

Go BILLS!

The BILLS Banners are back dedicated to Bills Safety, Damar Hamlin.

Mayor Byron W. Brown, joined by members of Team City Hall and Buffalo Bills fans, unveiled newly designed Bills Banners that are being installed today in the front of Buffalo City Hall that pay tribute to Bills Safety Damar Hamlin and the AFC East Champions.

Mayor Brown stated, "This special display serves as a civic celebration of Buffalo's resilience, while celebrating the continued healing of Damar Hamlin, as well as the Bills continued success on and off the field. Our community has been through so much together and while we continue to grieve for the lives lost on May 14th, during the blizzard, and in that tragic New Year's Eve house fire on Dartmouth, we must also pause with gratitude in recognition of the accomplishments made in the City of Good neighbors. We are proud of our Buffalo Bills and encourage fans to stop by this signature selfie station that safely commemorates another historic Bills season."

The banners are 9 foot wide by 17 foot long. Team City Hall worked hard to create this memorable, fun, and safe experience.

The installation came one day before the Bills playoff opener between the Buffalo Bills and Miami Dolphins at Highmark Stadium in Orchard Park.

From now until Friday, February 3, 2023, the city is collecting new baby clothes (Preemie up to 18 months) and baby items, such as diapers, wipes, formula, baby blankets, bibs, baby soap, lotion, wash, strollers, car seats etc., to help babies and mothers in need this winter season. In addition to

Every Day Is A Blizzard For Many Who Rely On Public Transportation

As we continue to recover from the December 2022 Blizzard, we've all read stories about people being trapped and unable to leave their homes due to extreme weather and the lack of plowed roadways and bridges, as well as shoveled sidewalks and bus stops. Many in the community experienced feelings of anxiety, worrying about loved ones, access to food and inability to get to work and medical appointments. We know based on reporting, that horrifically too many have lost their lives.

Imagine if the blizzard never ended, or imagine that the blizzard made transportation impossible for the places you needed to go, and never stopped. As ridiculous as this example might sound, these conditions are an everyday reality for marginalized communities, including the disabled, immigrant, rural, and Black and Brown communities - with or without snow.

In 1990, the historic Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) was passed to create access and equality for our fellow citizens with disabilities, and it created a system for those who couldn't use buses called "paratransit". For paratransit advocates like Stephanie Speaker, that minimum standard has never been sufficient to fulfill the needs of the disabled community. The ADA sets a minimum standard of less than a mile on each side of a route for paratransit, and limits times to the same as is served by the fixed route busses in the neighborhood. That leaves a lot of WNY out of reach for paratransit users, and even more on nights, weekends, and holidays, when standard bus service is even more limited.

In the last five years, the Erie County Clerk's Office has collected over $100 million from mortgage tax revenue from residential and commercial purchases and sent it to the NFTA for public use. Despite the influx of these funds, transportation does not serve the needs of many in our community.

This storm, once again, highlighted the historic inequities in transportation in Western New York. As we talk about changing policies to address these inequities, the public has an opportunity to weigh in on these issues. The Erie County Clerk's Office and the Western New York Law Center have partnered with Columbia Law School, and other not-for-profits, to launch a survey that would provide feedback to the NFTA regarding people's experience with paratransit and public transportation. This survey can be accessed at rateyourridewny.com. Your comments can help lift the "travel bans" for persons with disabilities caused by regulation rather than snow.

As Martin Luther King said, "We are faced with the fact, that tomorrow is today. Procrastination is still the thief of time. Over the bleached bones and jumbled residues of numerous civilizations are written the pathetic words, 'Too late'."

We need to address the public transportation needs of our community now.

Current or former users of public or paratransit services are encouraged to take the online survey at: <http://RateYourRideWNY.com>. Anyone requiring assistance may contact Western New York Independent Living, Inc. at 716-832-0822 x100 (Voice/TDD). Paper copies, in large print and easy to read formats, will be available at the Erie County Clerk's office located at 92 Franklin Street, or request one to be mailed at clerkhelp.erie.gov or call 716-858-8864.

Ask Rusty – Will My Work Earnings Affect My Social Security Benefits?

Dear Rusty: I retired on February 1st of this year (2022). I collect a pension from my employer plus a union pension, as well as Social Security ty, all of which started in February 2022. I am married and I'm 65 years old. I only worked 4 weeks in 2022 before retiring, but my income ended up being far more than expected. I got 5 weeks' vacation pay and a retroactive check from an overdue labor contract. I also got hazard pay and a small check for a class action lawsuit my union filed years ago. All of that brings my 2022 income to about $35,000 which means I have exceeded what I can make as far as Social Security goes. My question is, should I contribute some money to my IRA to offset my earned income? And is it even possible for me to do that? Signed: Retired but Concerned

Dear Retired: Generally, income earned before starting your Social Security benefits (such as accumulated vacation pay) doesn't count toward Social Security's earnings limit for those who have not yet reached their full retirement age (FRA), nor do your earnings from working in the 4 weeks of 2022 before your SS benefits started. Similarly, the check for retroactive labor contract benefits, hazard pay for past work, and income from the class action suit do not count toward Social Security's earnings limit. The only thing that counts towards the limit is earnings from working after your Social Security benefits started, which you apparently did not do. Thus, from what you've shared, you should not be subject to any impact to your monthly SS benefits as a result of your total 2022 income. Note, you may still get an inquiry from Social Security next year about your 2022 earnings, but only earnings from actually working after your Social Security benefits started (which you did not) would count toward Social Security's earnings limit.

You may, however, wish to consult with a qualified tax advisor because some of your Social Security benefits received in 2022 will be subject to income tax on your 2022 tax return. Assuming you file your tax return as "married/jointly," if your combined income from all sources exceeded $32,000 then 50% of the SS benefits you received during the tax year will become part of your overall taxable income; and if your 2022 combined income from all sources (including your wife's income) exceeded $44,000, then up to 85% of your SS benefits received in 2022 will become taxable income. A tax advisor can give you more information on that, and also help you decide if it would be wise to contribute to an IRA. But, in any case, contributing to an IRA will not affect your monthly Social Security benefit.

This article is intended for information purposes only and does not represent legal or financial guidance. To submit a question, visit our website (amacfoundation.org/programs/social-security-advisory) or email us at ssadvisor@amacfoundation.org.

E Pluribus Unum

E Pluribus Unum, "Out of many, One."

E pluribus unum, know what that means? You see it every day, well you may not see it, but it is right there before you. It is on every coin made in the United States. It is Latin and means "out of many, one". Or one of many. To tell you that it is not the only one made or the only one in existence. In the case of coins usually there are millions of each different coin. So, the coin you have is usually just worth the face value. That is unless you have a rare coin that is not "one of many". These become valuable because they are unique and sometimes one of a kind. Same thing with people.

We are all "one of many", insignificant in a world of billions of people. Just another person living life on this planet. Most of the world does not even know you exist. Lost in a sea of humanity. I recall as a soldier in the Army National Guard we all wore the same uniform, same helmet, same boots, the only thing different was our faces. Back then we used to parade quite often. That does not seem to happen anymore, but it used to be a big thing back in the war years, to show your military strength. Anyway, I was one of thousands of soldiers marching in unison in one of these parades.

One of many, too many. My wife, mother and dad came to see me march. I walked right in front of them, and they never saw me as we all looked the same. Talk about being hid in plain sight. I saw them but you do nothing but march with uttermost discipline. No waving or even turning your head. Wonder if the Army is still like that.

Unless you do something that makes you different than the mass, you are just another, one of many. There certainly have been many people in history who have contributed to the betterment of mankind and stand out as individuals. For whatever reason born to be special, stand out, different, unique, contributing. Tesla, Edison, Einstein, to name a very few who were not "one of many". Found out recently you do not have to be a genius to make a mark in this world. Could be a simple everyday person just doing his or her job. Yet chosen to have a special role in how people think,

Damas Hamlin was a little known football player for the Buffalo Bills. Probably most of the Bill's fans did not know who he was or what he did. He was just one of many football players. Like many thousands in Professional football. He was little known and was good enough to play his position but just did what he was supposed to do without much recognition. He was just "e pluribus unum" out of many, one". That changed in a heartbeat, literally.

Unless you have had your head in the sand or just do not know what is happening, this single man, unknowingly has changed the way millions of people feel or think. He has become a hero really doing nothing but surviving a heart attack. That in itself is an achievement, but it was the circumstances surrounding how it happened that makes you wonder. Probably hundreds of people have heart attacks every day. Not with millions of people watching. The whole picture has to make you wonder. One of the biggest football games of the season, National Television, tens of millions of viewers.

At first it seemed like just another football injury. Soon by the looks on other player faces you knew it was more than that. It was to become one of the biggest stories in football history. This man died and was reinstated on the field. Due to the fact so many were watching, he suddenly became famous. No longer was he "one of many". Quietly he became a household name. Not only did he survive miraculously, he, without trying, made believers out of many millions of people. This makes him special, a chosen one to be "e pluribus unum".

Much has been said about this incident. The end result it was all positive and good, seems we needed something like this as a wake-up call. I am awake, are you?
