the limit). Then, once you reach your full retirement age, there is no longer a limit to how much you can earn while collecting benefits. And for clarity, if you have benefits withheld because you exceed the earnings limit, you'll get time credit for those months when you reach your full retirement age, which will somewhat increase your benefit amount at your FRA. So, your plans for working and earning should be considered in deciding when both of you should claim your SS benefits.

To summarize, if you have both earned at least 40 SS credits, you are both entitled to your own Social Security benefit. If half of your wife's SS benefit at her full retirement age is more than your own benefit at your full retirement age, you'll also get a spousal boost equal to the difference. But if either of you claim benefits early they will be reduced, and if your spousal benefit starts before your FRA it will also be reduced. And don't forget, working before you reach your full retirement age will subject you to Social Security's annual earnings limit.
