DinoFEST Is Back At The Buffalo Museum Of Science

The annual DinoFEST is back at The Buffalo Museum Of Science on Monday, November 4.

The Buffalo Museum of Science (BMS) announced tickets are now on sale for DinoFEST – the Museum’s day-long, family friendly event exploring dinosaurs, paleontology, and geology.

The event takes place on Saturday, November 4 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. In addition to exploring exhibits on the Museum’s four floors, DinoFEST guests can dig for dino surprises hidden in oobleck, engage with real paleontologists and geologists, play in the giant foam dig pit, examine fossils with Museum collections staff, investigate ancient rocks and geodes with Buffalo Geological Society, make their own fossils and raptor claws, learn how to walk like a dinosaur, and more.

Tickets to DinoFEST are on sale now. Admission is free for Museum Members, or $21 adults, $18 children for non-members.

For guests with sensory sensitivities, the BMS will host Sensory Night: DinoFEST the evening before DinoFEST on Friday, November 3 from 5 to 8 p.m. Limited exhibit sounds will provide a comfortable and fun evening of learning and exploration! Sensory Night guests can enjoy hands-

National School Bus Safety Week, October 16th – 20th

The New York Association for Pupil Transportation (NYAPT) today announced that the organization is supporting National School Bus Safety Week and is reminding drivers to be extra careful when they see the flashing red lights of a yellow school bus.

NYAPT is reminding motorists that they must stop when they see the red lights flashing on a school bus. In New York State, this includes on highways with a physical divider between opposing lanes. School bus driver surveys tell us the illegal passing of stopped school buses happens every day in our State resulting in a direct threat to student safety.

“The illegal passing of stopped school buses continues to be a threat to the safe transportation of our student passengers and is simply unacceptable,” said NYAPT President Ted Nugent, Transportation Director at Cossackie-Athens School District. New York State Vehicle and Traffic law requires all vehicles to come to a full stop when approaching a school bus stopped with its red lights flashing. Those lights mean that a child is either boarding or disembarking a school bus. New York state law prohibits the passing of a school bus that is stopped with red lights flashing regardless of your direction of travel and even on a multi-lane or divided highway.

At a Public Meeting held last Tuesday, October 10th, over 100 people packed the Council Chambers of City Hall in support of a community resolution calling for the name of the new indoor sports facility at Shoshone Park to be called the Thomas M. Smith Athletic Center.

"We are more than excited that the culmination of many individual's hard efforts over the last seven years will culminate this Saturday with the groundbreaking of a new Fieldhouse," wrote HNPYBL President John R. Hornung in a public statement prior to Saturday. "These include former President Don Morris, many Directors of the League past and present, along with the leadership of Mayor Brown, Councilmember Wyatt, Councilmember Feroletto and Tom Smith, among others. We cannot wait for the Facility to be open to the children of our League and to the City of Buffalo as a whole."

Denial!

Seems we now live in a world of denial. Definition: refusing to admit the truth or reality of something unpleasant. There is more and more evidence in the news every day that people only believe what they want to believe. If it is not to their liking then it can't be true. That is today's denial. We see it almost all the time and it is mind boggling. There can be all kinds of proof and evidence to clearly convince someone that what happened actually happened but still they will not accept it. Some live in a constant state of denial. Maybe it is just the way it is today.

Perhaps it is due to the fact that untruths are accepted. The airwaves and even the printed media, politicians and celebrities tell falsehoods constantly without having to even think about it. We print political mailers and are amazed at what can and is said about one's opponent. Really what I think is bad stuff and something I as a publisher am not used to. At one time, years ago, the rhetoric I see on ads today would not be allowed. Believe it or not. I recall printing an ad in our paper for a candidate running for office in North Buffalo that had what would be totally harmless now. We caught heck for printing it. We were the messenger just printing what we were paid to print. It was not our position to judge. That was then, it is different now. To me, personally, I think that the ads I see now are disgusting on both sides.

I believe they must have changed the rules. Anything is allowed to the dismay of many. I recall the first really negative ad we printed back in the eighties. And compared to today's standards it was not all that bad. The whole family of the person the ad was about come to my office to rake me over the coals. Told them I was told I had no right to deny the printing of the ad. Even though I felt it was not what I wanted to do, I still had to do it. Seems things went downhill after that. Each year it gets worse. I saw an ad for a politician on TV the other day that was totally false. Guess there is no slander anymore amongst politicians.

Even though the statements made are false, they are made as they know people believe what they want to believe. Even if they know it is not true, they accept it anyway and "pretend" that it is okay. While in the newspaper business I know full well that you can spin a story to make it come out the way you want but still most of the facts are true. That was how it was and not how it is. Amazing what I hear and see that are simply really stretching the truth. Somewhere is what is said there may be a parcel of what really is, but most is based on narrative. Believe what you want to believe and if you find out that it is not true just go into a state of denial. "I just don't believe it".

Social media is most likely the real villain in non-truths. There you are allowed to say whatever about whoever and make it all up without any fear of reprisal. And if you are a fan of social media you probably have read some pretty disgusting posts over the years. Not to say that is the reason for accepting lies and deception but it is a major contributor. Personally again, I know before social media, the mainstream had to be honest in order to continue to exist. That was before we regressed into what is now the state of denial. Seems the new generation was brought up on denial. If it is something you do not like or if you lie, just deny it. If it is not to your liking, then it cannot be true.

Seems now if there is a conflict there is no compromise as a debate just turns into name calling and arguments. Either side will go with what they want to believe whether it be true or not. I thought that maybe Artificial intelligence would solve that but no. That is even biased as it will not answer questions that do not fit a certain narrative. Is that artificial denial?

Do you have a birthday greeting you would like to see here? Birthdays, anniversaries, interesting pictures, short stories or even a 500 word column of interest to your neighbors. Send them to me and I will see what I can do. Nothing political or controversial. Send to Jbortze@aol.com

Ask Rusty – Can My Wife Claim Her Benefit Now, And Switch To A Spouse Benefit From Me Later?

Dear Rusty: Can my wife claim her benefits now (at 63, and we know about the reduction for claiming early) and then, when I retire at 66 years and 10 months of age almost 3 years from now, can she switch over to spousal benefits based on my benefit amount? She worked at a higher paying job for much of her career but is now at a much lower income and would be under the amount that would reduce her benefits further. I currently earn about nine times her annual salary so the spousal benefit for her would be an increase when I retire. Thank you in advance for your service as a Social Security Advisor. Signed: Seeking Information

Dear Seeking: Yes, your wife can claim her own (reduced) Social Security retirement benefit now, and she will be automatically awarded a spousal boost when you later claim your SS retirement benefit. However, your wife's benefit when you claim will not be 50% of your full retirement age (FRA) amount because she claimed her own SS benefit early and also because her spousal boost will be awarded prior to her FRA. Any benefit taken before FRA is reduced, including the spousal benefit.

Here's what will happen if your wife claims her own Social Security at age 63:

Your wife's personal SS retirement benefit, when she claims, will be reduced by about 25%

When you claim at your full retirement age, your wife will get a "spousal boost" to her own reduced benefit.

The amount of your wife's spousal boost will be the difference between her FRA entitlement and 50% of your FRA entitlement, reduced because the spousal boost will be awarded (automatically) before she has reached her own full retirement age. FRA amounts are used to compute the spousal boost, regardless of the age at which benefits are claimed.

When you claim your wife will not yet be her FRA, so the amount of her spousal boost (the difference between her FRA entitlement and half of your FRA entitlement) will be reduced

The reduced spousal boost will be added to your wife's reduced SS retirement benefit, resulting in her total benefit payment being less than half of yours.

The only way your wife can get the full 50% of your FRA entitlement is to wait until her own FRA (67) to claim Social Security, but by doing so she also forfeits the money she would otherwise receive if she claimed her own benefit now. As long as she won't significantly exceed the earnings limit while working before her FRA, claiming now is an acceptable strategy because it will take many years to recover the money forfeited by waiting until her FRA to claim. It's also reasonable because women statistically outlive men and your wife's benefit as your surviving spouse will be 100% of the amount you are receiving at your death, instead of the smaller spousal amount she was receiving while you were both living.

When to claim is always a personal choice, and life expectancy should always be thoughtfully considered, but the answer to your specific question is – yes, if your wife claims her own benefit at 63, she will automatically receive her spousal boost when you claim, but her payment as your spouse will be less than 50% of your FRA benefit amount.

OUR SHELTER IS OVERFLOWING WITH DOGS!

Meet Steve, a sweet and delicate soul. Steve came to us in not so great shape and is still recovering - he's thin, his skin needs some TLC, and he's got some scabs from the healing process. Despite all that we are confident that Steve is going to flourish into a beautiful and happy house cat in the not-so-distant future. He's shy but just so nice and gentle, just a few minutes after meeting a new volunteer he was making biscuits and stretching out in his condo, looking around to see what's going on. We really do look forward to seeing Steve in a comfy cozy home soon.

If you would like to meet any of the adoptable dogs, please fill out an application online (if you are not already pre-approved), call the shelter, and leave a message with your name and phone number and the dog you're interested in. Have patience, and they will call you back when they can. From there, a time will be scheduled for you to come and meet the dog.
