ON – For sure-fire returns, bet the Shaw Festival’s “Guys & Dolls” across the board. The hard-charging Frank Loesser musical out of Damon Runyan by Bernard Shaw’s “Major Barbara” has both the power and the pedigree.

WIN – Whichever steed finishes first in Saturday’s Belmont will have to sprint the full mile-and-a-half to equal the pace of “Guys & Dolls,” which explodes out of the starting gate and never falters, even for underdog numbers as the Havana dance and the old Salvationist’s plaintive “More I Can Not Wish You” as sung by Peter Millard.

PLACE – While the characters come out of the Roaring 20’s, Director Tad Bradecki sets them firmly in the 50’s, allowing for Art Deco settings and flowery costumes in which the women stand out vividly against an artful black-and-white set.

SHOW -- The setup for Havana, palm trees by lunar light, seems a bit corny even for this, until the silhouette of a vintage airliner transits the moon, and back, a breathtaking detail.

EXACTA – Jenny L. Wright and Shawn Wright (no relation, other than professional) have just the stuff that’s needed for a winning Miss Adelaide and Nathan Detroit, he desperately seeking authority, she a commitment, as in “I’ve been in all the other rooms in the house, why not the kitchen?”

TRIFECTA – Paul Revere, Valentine and Epitaph, the three entries in “G&D’s” definitive “I Got the Horse Right Here,” (officially: “Fugue for Tinhorns”), as sung by Thom Allison, Billy Lake and Kelly Wong, leading up, then, to “Oldest Established,” at full horsepower, eight voices in volume and harmonies that would give the vapors to the Mormon Tabernacle Choir.

FOR RAILBIRDS - If by any chance this is not your first rodeo, “Guys & Dolls” defines the culture clash between Manhattan wise guys and the women of the mission who would save their souls, led, with deliciously wobbly reluctance, by Elodie Gillett as Sarah Brown. The field’s only also-ran is Kyle Blair, who gives big-timer Sky Master-son rather the look and sound of a somewhat animated Ken doll.

AND THEY’RE OFF – Early returns persuaded the Shaw to lengthen the course through Nov. 3. There’s no $2 window but many Sunday evening markdowns.

City Limits

It was kind of sad in a way that I sold my last piece of property in the actual city limits of Buffalo. Bought my first house on the West Side when I was 20 and have owned property in the city ever since. Bought and sold two doubles in the same area. Was fortunate enough to be able to buy a building on Tacoma Avenue in North Buffalo. It was there we started the printing business and the North Buffalo Rocket. We did well enough to eventually buy a larger location on Delaware Avenue. We recently sold that to an emergency medical company, who have since built a new facility at that location. Fortunately we still owned two doubles directly across the street on Delaware. With this we were able to maintain a presence in the area.

Buffalo and especially North Buffalo has always been a good place to be. Taxes are low in comparison to suburban cities. Considering the size, the city is fairly well maintained. It is a big job to keep a city this large clean both in the summer and in the winter. With the waterfront as an asset and some really nice parks, Buffalo has a lot to offer and lots to do. In the summer there are numerous festivals with one almost every week. Last weekend we went to a recital at the Shea's Buffalo and a short visit to downtown. Have not been downtown in a few years and it is looking good. It appears to be a thriving area again. Much different than the old days but still good. Back in the day Main Street was lined with large department stores and retail establishments and full of shoppers. It appears now the banks have taken over with large new modern buildings. Main Street itself is mainly tracks for the above ground subway. Totally changed over the years but that is progress.

As we all know the winters can be brutal. It is a must to keep the street plowed and passable. We live with the snow and we deal with it. Probably better than any other city our size and we are known for it, nation wide. So Buffalo has been a good place to own property as it has done well for us. However there is one thing that bugs me and I am sure glad I do not have to deal with them anymore. That is the Buffalo Water Company. What we paid for water is ridiculous. In the two doubles I owned I paid the water bills. We all know we have to have water as the most needed utility. We could and have on occasions lived without gas and electricity. Some people have had their gas turned off for non payment and were able to live through it. No one has escaped a power outage at one time or another for natural reasons. Snowstorms, wind, transformer problems, etc leaves us in the dark for while but we survive. How long can you survive without water?

How about a few comparisons. In Clarence the bill is usually at the most $60 dollars a quarter with the Erie County water authority. Dishwasher, showers every day, lawn sprinkler, etc. The bill from the Buffalo water company was roughly $300 a quarter for a double in the city. Split that is half and it is $150 per flat. More than double what I pay for my single home. The best one yet is that one quarter I got a bill for $1200 from the Buffalo Water Company! When I complained to then councilman Mark Cappola, his answer was that the water company is a blessing to the city. The tenants had to have used that much water. Then they went to the running toilet bit which if you every had a high water bill and called, is the standard answer.

The thing is you have no choice, you cannot live without water so you have to pay the bill or they shut it off at the street. I would suppose high water bills are a way to prevent having to raise real estate taxes. I am sure considering the cost of water, which I think there is an abundance of right outside our door it has to initially cost nothing. The profit margin has to be huge, Buffalo, Huge ja. So needless to say I am sad to leave the city as a property owner but I sure will not miss having to deal with the Buffalo Water Company.

This might be a great season shaping up for the Senior Boys division in Hertel North Park Youth Baseball (HNPYB) if games are decided by just a few runs. That's the way it looks from behind the dugouts of the new Murphy diamond. Most games have been close with just a big hit or good location on a fastball that determines a winner.

Saturday was no exception. Sal Glosek and Rex Hertzberg combined to throw a seven inning no hitter on the mound as the Dodgers shut out the Red Sox 3-0 and improve their record to 4-1 on the young season. The pair were so dominant on the hill for manager Don Morris' team that it was just two pitches away from a perfect game. The victory came just hours after the team grabbed an early lead on the Orioles the night before and survived a rally by the orange and black "birds" under threatening skies, for a 16-8 final.

In other games Saturday, John Liberti allowed just one unearned run, striking out 13 Orioles in an 8-3 complete game victory for the Diamondbacks, their first of the season. The team is just 1-1 but already has been the victim of rain with three dates to be rescheduled. The Braves defeated the Tigers 7-6 and the Yankees remained undefeated with a win over the Pirates.

In Rookie Boys, New Haven is the class of the division standing undefeated at 7-0 through Saturday. Andrew Santiago went two for two at the plate, knocking in three runs and teammate Eamon Langdon hit a RBI single in an early season win over Carthage, 5-2. Then the wins kept coming as Wesley Scharping, Nathaniel Gilbert, Colin Connors and Logan Garippo strike often in a big win over Springfield.

Dayton got off to a slow start this season, losing their first four games but has made their record respectable, winning three in a row. Kainoa Waikiki, Christopher Honrado and Nathan Bradshaw have helped the Tigers leave the basement of the division. That belongs to Orlando right now, but their games have been close and you know what they say...(any given day.)

In Second Minors, Madison picked up their first win over Nashville, 7-6 in a close game last Tuesday after six losses. But we have to single out another Tigers team, Dallas. They lost their first game to Oklahoma but have put a string of six victories together which included Saturdays win over Carson City led by Aiden Dobo and Solomon Jackson. Last Wednesday, Gavin Cline pitched solid innings and catcher Justice DeCosta came up with stellar catch behind the plate for a big Tiger out. Damien Smith and Owen Rooney have also played well with big hits and strong pitching.

In other games, Caleb Chapman hit two homeruns to lead Charleston. Nashville beats Lincoln, 9-5 and Sacramento rolls over Oklahoma.

In Senior Pony, the Yankees squeek by the Angels 11-10 and the Athletics keep pace with the Pirates, winning their second in a row over the Braves. In Major Pony, the Rockies and Athletics are tied atop the division with identical 6-1 records as of this writing. It could all go down to the wire as to who takes the top spot. On any given day.

State Senate Passes Bill To Move School Board Election

Senator Mark Grisanti recently announced that the Senate has passed bill S.868, which calls for moving the election of members of the City of Buffalo School Board from May to November, a measure that he says will improve voter turnout and save taxpayers money. The bill marks the third time that it has passed the Senate.

Grisanti estimates that his bill would save taxpayers over $100,000 due to elections being condensed to one day in November. The legislation also calls for extending the terms of current members of the Buffalo School Board to the last day of December rather than June, allowing for future terms of office to run from January through December. Grisanti is passionate about the issue, saying many constituents in the 60th District have asked him to continue to push for passage of his legislation.

"The Buffalo School Board helps determine the overall quality of education by helping to set the standards for teaching and creating the budgets that govern the teacher-student ratio," said Grisanti. "The City of Buffalo needs to improve its educational system to compete in the state and the nation for good jobs and a growing economy. It bothers me to know that essential school tasks are addressed by a body who is elected by a small percent of the city's total population."

In the 2013 school board elections approximately 11,000 people came out to vote. In 2010 around 7,000 people came out to vote. The City of Buffalo has over 145,000 registered voters.

Grisanti believes a concentrated effort by city residents would help get the message to members of the Assembly.

"We as citizens should not have to accept the will of a small majority, some of whom are probably strongly influenced by special interest groups," said Grisanti.

"Our children's futures are at stake. We should do whatever is possible to get more people involved in the selection process of who will decide how we spend our money and who we entrust with educating them.

As a Buffalo resident and as an elected official, I feel it is our state government's responsibility to try and improve voter turnout. We can't force people to go vote, but we can attempt to improve the process and hold elections at a time of year when people are more inclined and more involved and aware of when elections are being held.

I ask anyone who is passionate about our children's education to please contact their Assembly members today and get them on board."
