TM Montante Development and Montante Construction announced that the implosion of the 11 story tower of the former Millard Fillmore Hospital will take place on Saturday, October 3rd at 7 am. According to OSC, the company hired to carry out the implosion, the tower should collapse in a matter of seconds. OSC has significant experience in building implosions throughout Western New York. ## Red Cross Seeks Donations for Veteran Comfort Care Packages

As part of its ongoing Service to the Armed Forces, the Western and Central New York Region of the American Red Cross will be working with local groups, organizations, corporations and caring individuals to construct comfort care packages that will be distributed to veterans and their families during various homeless stand downs, valor days and other military fairs and gatherings across its 26 counties this holiday season.

Through December 2015, the Red Cross will be collecting the following items for veterans and their families, who may be facing difficult times: Toothbrushes; Toothpaste; Shampoo; Conditioner; Deodorant; Combs; Shaving cream; Razors; Nail clippers; Packs of gum.

Individuals and groups can collect these items in bulk and drop them off at a Red Cross Chapter location, where volunteers will use them to construct the comfort care kits. Community members are also encouraged to construct the kits themselves, with each item placed in a zip lock freezer bag. Kits can also include a personal thank you card in recognition of the recipients' service and sacrifice.

Hundreds of care packages will be filled with toiletries and distributed to veterans and their families.

Buffalo in the Spotlight as Film Friendly City

The pilot episode screening of a half-hour dark comedy series, 'Why I Murdered My Roommate' is scheduled for Sunday, September 27th at the North Park Theatre located at 1428 Hertel Avenue, Buffalo. This is believed to be the first TV series production based and filmed entirely in Buffalo. It's a dark comedy that puts the Queen City front and center. Many of the scenes were shot in Buffalo, including Silo City.

The City of Buffalo is committed to being a 'film friendly' city. Growing the film industry in Buffalo is important. So far this year there have been 9 feature films shot in the Buffalo area, over 215 production days, with an economic impact exceeding $10 million. Hundreds of local jobs have been created, nearly 5,000 hotel rooms were booked (3,300 for Ninja Turtles alone). These crews eat in our restaurants, shop in our stores and visit our attractions, putting their money into our economy.

Tickets to the event are available online at www.whymurderedmyroommate.com.

Carriers are often the guardians of the customers they serve. They look out for the elderly and infirmed. They know when something looks out of sorts and are usually quick to get the person or the situation necessary attention. Carriers have been known to sound the alarm when seeing smoke, and even helping remove potential victims from danger. They've reunited lost children with parents or even dropped items of value with their owners. They become the eyes and ears of the neighborhood and do what is necessary to protect it.

The Adventures of...

Rocket Man

by Doug Smith

'Annie Get Your Gun'

A pistol but not a repeater, that's "Annie Get Your Gun." Even with such musical bulls-eyes as "Lost in His Arms" and "Girl That I Marry," the 1946 Irving Berlin tuner mostly remains holstered, save for a mid-90s revival, politically corrected for "First Settlers."

That's the version Niagara Regional Theater Guild has chosen to open its season in the cozy, accessible Ellicott Creek Playhouse. The troupe, firing hits since Annie Oakley was alive and shootin', meets the challenges of global scene changes (a table hit the deck during one turntable whirl at preview) and costuming fit for upper crust and ur-chins (hat-tips to fashionista Nancy Watts.)

"Annie/Gun" free-lances sharpshooters Oakley's and Frank Butler's off-and-on romance and rivalry through 19th Century Wild West shows. Oakley they'd call a tomboy today, her life's aims as sharp as her shootin' eye, although when she meets Butler she starts "bathin' regular." Carolyn Quigley invests Oakley with a soft, accurate vocal style and fetching accent that never weary. A Southern Indianan, she's just "Doing What Comes Naturally."

Chris Turton gives Butler a nice confidence, never drifting into irritating arrogance. Dawn M. Newton takes Butler's old sidekick and covetous crank Dolly from zero to nasty faster than a speeding bullet, relishing every put-down. Best exchange: "I keep all my beauty aids in that bag"... "No wonder it's so heavy."

Clarity is remarkable for so complex a show.

Even un-miked actors such as Randy Rumley sell every syllable, he in roles ranging from concierge to czar. Mike Leszczynski is expressionfully excellent as business manager Davenport, 'though his final reward seems a bit unjust. Chuck Slisz stands tall as Sitting Bull, Wounded Knee so far in his past that Custer's just General Wotzisname.

M. Joseph Fratello and Sarah Mullin strike it sharply as the affectionate and attractive knife-thrill act. Ray O'Donnell has a treasured twisted-face moment as Annie's little brother. Director Fran Newton's cast moves at a rapid-fire fine clip and that turntable whirls at a professional pace.

NRTG treats the show with more respect than the text itself treats Annie. Unschooled and living in near slavery, the real Annie didn't compromise in any way, fought for women's rights to her dying day and never threw a match. Near the end of the show it comes down to a diamond contest or, as she puts it, "who has the most stones." It runs through October 4th at the Playhouse, 530 Ellicott Creek, Tonawanda. EIGHT ROCKETS (out of 10).

“In America we should speak American” - Donald Trump

In a recent speech Donald Trump stated that if you are in America, you should speak “American”. American? Is that a new name for the language we speak? He has since corrected and said we speak English in this country. English? Do we really speak English as spoken in England? We jolly well do not and seldom do we sit for a bloody spot of tea. I guess you can say we do take the Queen’s language and change it to our needs. So it is basically English in some case and in others far from the adjective and verbs of our forefathers. Take the Boston area for instance.

It is easy to spot a person from that area by the distinct accent they have. It is not exactly English but their interpretation of it. Called Bostonees. Leave the r’s out of words and in some cases add them at the end of other words were they do not belong. We all heard the expression “pak the caa” for park the car. How about getting dressed for a potty. (party). A dead giveaway is when you hear “I sawr where that ball landed.” Why add the r? Even president Kennedy, who was from that area used to call Cuba, Cuber. Or Africa, Africer and even America, Americer. How would he say if you are from Americer, you should speak Americerian?

Now this area is where our country started and the people, who developed this great nation, came from. The New England states, which includes New York and New York City. Here you hear another form of “English”. Forgetaboutit. It is a different form of Bostonees, called Brooklynees. Similar in a lot of ways but different accent. More easy to understand for us foreigners that go there to visit. Since our forefathers came from that area, how come we do not speak the same English and which one is right? Do we speak correctly or should we all speak Bostonees. They feel they talk right and we do not. We are the ones with the accents. I will not even go into the south and the “English” they speak Y’all. Very close to us in Buffalo we have a neighbor that in some cases in less than a mile away. They speak English also, eh. I of course am talking about Canada. Or better known as C eh N eh D eh. Where does the “eh come from? And they all use it as part of their English language. You can tell they are from Canada when they end a sentence with a “eh”. Kind of neat as it is a dead giveaway where they are from. Getting back to Mr. Trump, I agree that you should speak the language of the country you are in. Go to France, as I have been there three times. Talk English they ignore you. Try to speak a little French and you are treated with more respect. Nothing wrong with natives wanted you to speak the native tongue. The Polish, German, and Italian, immigrants that came to America did not insist that we speak the language of the country they came from. They learned how to speak English, or American, or Bostonees or Brooklynees, eh. We spend our grammar school classes learning proper English. Verbs, adverbs, adjectives, etc. to teach us how to speak and write English as it was meant to be. (Obviously I stunk in English). And there is nothing wrong with learning a second language or even a third or fourth. As long as in this country the first language is American.
