

Let's Play Ball!

Hertel North Park Baseball season commenced successfully on Saturday May 7th with a parade down Hertel. As many as eighteen opening games were played on that day alone.

By Bill Snyder.

If what's happened in the first week of the Hertel North Park Youth Baseball League is any indication, we're in for a very good season for all the teams that play in Shoshone Park.

As many as 57 teams threw their first pitch in Opening Day games since Saturday May 7th, playing nightly Monday through Friday and all day on a Saturday. There's seven divisions of boys and girls house teams, four boys and three girls from Rookie all the way up to the Majors Division. Most teams have already played three games and are looking to start the season off in the win column.

Boys Division teams are Rookie, Double AA, Triple AAA and Majors. Girls play in Rookie, Minor and Major Divisions, all in the instructional Little League level.

Over on Diamond #8, the four and five year old boys and girls are swinging a bat at a baseball or softball off of a T and running around a small diamond as fast as they can. They're learning to hit and throw a ball back to home plate. These instructions will continue until Memorial Day, when the teams will play three innings and find out who crosses the plate the most.

Ava Cantanzaro had two hits, including the game winning RBI for the Stars in a 1-0 win over the Diamonds in the Rookie Girls Division on Opening Day. The Athletics, Indians and Yankees picked up their first wins of the season in Minor Girls Division play. The A's got

In Rookie Boys from Opening Day, the A's defeated the Indians, 4-0, the Royals beat the Rays, 4-1 and the Mariners defeated the Rangers 2-1 in a close game. With as many as 12 teams in the division, the excitement is very real for a great season.

In Double AA Boys Division games from Saturday, Timmy Bartels hit a homerun and got excellent support from three pitchers on the mound in Max Capaccio, Colin Stimpson and Mateo Todtenhagen to lead the Marlins to a 3-2 victory over the Dodgers. The Brewers defeated the Cardinals and the Pirates topped the Braves.

The Major Girls Division got their season started Saturday. The Astros defeated the Cardinals 8-1 while the Rockies topped the expansion Mets, 6-4.

In other games, Michael LoTempio hit a two run homerun and teammate Robert Sim had a big hit for the Red Sox in a 2-1 win over the Mariners. First year player Vivienne Crispell-Conney hit the game winning RBI for teammate Noelle Carey as the Rebels got by the Comets, 2-1.

Alejandra Slingerland went two for two and scored two runs and teammate Pippi Dougherty-Daly had two RBIs for the A's in an 8-1 victory in Minor Girls. The team has won their first three games.

This is just a small sample of the action taking place every night and on Saturdays in Shoshone Park. The best place for baseball and softball in North Buffalo.

Ask Rusty – Will My Husband’s Benefits Continue After He Dies?

Dear Rusty: My husband is 65 and I am 55. He has recently been diagnosed with terminal lung cancer. My question is, will I continue receiving his full social security check every month after his passing? Will the amount decrease? Signed: Tearful Wife

Dear Tearful Wife: So sorry to hear of your husband’s condition. If he is now receiving Social Security benefits, when he passes your husband’s Social Security payments will stop. You will be able to keep the payment received in the month your husband dies (which is for the previous month), but any payments made thereafter must be returned to the Social Security Administration (SSA). FYI, normally the funeral director who handles arrangements sends a death certificate to Social Security, which will stop your husband’s SS benefits effective with the payment for his month of death. However, you should notify the bank which receives your husband’s SS payment of his death, and they will automatically return any later incorrect payments to the SSA.

At age 55, you are too young to collect survivor benefits from your husband (unless you are disabled, in which case you can). You will first become eligible for a survivor benefit from your husband when you are 60 years old, but if you claim it at that time, it will be cut by 28.5% from the full amount. Your maximum benefit as your husband’s survivor is 100% of the benefit he is now receiving, but you can only get the full amount by waiting until your own full retirement age (FRA) of 67 to claim it. Any SS benefit claimed before full retirement age is reduced.

If you are still working when you become eligible for your survivor benefit, you should be aware that Social Security will impose an earnings limit until you reach your FRA. The earnings limit changes annually (for 2022 it is $19,560) but, if it is exceeded, SS will take away benefits equal to $1 for every $2 you are over the limit (half of what you exceed the limit by). If you work full time and your earnings are high enough, you may be disqualified from receiving survivor benefits (because your benefit amount may not offset the penalty for exceeding the earnings limit). The earnings limit applies until you reach your full retirement age, at which time your survivor benefit also reaches maximum (100% of the amount your husband was receiving at his death).

If you will also be eligible for your own SS retirement benefit (from your own lifetime work record), and your own benefit at maximum will be more than your survivor benefit, you can choose to take your survivor benefit first and delay claiming your own SS retirement benefit until it is more than your survivor benefit. Your own benefit will reach maximum at age 70 so you could, if desired, take your survivor benefit first and your own larger benefit later. Or, once you are 62 you can claim only your own reduced benefit first and allow your survivor benefit to reach maximum at your full retirement age. In other words, you have a choice of which benefit to claim, and you should try to maximize the one which will give you the highest benefit for the rest of your life. But remember, the earnings test will apply to any benefit you claim before reaching your full retirement age.

treat shoppers to refreshments as they peruse their wares. Some have special sales. Crafters and other vendors often set-up pop-ups within brick and mortar established businesses. Several bands perform outdoors. And when guests are finished shopping, rocking, and strolling, they throng to local restaurants.

Businesses from Delaware to Starin are welcome – and encouraged – to participate in the event. We are expecting many visitors this year as we continue to rebuild our community and enjoy more social gatherings.

We also encourage businesses to promote their own participation on social media.

If you are planning on booking a band, we suggest you avoid multiple bands on the same block. You might want to check with your business colleagues on your street first, before booking. Having all of your neighbors aware of your plans will support this cooperative effort.

Our Delaware District Councilman Joel Feroletto has asked us to share these important guidelines for all restaurants or other store owners planning to book bands for outdoor performances during the scheduled event which ends at 8:30 PM.

Band set-ups should be on store-owned property (such as patios) wherever possible. Band set-ups cannot block sidewalks and should not be set-up at street corners.

As the event founder and manager, I welcome your suggestions and questions. Please join us and keep the momentum going!
