

Taste of Buffalo This Weekend

Taste of Buffalo 2021 will be this weekend, July 10th and July 11th.

After receiving updated guidance from New York State following the lifting of pandemic-related restrictions on capacity for public gatherings that was announced by Gov. Andrew Cuomo on Tuesday, admission to The Taste of Buffalo presented by Tops will again be free and open to everyone for this year's festival.

The Taste will no longer be divided into sessions and will be open for its usual festival hours, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, July 10, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday,

This year's Taste will include 26 restaurants, food trucks, and wineries, in addition to a host of participating sponsors situated throughout Niagara Square and along Delaware Avenue north to Huron Street. For further information on this year's festival, including

"Wingfest is a local staple and a national celebration. Hosting it at Highmark Stadium furthers our commitment to use the stadium for an increasing number of community events," said Ron Raccuia, Pegula Sports & Entertainment executive vice president. "We're proud to welcome the festival to the home of the Buffalo Bills."

To comfortably accommodate fans and ensure enough wings for all in attendance, this year's festival will operate at 50% capacity with five pre-ticketed sessions lasting three hours each. Only 25,000 tickets will be available for the weekend, 5,000 for each session, and must be purchased ahead of time. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Guest Columnist

Centro Culturale Italiano Di Buffalo

Councilmember Feroletto and Senator Kennedy at a recent visit to the Italian Cultural Center.

If you have driven by the intersection of Hertel and Delaware recently, you probably have seen the ongoing work at the former North Park Library. 2351 Delaware Avenue is transforming into the new Cultural Italian Center of Buffalo. The outdoor portion of the project includes a completed herb garden as they continue their work, installing a bocce court and fountain to welcome their guests. While I have been lucky enough to get a first look inside the center, I can say that the outside work done is only a small piece of the experience they are creating on the inside.

John Vecchio, the center's Executive Director and his team have been hard at work to transform the center into an educational experience to showcase the origins of Buffalo's Italian heritage as well as a communal resource for all those in Buffalo! The main floor plans to include an interactive area outlining different aspects of Buffalo's Italian heritage along with an espresso bar and café on the other side of the room, featuring sweet treats from local bakeries. The basement will include an auditorium room with a small stage to feature musical events or classes and a newly installed state of the art kitchen to host cooking classes, celebrity chef nights and more!

The center recently held their first in-person event since 2019 to celebrate the Cultural Italian Center's new home at 2351 Delaware Avenue. "La Festa at Tappo" was a great success, and we look forward to more of the events, fundraisers and programs they will have in the future. It is exciting for North Buffalo to have this addition to our community as I welcome everyone to experience all that they will have to offer!

When Should I Claim My Survivor Benefit? – Ask Rusty

Dear Rusty: My wife passed away in 2014. I'm 60 years old and have been retired since August 2020. I know I'm entitled to survivor benefits, but my question relates to when to file for them. To say the information online is confusing is an understatement. Some background. My wife was born in 1960 and would have turned 62 next year. I was born in 1960 and turned 60 this past April. I do not plan on taking my SS until age 67 (I could wait until age 70 if it is more beneficial). I have not remarried. When should I file for survivor benefits to maximize the benefit? Signed: Surviving Husband

Dear Surviving Husband: Survivor benefits reach maximum when you reach your full retirement age (67), but you can claim a reduced survivor benefit as early as age 60. The amount of your survivor benefit will be determined by a) the benefit your wife had earned up to the month she passed, and b) your age when you claim the survivor benefit. At age 67 you would get 100% of the amount your wife was entitled to when she passed; if you claim at age 60 you would only get 71.5% of the benefit amount your wife had earned up to her death. The reduction may, or may not be, acceptable to you depending on your personal circumstances.

First, you should be aware that if you claim your survivor benefit before your full retirement age (FRA) and return to work, you'll be subject to Social Security's earnings test which limits how much you can earn before SS takes away some of your benefits. The earnings limit for 2021 is $18,960 (changes annually) and if that is exceeded SS will take back benefits equal to $1 for every $2 you are over the limit. The earnings limit applies until you reach your full retirement age, although the limit is much higher and the penalty less severe in the year you attain FRA. If your earnings prior to your FRA are high enough, it could disqualify you from receiving a survivor benefit. Of course, if you are not working and do not plan to return to work, the earnings test is not a concern.

Assuming you are fully retired from working, here are some things to consider:

- Claiming your survivor benefit now at age 60 would permit you to receive 71.5% of the survivor benefit for at least 7 years (until you reach your FRA), or perhaps longer until you are 70. Although the survivor benefit would be reduced, claiming it at age 60 would also permit you to delay taking your own Social Security benefit until age 70 when your personal benefit would be 24% more than it will be at your FRA. The above would be prudent if your age 70 (or 67) benefit amount will be higher than the survivor benefit you would be entitled to at your full retirement age.

- If your survivor benefit at your FRA would be more than your own benefit will be at age 70, then it would be wisest to maximize your survivor benefit. To maximize your survivor benefit you must wait until age 67 (your FRA) to claim it. If your full survivor benefit will be the highest you can get, then maximizing it by waiting until your FRA to claim it is your smartest move.

So, as you can see, you have a choice of when to claim your survivor benefit. If your personal benefit at age 70 would be higher, it would be wise to claim your survivor benefit first (at age 60) and collect the reduced survivor benefit until you later switch to your own higher benefit. But if your survivor benefit at maximum would be more than your age 70 benefit, then waiting until your full retirement age of 67 to claim your survivor benefit would be your best choice.

Criticism

Fireworks over New York City, 2021.

Seems that no matter what you say or do, it is subject to criticisms. Criticism is great and well received if it is justified. In the minds of the critics, it can be spun to make it come out right. At least if someone takes the time to criticize, that means they are reading what you write and took the time to respond.

It seems someone was upset with the fact that my column last week was too negative for that special day of the year, July fourth. The anniversary of this country's hard-fought gain of independence from Great Britain. July fourth was declared a national holiday. We celebrate our freedom each year on this great date in history. It is my favorite holiday for more than what it originally stood for. To me it is the real start of the summer season. School is out, the weather in Western New York is the best, and we spend most of the days outdoors. Wonder if our forefathers planned it that way?

I love the fourth of July for more than what it stands for. No one is more patriotic about America than I am. To be one of those blessed to be born in the greatest nation on this globe. To see the suffering and struggle that there is in other third world countries just makes me more thankful. Yes. I do appreciate my life spent here in the good old USA. Traveled to many other countries, there is none that can beat what we have here. Let me be clear on this one thing, July fourth is special to me and my family. It is a great day in history and deserving of the great celebration that it brings.

In my life I have been on both coasts, New York City and Los Angeles on the fourth of July for their fireworks displays, Denver, Boston, Washington, DC, and Disney world to name a few fourth firework displays we have seen. Fireworks and the fourth have become synonymous. It would just not be the same without fireworks.

It is there that the criticism came. Why write about negative things that happened on this happy day? Just recalling past experiences on the fourth in the 8 decades I have been around. My point may have been missed. Could have wrote about all the wonderful holidays but that would be boring.

Although we all love and enjoy our fireworks, they are dangerous. Our delight in watching them is obvious as we will travel anywhere, wait in long traffic lines, and do whatever it takes to see them. It is a must do on the fourth of July. We just must see fireworks. Even if you stay home, it has become a neighborhood thing as neighbors try to outdo each other in their backyards. Again, you are playing with fire, and we know that can provide injuries.

That point was proven this week when a 24-year-old goalie for the NHL Blue Jackets was killed by a domestic display of fireworks. Freak accident, yes, but it does happen. The firework season is from June 21st to July 21st every year. We are still in this year's season as of this writing, but we can take facts from other years.

In the year 2020, 18 people died from firework related incidents. That was up a little from 2019 as that year 15 died. In 2020, 15,600 Americans were admitted to Emergency rooms for injuries sustained by mostly domestic fireworks. Point is they can be dangerous, and people should proceed with caution when lighting that fuse. Personally, as a kid I burnt my hand when a roman candle went off in the wrong direction. Carelessly I was holding it when it shot out the back end. Like any dumb kid you think it could not happen to you, but it does.

Last week one of the things I mentioned was a display going up and fell into a crowd with many children. Sorry, but it did happen and probably more than just that specific day. I just happened to be there. We need our fix on incendiary displays and loud bangs, it just must be. Now that most domestic fireworks are legal in New York State as they were banned for years, we will see the comparison in injuries to other years. Maybe it will be down as perhaps we are learning to be aware. Let us hope so as a rise would only lead to another ban, and we do want our fireworks. Happy belated fourth of July.

Do you have a birthday greeting you would like to see here? Birthdays, anniversaries, interesting pictures, short stories or even a 500 word column of interest to your neighbors. Send them to me and I will see what I can do. Nothing political or controversial. Send to Jbortze@aol.com

ADOPT A PET

Sponsored By The Buffalo Rocket

This Week's Featured Friend: CINNAMON

Lovely Cinnamon has been in foster care since December. She has a food allergy and we needed time to figure out what diet and meds would work for her. While she has been in foster care, she has displayed a rare patience and gentle nature that has endeared her to her foster mom.

Now that her beautiful, soft coat has grown back, she is ready for adoption. She will need a dedicated owner who will monitor her diet and give her a tiny seed-sized pill each day (she almost opens her mouth to take the pill).

Because of the COVID19 situation, the shelter is closed to the general public. If you would like to meet any of the adoptable dogs, please fill out an application online (if you are not already pre-approved), call the shelter, and leave a message with your name and phone number and the dog you're interested in. Have patience, and they will call you back when they can. From there, a time will be scheduled for you to come and meet the dog. Please be patient, and remember they are very short staffed at the moment. Applications can be found at <https://friendsofcbas.org/adopt>
