The next Annual Ride For Roswell will take place in person on Saturday, June 25th, 2022.

The Ride for Roswell, presented by the West Herr Automotive Group, launched registration for the 2022 event, which will take place on Saturday, June 25 at the University at Buffalo. z

Thousands of riders and volunteers will gather at the University at Buffalo to participate in the 27th Ride for Roswell to raise funds for cancer research and patient care programs at Roswell Park Comprehensive Cancer Center. Routes from 3 to 100 miles start between 6:30 and 10:30 a.m., providing an option for riders of all ages and skill levels. To give riders many opportunities to participate in their favorite route, the Ride has added additional start times for 2022.

For riders looking to create a DIY Ride Day experience, the Ride Your Own Way option is available again for 2022. This option allows individuals, families, friends and teams to create their own ride experience by selecting a date, location and route that suits their schedule, location and experience level.

"Year after year, the Ride community shows up and continues to prove they are an unstoppable force in the fight against cancer," said Dr. Candace Johnson, president and CEO of Roswell Park Comprehensive Cancer Center. "Every day, loved ones in our community are being diagnosed with cancer and the funds raised are ensuring that we can continue to discover new treatments and bring the latest care to patients, giving hope to so many families right here in WNY."

Once again, there is no registration fee and no fundraising minimum for the Ride. To learn more about the locations, routes, rewards and to register, visit www.rideforroswell.org.

Opening Day Is A Hit!

Don Morris, the president introduces the family of Kevin Reinhardt and announces the new scoreboard named in Kevin C. Reinhardt's name on Diamond 2.

Ben Kuwik pitched three strong innings, striking out six as the Reds defeated the Mets, 6-3 in the Major Boys Division on opening day this past Saturday in Shoshone Park of the Hertel North Park Youth Baseball League.

Anna Gambino went three for three at the plate to lead the Angels to a 9-2 victory over the Ravens in a Rookie Girls game. Both games were part of the opening day festivities for the 65 year old League as over 1,000 boys and girls opened the 2022 season with its ceremonial parade up Hertel Avenue to the tiny Park near Main Street, its home since 1957.

Just before 11:00 am, the corner of Hertel and Saranac, in front of the Cornelius Building came alive as hundreds of boys and girls, all dressed in new team jerseys and wearing caps supplied by business sponsors, got ready to march up Hertel under a Buffalo Police escort despite a cool breeze from the East.

For the first time in many years, the League had help with their ceremony musically as students from the South Park High School marching band traveled to North Buffalo to entertain the crowds of people on hand along the curbs to Shoshone Park.

"This has got to be the biggest opening day parade that I've ever been involved in," said one long-time coach in the League. "It must've stretched for six blocks at least," he said afterward.

Under the guidance of our men and women in blue, the League safely used the eastbound lane to walk the one mile distance while Buffalo Police blocked off all traffic approaching Hertel from North Park to Shoshone.

Practically every team was represented in the parade, from the beginners in t-ball to the 12 year olds in the Majors. For some, it was their first time as a player or their first time in a parade.

The excitement was evident on their faces as they looked forward to a new season. They walked with their coaches and teammates in a happy step. Hertel Avenue shoppers took in the sights, and offered encouragement from both sides of the street.

At the Park, the teams all gathered on Diamond one, just off from the Parking lot and stood in the outfield grass just beyond the baseline. League president Don Morris welcomed everyone to the 2022 season over a weak sound system but quickly introduced some important dignitaries from Downtown Buffalo who are friends of the North Buffalo League.

Mayor Byron W. Brown took the microphone first and wished all players a great season. He expressed his gratitude to all the League coaches and volunteers who help make this league so successful and assured all of his continued support of this League. Delaware District Councilmember Joel Feroletto spoke next and told all of how Mr. Morris was once his coach when he played here as a young boy. Also on hand were University District Councilmember Rash-eed N.C. Wyatt who recently procured $25,000 for the League and Erie County Legislator Lisa Chimera. Both stepped to the microphone and expressed their wishes for the children.

All four representatives threw a fine first pitch toward home plate, followed by the angelic voices of two City Honors Chorus members in the National Anthem and then it was the words "Play Ball" yelled by everyone to conclude the ceremony in what was a great day for Baseball and softball in North Buffalo.

Ask Rusty – Will Paying the IRS Quarterly Increase My Social Security?

Dear Rusty: I waited to sign up for Social Security until I turned 70 last month so I would qualify for the maximum benefit. I have been the pastor of a small church for the last 15 years & they didn't take out deductions, so I paid in quarterly at the advice of my accountant so I would have an amount built up when the time came for me to sign up for Social Security. I received my first SS payment in March for $1757.00 after Medicare was deducted. I have been told that once you turned 70 you get the maximum SS benefit, but my accountant thought that I can still pay in quarterly to boost that $1757. I don't want to pay in anymore if it's not going to increase my amount (other than cost of living increases), so what do I tell my accountant? He's waiting to hear from me before he completes my income tax return. Signed: Inquisitive Pastor

Dear Inquisitive: By "pay in quarterly" I assume you mean that your earnings from the church are reported on IRS form 1099 and that you pay quarterly estimated income taxes to the IRS to avoid a penalty when you file your annual taxes. The primary reason to pay quarterly estimated taxes is to avoid an IRS penalty – paying your taxes quarterly doesn't matter to Social Security because they will use your annual income (regardless of when you pay the IRS) to see if your benefit should be increased. And whether your current income from the church will increase your Social Security benefit depends on your lifetime earnings history of paying into the Social Security program.

time earnings history of paying into the Social Security program.

The Social Security benefit you're now receiving is based on your lifetime earnings history, specifically the 35 years over your lifetime in which you had the highest earnings (adjusted for inflation). Social Security always uses a 35 year window to compute your benefit amount, choosing the highest earning years from among all your earning years. If you have fewer than a full 35 years of earnings, they will add enough "zero" years to make it 35 to compute your benefit. What that means is that if you have fewer than 35 years of SS-covered earnings, your earnings now from the church will eliminate one of those "zero" earning years, which would result in a small increase to your Social Security benefit. However, if you already have at least 35 years of SS-covered earnings, then your current earnings will only increase your SS benefit if your recent earnings are more than any of those in the 35 inflation-adjusted years used to compute your age 70 benefit. Social Security will make that determination whether you pay quarterly estimated income taxes to the IRS or not, and they will automatically increase your monthly benefit if your current annual earnings from the church call for it.

How you pay the IRS won't factor into Social Security's determination, but not paying estimated taxes quarterly may affect your total income tax obligation for the tax year, which is what your accountant should be able to tell you. And if your tax return is filed as a self-employed taxpayer, you'll need to pay into Social Security via self-employment taxes, whether you pay the IRS quarterly or not.

Baby Formula Shortage Hits Close to Home

Two-month-old Victoria Anna Mychajliw uses a specialty baby formula, which is even harder to find because of this national shortage.

In "normal" times you may find it interesting that an almost 50-year-old father of four was joining Facebook "Moms Groups" in Rochester and Syracuse.

I absolutely did. All for our two-month-old daughter Victoria Anna.

There's a national shortage of baby formula. Parents in Buffalo are met with empty shelves when scrambling to feed their babies.

It's serious. This is far more concerning than toilet paper shortages. Yes, rising gas prices are hitting families hard.

Ask yourself this: what does a mother do when she can't find formula to feed her child?

My wife and I are blessed beyond belief. We have the means to drive to multiple stores to buy formula. There's a network of families on the lookout for us. It's also convenient for my wife and me to buy multiple cans online if available.

Keep in mind that we still can't find any.

This made me think of my mom, who did the best she could raising seven children on the East Side of Buffalo, yours truly being the youngest.

For the most part, if she wanted formula or food, we could walk to B-Rite Market near Clinton and Fillmore. It was a few blocks away. Another option: take the bus.

Many Buffalo moms are doing that right now. Hoping on a bus, rushing to stores, praying for formula to be on a shelf, and unfortunately more than likely, it's not there.

This is why I turned to social media. Families in the Queen City and across the country are doing the same. We are desperate to find baby formula, and willing to connect with total strangers for help.

We have four cans left from an older order. I'll pray someone comes through on social media. I'll pray even harder for all moms struggling to feed their babies.

Split Second

Grover Cleveland High School, Buffalo, NY.

Deciding moment.
I can type fairly fast and that is one of the reasons I can write a column weekly. It is one of the things I learned in High School and had to think about as to why that is. Lately there are many things I wonder, “Why”? Trying to analyze life and how things happen and try to conclude why they happen. This of course is what happens when someone dear to you passes. The big question is why? It is the way it is and must be accepted but makes you think about how sometimes seconds determine what happens the rest of your life. Thought about this a lot.
When graduating eighth grade and determining what high school to go to, it was my desire to learn a trade. I wanted to be a cabinet maker. Make handmade furniture, work with wood, work with my hands. At that time, the only high school that taught cabinet making was East High School over on the East side. I lived on the West Side. So, I hopped a bus to get there. Had to transfer and take a second bus. There were no school buses, so it was the IRS, International Railway System or what is now the NRT. The cost was ten cents, not a lot of money but it is when you have nothing. Transfers were free. Still ten cents a day and an hour on two buses was discouraging. After that first day I decided this was too far and too expensive. Would be hard for me to do so and I had to look for an alternative.

The only school within walking distance was good old Grover Cleveland where some of my siblings went to. My older sister was still attending GCHS. It was a mile walk each way, but it was the closest. Had to walk as there was no other way. Was not a bad walk during mild weather but it was brutal in the winter. Rare to have a school snow closing so it was trudged into the wind, snow and cold. Maybe that is why I like going to Florida for the winter. Remembering those freezing cold walks. However, we did it and survived.
So, Grover it was but that is only the beginning of this story. On the first day I made the trudge to what was to be my new high school. Assembled in the auditorium and had to fill out some paperwork. One of the questions was what did you want to major in? There were no guidance counselors at that time and my parents were not that educated, so I did not have a clue as to what they wanted. I sat there dazed and had no answer. Then it happened. Something that was just a few seconds decided the rest of my life. That moment was my destiny. Having no idea what to put down as a major I looked over at the person sitting next to me and copied his answer. “Business.” Had no idea what that was but had to fill in the blank. So due to that instant my life was decided. I took business courses unknowingly for four years.

I mention this as it is a major reason, I started writing a column. I learned how to type. I recall back in high school my typing class. Mostly females and they were good at it. I wondered then why I had to learn how to type. I knew being a secretary would not be my thing. Yet here I was with my fingers on asdf jkl; and my thumb on the space bar. My thoughts at the time were I would never use my typing skills so what is the use? Same with algebra and geometry. Who knew what was in store for me?

Because of that split second that I copied the fellow next to me’s answer, all that has happened to me happened as I look back. Taking a business course taught me the basics of running a business. Bookkeeping, financing, etc. It became my desire to own a business, which eventually I did. Those high school courses helped. Then there was the typing. One day I wanted to put some thoughts into a column in my newly formed weekly newspaper. Because I could type it was easy for me. The rest is history if you have followed my writings.
The whole point I am trying to make is the question, “Does someone pull the strings to decide your destiny”? A couple of seconds at a certain time in my life made it clear the path I was going to take. Can we all look back and find that moment when where we are going is determined? What will we become? I have found my answer, have you?
Just think, I could’ve been a cabinet maker.

ADOPT A PET

Sponsored By The Buffalo Rocket

This Week's Featured Friend: LITTLE JOHN

Big John is just a meatball of a cat. He is super friendly and social with people. He loves attention and will rub on and head butt you to remind you he's there. We think he is 1 1/2 - 2 years old and was a stray. He is at the shelter and can be adopted by appointment only with an approved application. You can call the shelter to make an appointment and you can find the application here: <https://friendsofcbas.org/>

If you would like to meet any of the adoptable dogs, please fill out an application online (if you are not already pre-approved), call the shelter, and leave a message with your name and phone number and the dog you're interested in. Have patience, and they will call you back when they can. From there, a time will be scheduled for you to come and meet the dog. Please be patient, and remember they are very short staffed at the moment. Applications can be found at <https://friendsofcbas.org/adopt>

Ride For Roswell 2022

As of today, the 2022 Ride for Roswell will require volunteers and riders to show proof of vaccination in accordance with the University at Buffalo's COVID policies. This applies to all volunteers and riders over the age of 5 who will be starting and finishing their Ride experience at the University at Buffalo. This will also include all attendees of on-campus events such as the Celebration of Hope and post-ride festivities at Baird Point. We will continue to monitor guidelines and communicate any changes to policies as they arise.

The Ride is the single largest fundraising event in Western New York and the state's largest single-day cycling fundraiser. Since 1996, riders and volunteers have raised more than $63 million for cancer research and patient care programs at Roswell Park. The funds raised through the Ride for Roswell continue to help Roswell Park researchers investigate new treatment options; facilitate clinical trials for both common and rare types of cancers; support the costs of important medical testing not covered by insurance; and make possible quality of life programs that assist with non-medical needs from transportation to wigs to spiritual care and more.

Online registration is available at www.rideforroswell.org.
