Hertel Holiday Walk

The Hertel Business Association is excited to announce that they will be offering their Annual Christmas Walk to promote Hertel for the Holidays for the 25th year in a row. The event will take place Friday, December 4th and Saturday, December 5th from 6pm to 9pm.

While the tree lighting will be happening, they are not offering it as a gathering to adhere to the current NYS Health Regulations. This is in an effort to be conscious of social distancing, to space out shoppers and to limit large gatherings. They are reminding businesses to be mindful of operating at 50% capacity, clearly posting safety protocols including the wearing of masks, hand sanitation areas and markers to indicate customers keep 6 feet in distance. It is the responsibility of each business to ensure that they are following the protocols put into place to slow the spread and prevent future closings. It is also advised that no drink, food or goodies be provided or passed out to avoid any kind of unnecessary contact. The exception to this is of course restaurants who also must adhere to providing only take out and outdoor dining with a limit of 4 individuals per table.

For this year only businesses will be allowed to have a table in front of their storefront to sell products without having to pursue obtaining a permit. We are hoping this will be an added incentive to encourage shoppers to come out knowing they can shop at a safe distance. Last, Santa and Mrs. Claus will be out again this year but will not be visiting any establishments but instead traveling Hertel Avenue in their sleigh to greet shoppers while spreading Christmas cheer and music.

They appreciate what every business and individual who supports, lives and works in this community offers. They are here to support you in any way that they can.

Have a Safe and Healthy Holiday Season.

The Latest On An NHL Season For 2021

While there is no news reported last week this is a sign of work being done in planning for the 2021 season. The league faces some big challenges here; 1. Covid 19 2. Manage finances 3. Get the owners in line in a season of financial hardship.

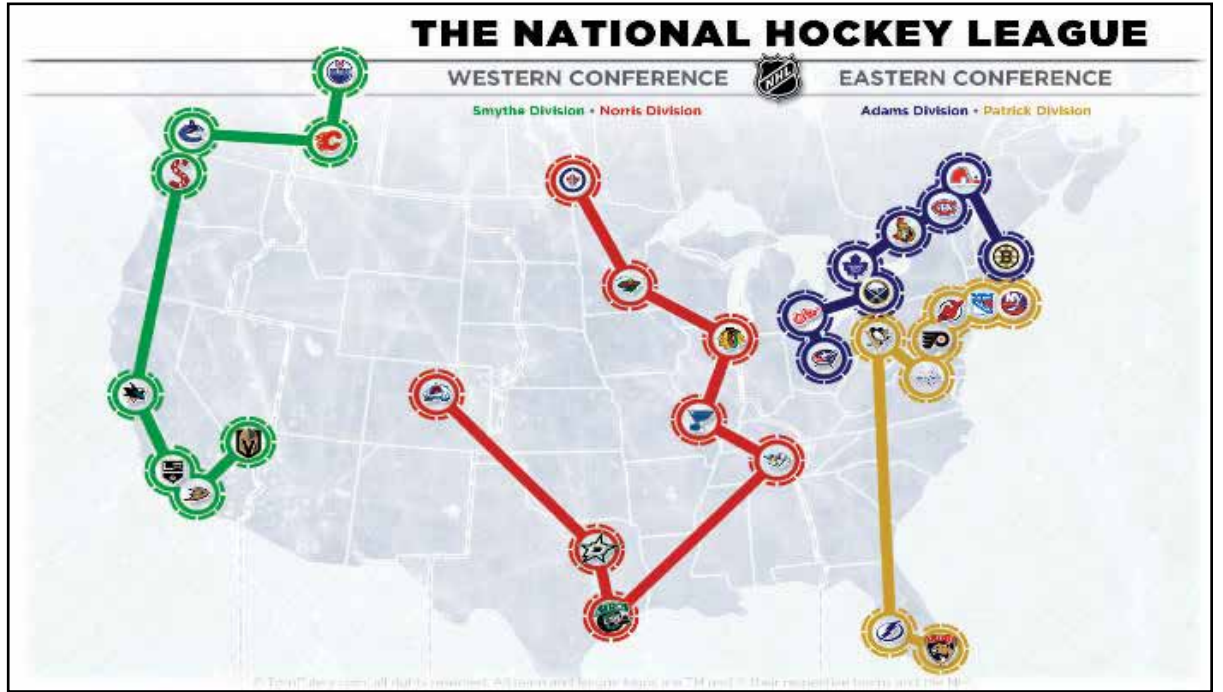

The league's stated desire to open the season by January 1st seems unreasonable. Training camps will take 10-12 days and will not include exhibition games. But the league faces challenges here, Quebec Province will not allow a Montreal Canadiens camp. Ontario has banned the raptors who have moved to Tampa Bay. The Maple Leafs can expect similar treatment. Santa Clara California has banned sports activities which is forcing the San Francisco 49'ers to host the Bills in Arizona on Monday night. This will affect the San Jose Sharks who will be unable to open camp or play games at their home arena. The league is planning a temporary realignment into new divisions designed to minimize travel and Covid issues. The NFL season has shown that players and team staff will get infected so the NBA and NHL will learn from this and take steps to minimize the risk.

The NHL generates $5 billion annually but with no fans in the buildings the owners will have to rely on media rights and properties for revenue, projected at about $1.5 billion league wide, about 70% less, or about $50 million per team which is well short of money needed for player salaries, team staff and expenses for equipment and running buildings. Many teams including Buffalo claim to be losing money under ideal circumstances. Quite a few owners have stated they will lose less money if the season is canceled. So financially there is no scenario for the upcoming season that is a good deal for owners.

But the NHL is under tremendous pressure to hold a season and not disappear from the sports world. The NBA is moving forward in many of the same buildings with NHL teams.

Proposed NHL one season realignment for 2021.

Ask Rusty- Should I Claim Social Security at 62?

Dear Rusty: I'm looking for information about retiring and starting my Social Security very soon at age 62. I'm not sure if I want to do it because I'm not sure if I can. Can you help me figure this out? Signed: Hesitant

Dear Hesitant: I know it can be daunting trying to figure out whether and when to claim your Social Security benefits. I'll give you some of the basics:

First, you should know that if you claim your benefits at age 62, your benefit amount will be considerably reduced from what it would be if you waited longer to claim. At 62, your benefit will be about 28% less than it would be at your full retirement age (FRA) which, for you is 66 years and 8 months. Your benefit will continue to grow by a fraction of a percentage point each month you wait, until it reaches 100% at your FRA. You can choose to delay even longer than your FRA, and your benefit will continue to grow up to age 70 when you reach your maximum benefit amount. For you, that maximum at age 70 would be about 28% more than you would get at your FRA and about 75% more than you would get at age 62. There is a considerable financial advantage to waiting to claim.

If you continue working, and you claim at age 62 (or at any age before your FRA), you'll be subject to Social Security's "earnings test," which limits how much you can earn before they take back some of your benefits. Starting at age 62 and continuing until the year you attain FRA, there will be an annual limit to your earnings (the 2021 limit is $18,960) and, if you exceed that, SS will take back benefits equal to $1 for every $2 you are over the limit. That could mean you will go some number of months without receiving benefits until Social Security recovers what you owe because you exceeded the earnings limit. Of course, if you fully retire from work now that is not a concern, but it may influence a future decision to return to work. Social Security's earnings limit no longer applies after you reach your full retirement age.

Your marital status also comes into play. If you are married, and your benefit as a spouse will be more than your personal benefit will be, then there are some special considerations which might affect your claiming decision. Generally, if your spousal benefit will be more than your own benefit (from your lifetime work record), and your husband isn't yet collecting benefits, it's often wise to claim your own earlier and take the larger spouse benefit later. Of course, if you're not married you need only be concerned about your personal benefit from your own lifetime earnings record and waiting for a larger life-long benefit, if possible, is often the most prudent choice.

Those are the basic things you should consider when trying to decide when to claim your benefits. But your need for the money now, plus your health and life expectancy are also key to your decision. If you need the money earlier to make ends meet, and you won't be severely affected by the earnings limit, then claiming early can be your most prudent choice. Or, if you are not enjoying good health and have reason to believe that you won't live at least until today's average age for a woman (about 87), then that also suggests claiming early. But, if you are working and don't really need the money, and you are in good health and expect to live to a ripe old age, then waiting longer to claim a higher benefit is usually a better strategy.

The reality is that everyone's personal situation is different and there is no single answer to the question of when to claim Social Security. I hope the above gives you at least a starting point for your decision.

ADOPT A PET Sponsored By The Buffalo Rocket

This Week's Featured Friend: CARSON

This young spunky guy with the perky pointy ears is Carson and he is waiting for a home to give him a yard to run in, some treats to indulge in, and some good ole fashioned training to make him the best dog that he can be. The shelter is no place for this guy who needs some guidance, patience and time to adjust into a home life. He did great for a recent bath, enjoyed his car ride and has a zest for life and a curiosity for all around him. Carson has a radiant smile and will be forever grateful to be in a place to call his own. Pet ID: 46105252

Because of the COVID19 situation, the shelter is closed to the general public. If you would like to meet any of the adoptable dogs, please fill out an application online (if you are not already pre-approved), call the shelter, and leave a message with your name and phone number and the dog you're interested in. Have patience, and they will call you back when they can. From there, a time will be scheduled for you to come and meet the dog. Please be patient, and remember they are very short staffed at the moment. Applications can be found at <https://friendsofcbas.org/adopt>

by Joe Barty

Dream, dream, dream.

There is a song that says, “when I want you, all I have to do is dream, dream, dream”. Wouldn’t it be nice if it were that easy? You had control over what you dream? You go to bed, put on your bed clothes, if you wear any, and settle onto your pillow and before you fall sleep decide what you want to dream that night. Imagine if you would, that you could say, “tonight I think I will take a trip to Hawaii or spend the night in a luxurious palace”. Does not work that way. Your dreams, the ones that you remember, are all over the place and in many cases not what you want to see in your sleep.

Sometimes you are in places you have never been to. There are people that you have never met. Events that never happened. I know I wonder how that could be as I always thought you dream things that are part of your past life. At least in my case, I see things and building I know I have never been in or even seen some I would not mind going to or visiting. There are some really feel good dreams, ones that you kind of wish you could go back to sleep and continue the journey or be with the people who appear.

Then there are some dreams, that are so bad, you wake up, look around see familiar surroundings, and are so relieved it was just a dream. Especially if it happens in your chair or on the couch. Like seeing yourself falling off a cliff, fighting something that is beating you, it is such a relief to wake up and know it was not real. Sometimes if I am having a bad dream, I whimper in my sleep and my wife wakes me up. It seems at the time, there is no escape from a bad situation and suddenly I hear a friendly voice telling me I am having a bad dream and wake up. She is my hero coming to my rescue.

Then there are good dreams that make you want more. Occasionally, I get a visit in my sleep from my Mom or Dad who have passed over 50 years ago. Usually bazaar and probably not what my Mom would be doing but it is just nice to see her or my dad. There are other good dreams that when you wake up, you have desires that are stimulated in your sleep that you would like to continue if possible. I know what you are thinking but one of my favorites is being able to fly. Have had many dreams of taking off the ground and sailing over everybody. Wondering why no one else could fly as it is so easy. Not willing to try it in real life.

Just to give a living example, I had a dream last night. I was trying to back a huge altar into a church I have never seen, for a priest I have never met. It was a tractor trailer, and they chose me as at one time I did drive a big rig. Almost nothing in this dream made sense. I had trouble getting into the cab, finally did so only to have so much difficulty they ended up bringing it in by hand. Almost nothing in this dream made any sense and I only give it as an example, and it happened last night so Dreams of flying are often described as joyful, fun and exhilarating, and flying dreams are often among the most pleasant dream experiences.

I still can recall it. Totally chaotic and not one I would have chosen to have.

Like I started this column, we do not have any control over what we dream. Since there are times and places I do not know, I wonder who does take control?
