The Adventures of...

Rocket Man

by Doug Smith

'Grudge Match'

Speaking of vendettas, evidently the people who made the movie "Grudge Match" had been on the outs since concept. Like, not speaking to each other, particularly during filming and editing.

Rocket Man generally tries to avoid movies which won't appeal to him, but even with that caveat, many a round has been fought since the last time he saw one this bad.

The idea is that two old prizefighters, well past whatever prime they may have once had, get talked into going at it again. Think "Sunshine Boys" with boxing gloves, and without the laughs.

Robert DeNiro and Sylvester Stallone play the combatants (Rocket Man won't demean the one-time sweet science by calling them boxers.) There's some irony in the casting, as DeNiro's "Raging Bull" set the gold standard for fight films, many believe, and Stallone, of course, founded the fantasy "Rocky" franchise. In fact, the old meat-locker scene from the original "Rocky" gets repackaged here.

In trying to promote the fight, the antagonists stumble at every turn, insulting casino sponsors and mangling the national anthem. Nonetheless, the fight, without a shred of credibility, takes off.

The actors themselves, DeNiro and Stallone, may or may not like each other, but the movie itself has absolutely no anti-chemistry. It's not as if they're old buddies, but it's easier to spell antagonism than it is to find it in their fight promos.

Kim Basinger's in. Rocket Man was stunned to find out she's 60 years old; he didn't look that healthy when he was 20. She adds a certain style, as does trainer Alan Arkin in riffing on Burgess Meredith's old take in the original "Rocky," but when she and Stallone converse, Rocket Man had to look away. The scenery behind her keeps shifting. It has all the continuity of an acid trip.

Pittsburgh backdrops seem to practically scream "computer graphics" and then there's the matter of promoter Kevin Hart, a high flyer in one scene, rock bottom in the next. It's as if they inserted scenes from two different movies.

Rocket Man and First Mate did this as a duty tour, accompanying the newest Little Booster with nothing else available during a holiday afternoon lull. The lad, for what it's worth, said he loved it, and he sure learned a few new words, or at least heard words from the school bus now mouthed by adults who should be old enough to have his respect.

Often Rocket Man will scan some Golden Oldie and mouth, "they don't make 'em like that any more." And if they don't make 'em like "Grudge Match" any more, there's a mercy. FOUR ROCKETS (out of 10).

Next week - The book "Angola Horror."

ADOPT A PET

This week's featured friend:

GRACIE

This sweet young mom is about a year old. Gracie came to the shelter with a litter of three kittens, which she raised and sent off to new homes.

This lovely orange and white girl arrived at the shelter with an injured tail which is shortened and a bit sensitive at the tip, but providing you avoid that, she loves to be petted and cuddled. She is not a lap kitty, but loves attention and loves to play. She is particularly fond of feather toys. She is at our location at Walden Galleria. Pet ID: 20957260

Buffalo Awarded Grant To Expand Pre K Slots

Senator Mark Grisanti announced that the City of Buffalo has been awarded $741,220 through a competitive grant to expand the available number of slots for full day pre kindergarten programs.

“This is great news for families in the City of Buffalo,” said Senator Grisanti. “Studies have overwhelmingly showed that the first few years of a child’s life are critical for their cognitive development and learning. If we can expose children to education early on then as students they will have a better chance for success in their later years of education.”

HELP FOR HOMEOWNERS IN FORECLOSURE

New York State Law requires that we send you this notice about the foreclosure process. Please read it carefully.

SUMMON AND COMPLAINT

You are in danger of losing you home. If you fail to respond to the summons and complaint in this foreclosure action, you may lose your home. Please read the summons and complaint carefully. You should immediately contact an attorney or local legal aid office to obtain advice on how to protect yourself.

SOURCE OF INFORMATION AND ASSISTANCE

The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure. In addition to seeking assistance from an attorney or legal aid office, there are government agencies and non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about possible options, including trying to work with your lender during this process.

To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by the New York State Department of Financial Services at 1-800-269-0990 or visit the Department's website at www.dfs.ny.gov.

FORECLOSURE RESCUE SCAMS

Be careful of people who approach you with offers to "save" your home. There are individuals who watch for notices of foreclosure actions in order to unfairly profit from a homeowner's distress. You should be extremely careful about any such promises and any suggestions that you pay them a fee or sign over your deed. State law requires anyone offering such services for profit to enter into a contract which fully describes the services they will perform and fees they will charge, and which prohibits them from taking any money from you until they have completed all such promised services.
