

Cultural Center Grand Opening

Buffalo New York's esteemed Italian Cultural Center is set to open its doors on Saturday, October 9th, 2021.

The Centro Culturale Italiano di Buffalo (CCI Buffalo) will soon open its doors to the public in the heart of North Buffalo. The City's first and only Italian cultural center, now located at 2351 Delaware Avenue, will be holding its ribbon cutting ceremony on Saturday, October 9, beginning at 11:00am.

The historic North Park Library, which for years sat vacant at 2351 Delaware Avenue, will once again reopen as a vibrant language and cultural institution at the gateway of Buffalo's Little Italy. Since CCI's acquisition of the historical structure in 2017, their adaptive reuse plans have visibly returned the property to its former splendor at the corner of Delaware and Hertel Avenues. Over two years after launching its $2 million capital campaign in 2019, the cultural center is finally poised to welcome the community to its inaugural event.

"Buffalo's Italian Cultural Center restores a community anchor and tells our story. Our story, like so many other immigrant groups, is emblematic of a struggle to escape scarcity and moving for-

Congressman Brian Higgins (NY-26) announced The Buffalo History Museum has been awarded $144,518 in American Rescue Plan funding to support the continuation of programs and protection of local jobs during the pandemic.

"I had the opportunity to visit The Buffalo History Museum twice in the last couple months and each visit provides a new appreciation for the historic museum itself as well as the engaging nature of its diverse collections," said Congressman Higgins. "Cultural institutions play an essential role in Western New York's economy and quality of life. This federal funding helps keep people working and continues public access to all the History Museum offers."

"In light of COVID-19, the community now has expanded options to access and learn from our region's history through the Museum's online programs, virtual tours, a podcast series, and more," said Melissa Brown, Executive Director of The Buffalo History Mu-

New UBMD Orthopaedic Facility At LECOM Harborcenter

UBMD Orthopaedics & Sports Medicine (UBMDOSM) opened its newest location at the LECOM Harborcenter, an addition that will further extend physical therapy services to Western New York.

The space is located at the corner of Main St. and Perry St., Canalside, on the 1st floor of the LECOM Harborcenter, with reserved parking for patients in the attached garage with an entrance at 100 Washington St.

The facility offers specialized care of non-operative and post-operative orthopaedic conditions, acute sports injury management, ongoing patient education and home programming. It is also ideally positioned for the "BRIDGE" return-to-sport program, offering safe and effective strength and conditioning programs for individuals recovering from an injury. Following the acquisition of Impact Sports Performance in 2019, opening this adjacent facility downtown completes the next phase of clinical performance integration and achieving optimal sports medicine care.

The facility has a fully-equipped recovery room, including Dreamseat recliners, Normatec recovery system, Game Ready and Hyperice products. Sports massage, therapeutic stretching, and sports nutrition services will also be offered.

Brian DeLuca, PT, MBA, CSCS, CAFS, UBMDOSM's Director of Physical Therapy at the Brook

Bridge location and the Director of Impact Sports Performance powered by UBMDOSM, will be leading this office. This space is meant to better connect Impact Sports Performance with the practice-side of UBMDOSM by offering athletes who train at Impact a more comprehensive care model from training to recovery and rehabilitation.

To book an appointment, please call UBMD Orthopaedics and Sports Medicine's main appointment line at 716.204.3200.

New physical therapy space opened at Canalside this September, 2021.

If I Die, What Happens to the Social Security Taxes I Paid? – Ask Rusty

Dear Rusty: I have heard that when my wife and I pass, the government keeps all we have paid into social security. Is this correct? Signed: Curious Senior

Dear Curious: The Social Security taxes paid while you and your wife were working weren't deposited into a personal account for each of you; rather, they were used to pay benefits to those collecting Social Security at the time. That's the way the program has worked since enacted in 1935 and the way it still works today. The money you contributed has already been used to pay benefits to others. However, hopefully, you and your wife will live to claim your own benefits, and what you get when you claim will be based upon your earnings record over your entire lifetime (up to earnings you paid Social Security FICA payroll taxes on). Those historical earnings are adjusted for inflation, and your lifetime average monthly earnings amount is determined, from which your base benefit is calculated. Just as you and your wife helped pay for those getting SS benefits while you were working and paying into Social Security, those now working and paying into the program will help pay benefits to you and your wife.

You may be interested to know that studies show most workers get back everything they've personally contributed to Social Security within about 3 to 5 years of starting their benefits. One study I'm familiar with looked at how long it would take the average Social Security recipient who starts benefits at full retirement age (FRA) to get back money equal to what they paid into SS. That study looked at four different hypothetical earners – one who earned only half of the national average wage index (AWI) for their lifetime; another who earned 100% of the national AWI for their lifetime; another who earned 150% of AWI for their lifetime; and yet another who earned the maximum annual payroll tax cap for their entire lifetime. The study then figured how much each of those individuals would have paid in Social Security payroll taxes over their 35 highest-earning years (which is what SS benefits are computed from). Then, the study looked at what their SS benefit would be at full retirement age and calculated how long it would take for each to recover the Social Security FICA taxes paid over their lifetime. The analysis revealed that the lowest-earning beneficiary would get back everything paid into Social Security within about 34 months, and the highest-earning beneficiary would get back everything paid within about 63 months. For clarity, this study looked at employed workers who pay Social Security FICA taxes; those who are self-employed and who must pay both the employee and employer portion of SS tax must collect benefits longer to break even.

So, the answer to your specific question is that the money you and your wife contributed to Social Security while you were working has already been used to pay benefits for others who were getting benefits at the time you paid into the program. Hopefully, by the time you and your wife pass you, both will have received considerably more in Social Security benefits than the taxes you paid into the program while you were working. If you were an employee, you only need to collect benefits for about 3 to 5 years to be ahead of the game.

One final note for those who contend they could do better investing that money on their own: Not paying Social Security tax on employment earnings isn't a personal option.

Italian Heritage

Most cannot remember back when Buffalo was divided into five main sections. The ethnic boundaries of these groups were pretty much defined. South Buffalo was where the Irish immigrants settled. Upper East Side was mostly Polish immigrants except for Kaiser town which had German descendants. North Park, as it was known as back then, was where the Jewish community built their synagogues and settled. That left the West Side, which was no doubt in anyone's mind, the Italian community.

Having been born and raised on the West Side I can certainly attest to that. My dad was Irish and an orphan and had no family to speak of, except a sister. My mother was a full-blooded Sicilian with siblings and cousins, aunts and uncles, nieces, and nephews all over the West Side. It was only natural that they settled on the West Side to raise their kids with an established family. In those days you could walk to another family member's house. Mostly because driving was costly and limited back then. Growing up on the West Side was being Italian even though I did not have an Italian name.

Almost all my neighbors on Fargo Avenue were either of Italian descent or were right from Italy. Barbara, Martorana, Lombardo, Capozzi, all came over on the boat and spoke broken English. DiPaolo and Alessi, Mal-luci and Masciarelli were some of my neighbors. Yes, I was in the thick of little Italy. Since my grandfather, on my mother's side, never learned English, my mother spoke fluent Italian. My dad spoke none, so we were not given the opportunity to learn how to speak the language. We were able to pick up a few words but not enough to be able to have a conversation. I did learn to love these people from another country and their culture. Especially their food! Italians like to eat and to feed other people. Manga!

After marriage I moved and raised my family not too far from Fargo on 15th street. Still in the heart of the West Side. Again, we had neighbors who spoke broken English, who crossed the big pond to come to America. Next door was the Codaros who helped me with my yearly garden. One of the things Italians love to do is grow tomatoes in a backyard garden. The bigger the yard the bigger the garden. Think I have grown tomatoes in my yard every year, ever since I was a kid. I became good friends with the Lumias, Barbalotos, Nigros, Stumias, all right from Italy. Wonderful people and I loved being on the West Side. We knew everyone on our block, and they all knew us. We all sat on each other's porches and chatted. Cannot imagine more friendly and helpful people. I wondered why the mass on Sunday was not in Italian as all in the church were either from or descendants of those that were from Italy.

When I started my business in North Buffalo 52 years ago, it was still pretty much a Jewish neighborhood. There was a trinkling of Italian Americans buying into the area and much to my surprise, many of them were my friends from the West Side. More and more were now settling in what was still called the North Park area. In the beginning North Buffalo seemed like a far-off place to me still living on 15th Street. It was not too long that I felt right at home as things seemed to change. The supermarkets were changing over to Italian Americans, Sammy's, Passanissi, Vezos. Restaurants also became more Italian food conscious. The Italian Festival moved from the West Side to North Buffalo. How much more Italian can a neighborhood be? The local politicians all became Italian. Coppola, LoVallo, Masiello, LoCurto, Ferletto. North Buffalo became the new little Italy.

With that we welcome the new Italian Heritage building being dedicated this Saturday. The old North Park Library on Hertel and Delaware has been converted into a beautiful facility dedicated to the influence of Italian Culture in America. What better place to have a building like this than in North Buffalo, the new West Side? Still, and I think most West Side Italians will agree, you can take a west sider off the West Side, but you cannot take the West Side out of a West Sider. Viva Italiana!

This Week's Featured Friend: NONA

Nona is about 2 years old and came to the shelter as a stray. We can never be sure of history in a case like this, but we know this baby girl just loves attention from people. She is crazy sweet and just needs a place to be safe. She will be the love of your life...but sadly REALLY dislikes other cats. So she needs to be an only kitty.

Because of the COVID19 situation, the shelter is closed to the general public. If you would like to meet any of the adoptable dogs, please fill out an application online (if you are not already pre-approved), call the shelter, and leave a message with your name and phone number and the dog you're interested in. Have patience, and they will call you back when they can. From there, a time will be scheduled for you to come and meet the dog. Please be patient, and remember they are very short staffed at the moment. Applications can be found at <https://friendsofcbas.org/adopt>

American Rescue Plan Funding For The Buffalo History Museum

Continued from page one. seum. "With the continued support of this American Rescue Plan Funding, the Museum can ensure staff are able to not only maintain, but build on these new, innovative services for our community."

In March, Congressman Higgins voted to approve the American Rescue Plan, which included $135 million to the National Endowment for the Humanities for the purpose of helping cultural organizations and educational institutions recover, reopen and maintain their workforce.

The Buffalo History Museum are the keepers of the authentic stories that make our community unique. Their collections, exhibits and programs tell the stories of the people, events, and movements that demonstrate Western New York's essential place in shaping American history. Italian Cultural Center Re-Opens

And the story is far from over, since the center has plans for further development and reuse of the structure, including but not limited to the upcoming installation of a Western New York Italian-American history museum.

Former Buffalo Mayor and CCI Campaign Chairman, Hon. Anthony Masiello added: "I am proud to be part of this incredible collaborative team effort that will ensure our story will be preserved so current and future generations will understand the significant role the Italian community has played and continues to play in Buffalo's success."

Dr. Francesco Giacobbe, President and founder of the Centro Culturale

Italiano di Buffalo, regards the successful completion of the new center as a triumph for the Buffalo community. He stated "I promised a jewel to the Common Council and Joel Feroletto. Thanks to the help of many friends like Rocco Termini, Mayor Masiello and John Vecchio, it is now a reality!"

The Buffalo Italian Cultural Center offers a versatile program and events for all ages. The new facility will be host to language lessons, cooking classes, community lecture and film series, genealogy research and much more. This Saturday will set the stage for what's to come at the CCI Buffalo. Buffalo Public School students will be present to kick-off Italian-American Heritage Month before the official ribbon cutting ceremony. Following the ribbon cutting and proclamations from elected officials, there will be tours of the facility renovations, live music from The Formula Band, 'America's Premiere Italian Band', food from Frankie Primos, and a motorcade through Little Italy.

About Centro Culturale Italiano di Buffalo:
