America's Greatest Chicken Wing Party

The Wingfest will not physically take place at Sahlen Field this year out of an abundance of caution due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

The National Buffalo Wing Festival will pivot in 2020 and grow into a nationwide celebration of Buffalo, New York's most iconic food – "America's Greatest Chicken Wing Party" – that will serve as a fundraiser for Food Banks in more than 50 major cities across the United States. The new concept will take place in October as part of the newly created "National Chicken Wing Month," according to Drew Cerza, founder of the festival.

The Wingfest, which has been held every Labor Day weekend in Downtown Buffalo since 2002, will not physically take place this year at Sahlen Field out of an abundance of caution due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Instead, festival organizers will coordinate with chicken wing fans and Buffalo expats from across the United States to host chicken wing parties in major U.S. cities that have a total population of more than 160 million people during October.

Since its founding, the Wingfest has raised approximately $400,000 for local charities with most going to hunger relief agencies like FeedMore WNY (formerly Continued on page four.

Ex Sabre Robin Lehner Shines in NHL Playoffs

For Robin Lehner the 2020 NHL playoffs have become the latest show-place for his elite goaltending skills. He was chosen by the las Vegas Golden Knights as their playoff starter in the nets over three time Stanley Cup champion Marc-Andre Fleury. Lehner has started all but two of the Golden Knights' playoff games and has put the club one win from their second trip to the Western Conference Final in three seasons.

Vegas coach Peter De-Boer said he planned on rotating between Lehner and Marc-Andre Fleury in the playoffs but that hasn't happened. Lehner has played 10 of 12 playoff games for the Golden Knights, winning seven and posting a 2.08 GAA and 0.918 save percentage with two shutouts, both coming in the current series against the Vancouver Canucks. Lehner and the Knight lead the series three games to two.

Lehner was traded from Chicago to Vegas just before the trade deadline. He got off to a hot start with Vegas before the NHL paused the season on March 12th, going 3-0-0 with a 1.67 GAA and a .940 save percentage. He was 16-10-5 as a Hawk in the 2019-20 regular season with a 3.01 goals-against average and a .918 save percentage before the trade.

Despite being a strong performer in Buffalo, finishing 20th in NHL save percentage for a team that surrendered the most shots on goal in the league, the Sabres declined to offer Lehner a contract and he became a free agent in the 2018 off season. Lehner then signed a one year contract with the New York Islanders and his career took off.

He was a finalist for the Vezina trophy as the best NHL goalie. His .930 save percentage was single season franchise record. He won a career high 25 games, recorded a 2.13 goals-against average and had six shutouts. He and his partner in the nets Thomas Greiss won the Jennings trophy as the for the lowest team GAA. He also won the Bill Masterton awarded annually to the player who best exemplifies the qualities of perseverance, sportsmanship, and dedication to ice hockey. In spite of his success the league engraved the trophy with the wrong team, reading "Robin Lehner, New York Rangers."

After failing to reach an agreement for a second season the Islanders, Lehner signed a one year contract for $5 million with the Blackhawks as a free agent on July 1. He led the NHL in save percentage for much of the first half and finished tied for ninth blocking 92% of the shots he faced.

Labor Day 2020, End of Summer

Traditionally Labor Day is the official end of summer. What a summer is has been. Just in case you did not know it, 2020 had the second warmest summer in our history. Average temperature was 73 degrees which I believe takes in the day and night readings. If you have been here for the last three months, and you had to be as you are not allowed to go anywhere, you know we have had really nice weather. Mostly in the eighties during the day and fairly cool at night. We hit the nineties a few times but it was seldom uncomfortably hot. Some may have been a little warm but overall the weather has been good to us in a time when we needed to spend a lot of time outdoors. How many times do we remember cold and wet summers when we lusted for a sunshiny day? We had plenty of those this summer. Probably a record number of back yard cookouts, courtesy of the pandemic.

This could also be considered the worst summer as far as just living through it. The whole world has been hit by this terrible Colvid 19 and has affected all of our lives. Things have changed for everyone, no one has escaped the ramifications that the virus has caused. It has been so bad there are doubts we will ever return to the life we knew before it hit, just months ago. Lock down and layoffs were not only needed but demanded.

People were not allowed to leave their homes for weeks at a time. Not even to go grocery shopping. For some reason toilet paper and paper products became a non existing commodity. Online business thrived as the only way to get anything was to order online and have it delivered. You could not go out to eat as all restaurants were closed completely. Soon they developed a system of pick-up and delivery only. At least it kept them alive and a few people working.

Some people took the threat more seriously than others. The paranoid ones, no one was allowed in their house no matter what and no way would they leave. Everything was done online. Others took it as just another bump in the road. Try to do what they tell you and live with it. Like any other time in our history, we adjusted to the circumstances. As I said before the nice weather allowed us to eat outdoors. Restaurants with existing patios were opened first with outdoor seating only. Huge tents popped up at some of the bigger restaurants to accommodate eager patrons anxious to leave their homes and eat out. Again we thank the Lord for the good weather. The sun shone bright on a world in drowning in gloom and doom. It was still tough for the restaurant business and some will never open again. The world will change.

A three day weekend and the unofficial end of summer is certainly cause to have a backyard cookout.

It is unfortunate that this wonderful summer weather could not be enjoyed to its fullest. Public swimming pools were closed and so were the beaches. Travel to anywhere was restricted. We could not even cross the bridge to Canada. That has never happened in my lifetime. We got a taste of what freedoms we had and the ability to just go anywhere anytime. Even crossing state lines had its demands.

No one knows what the future will bring. Sports are not as we knew it. Movies and entertainment is not as we knew it. Employment is not as we knew it. The Government has made it easier to get through the financial crisis the virus has caused but that will end and someone will have to pay the bill. What we reap today we will need to pay for tomorrow. There is light at the end of the tunnel but it is to be seen how bright it will shine. The world has been tarnished, not just here, not just this country but almost everywhere. It is going to take some time to recover when this is over but we will adjust.

Have a good and safe Labor day and remember it is always darkest before the dawn.

Have a Safe and Happy Labor Day Weekend!

the Food Bank and Meals on Wheels). These chicken wing parties will allow the festival's fundraising efforts to expand nationwide at a time of critical need for Food Banks. The parties will also focus on boosting business at chicken wing eateries across the country, of which many are struggling during the pandemic.

Buffalo Bills Backers Fan Clubs in each city will kick off the month on October 4th by hosting watch parties at their favorite restaurants and bars during the Buffalo Bills vs Las Vegas Raiders game. Each wing party will serve as a fundraiser for the local Food Bank in that city, Cerza said.

Throughout October, Americans are then encouraged to host their own wing eating gatherings as professional or college football watch parties at their favorite restaurants and bars or at their home and post their images to social media using the hashtag #wingparty2020. Every party that registers will be entered into a contest to attend the 2021 Wingfest as VIP judges. Attendees will be asked to put together some money and create a donation for their local Food Bank. All participants will be asked to adhere to the COVID-19 public health guidelines in place in their respective communities.

"This is an unprecedented reimagining of an American food festival. No other such event has ever attempted something like this before," Cerza said. "For years, I've heard from Wingfest attendees from across the United States who wanted us to bring a celebration of wings to their hometown. This year, we're doing just that - all while raising money for a great cause."

Del Reid, Bills Mafia co-founder, said he was excited to mobilize the Buffalo Bills Backers Clubs and the "Bills Mafia" - expats who retain a strong affinity and enthusiasm for Buffalo and now live across the United States - for America's Greatest Chicken Wing Party.

"Buffalonians are always eager to step up and help out," Reid said. "We're excited to get together and feast on our favorite food from our hometown this fall for a great cause."

Tara A. Ellis, President and CEO of FeedMore WNY, the hunger-relief organization formed by the merger of the Food Bank of WNY and Meals on Wheels for WNY, said she is thrilled to work with other food banks across the United States to turn America's Greatest Chicken Wing Party into a nationwide fundraiser. According to Feeding America, one in six people throughout the nation may experience food insecurity in 2020 as a result of the pandemic. FeedMore WNY has seen the need for food assistance surge throughout its service area of Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Erie and Niagara counties in recent months, where the food insecurity rate is expected to increase by 44 percent in 2020.

"This is such a creative way to celebrate Buffalo and to keep the much-loved National Wing Festival alive during these historic and unprecedented times," Ellis said. "The Wingfest has been an outstanding partner to our organization over the last two decades, and we're thrilled to have found a way to continue building on that relationship at a time when our organization - and those like ours across the country - need help the most."

Ask Rusty - Should We Get Married or Just Live Together?

Dear Rusty: My question is about benefits and getting married. I am a retired man, 65-years-old, and collecting Social Security plus 2 pensions. My girlfriend will turn 62 in October of 2020 and plans to apply for Social Security benefits on her 62nd birthday. If we were to get married, would we be affected money wise? Or should we just live together? Signed: Contemplating Marriage

Dear Contemplating Marriage: Your own Social Security benefit will not be affected in any way if you get married, unless your potential new bride is a very high earner and her Social Security entitlement at her full retirement age (which is 66 years and 8 months) is more than twice the full benefit amount you were entitled to at your full retirement age (even though you claimed your SS earlier). In that case, you would become eligible for a spousal benefit from your new wife after you are married for one year.

If, however, your potential bride is the lower earner and claims at 62 but is entitled to a Social Security benefit at her full retirement age (FRA) that is less than 50% of your FRA benefit amount, your new wife may be entitled to a "spousal boost" from you after you are married for a year. I cannot tell you the answer to those questions without knowing your respective benefit amounts at each of your full retirement ages.

You may also wish to consider potential survivor benefits. If you are married and one spouse dies, the surviving spouse is entitled to 100% of the amount the deceased spouse was collecting at their death, if the surviving spouse has reached full retirement age (otherwise the survivor benefit is reduced for claiming it early). The surviving spouse gets the survivor benefit if that benefit is more than they are entitled to on their own.

In any case, neither of you would be eligible for a Social Security spousal benefit or survivor benefit from the other unless you are married (you must be married for at least one year to get a spousal benefit and at least 9 months for a survivor benefit).

Note that so-called "common law" marriage isn't recognized in most U.S. states, and Social Security goes by state law on that topic. The only states which currently recognize common law marriage are Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Montana, New Hampshire, South Carolina, Texas, and Utah (and the District of Columbia). So, unless you were to live in one of those states, or in D.C., cohabitating would not be considered a "marriage" for the purposes of Social Security benefits, and no spousal or survivor benefits would be available to either of you.

National Fuel Warns of Collections Scam

to discuss account matters unless they are related to collection activities.

- National Fuel employees DO NOT ask customers to replace gas meters at their expense. Gas meters are National Fuel's property and its responsibility to replace or repair.

- National Fuel employees DO visit customers' homes for operational purposes, including meter reading, construction work, and gas emergencies. Company representatives always carry photo identification. When visiting a customer's home, a representative's identification card should be visibly noticeable, if it is not, the customer should ask the representative to see their ID.

National Fuel Gas Distribution Corporation is the Utility segment of National Fuel Gas Company, a diversified energy company that is engaged in a number of natural gas-related activities. This Week's Featured Friend: RUBY

Ruby is a lucky little girl living in foster with a professional trainer thanks to our Train-A-Bull program. She has a big personality in a little package. Thanks to our Train-A-Bull program she is learning to curb her enthusiasm and behave even when excited. She's also learning to politely interact and play with other dogs because she comes on very strong and can easily annoy her K9 playmate. We think a home without cats or other small animals is the safest choice. We also think a family with older kids that will be active participants and ready to help continue her training in the home is her best bet for success. As a Train-A-Bull we offer support to her after her adoption to make sure the transition is smooth. Ruby is about two years old, around 40 pounds and absolutely beautiful. We love her and appreciate her firework personality and are dedicated to finding the right adopter. If you think you are that person please contact us to talk more and set up a meet and greet with her. Email us here or at cbas\_sponsorship@yahoo.com.
