Lehner Establishing Credentials as Number One Goalie

Robin Lehner's athleticism was on full display during the Buffalo Sabres 2-1 victory on the road against the Ottawa Senators on October 5th. Ottawa dominated the first two periods with Lehner holding the Sabres in the game until the third period when his teammates scored twice for the victory.

Following the game Lehner had a 4-3- 1 record and ranked in the top ten among NHL goalies in both save percentage at .929 and goals against average with 2.14.

When Sabres GM Tim Murray acquired Lehner along with aging center David Legwand in a trade with Ottawa Senators for a first round draft pick, many observers felt that he had given up too much for an unproven goaltender. The addition of Legwand seemed like a favor to Ottawa's GM, Brian Murray the uncle of the Sabres GM. Legwand was in the final year of his contract and not in Ottawa's long term plans so the Sens were able to free up cap space and dump his salary onto the Sabres books. Was this a hockey trade or a family favor?

Lehner's first year in Buffalo saw him compile a mediocre 5-9- 5 record but his 0.924 save percentage was the sixth best in the NHL. It wasn't his play that limited him to just 21 games, he suffered a concussion that cost him the bulk of the season and underwent ankle surgery near the end of the season.

Having never played more than 36 games in a season and with only 97 starts in six NHL campaigns, did Lehner have the durability to carry the load and play 55 games or more as the Sabres number one goalie? At 245 pounds was he too heavy and injury prone? Lehner answered these questions by showing up at training camp a new man, having lost 30 or more pounds and displaying a svelte athletic physique. His improved quickness was on full display in the Ottawa game as he darted from side to side twice to deny sure goals and lead the Sabres to a victory.

So far this season, Lehner's play has been exemplary. If he can stay healthy, perhaps the Sabres have found their franchise goaltender.

Our "Find the Rockets" contest has ended as of this week.

PETE BARBALATO is our final winner! Thanks to all who participated!

Sgt. Christopher Brown

McKinley was run by Master Sergeant Joe Dugan.

Sergeant Brown said that he looked up to Master Sergeant Dugan as a father figure. He was his "leader" in JROTC, "... and Master Sergeant Dugan never pushed anyone towards the armed services."

The JROTC program goes well beyond the classroom. By providing many opportunities to participate in community events and to volunteer for community services, it leads cadets to a practical understanding of how to be good citizens.

It is important to know that JROTC is neither recruitment nor an indoctrination program. The military structure is only a vehicle to develop and improve students' self-discipline, confidence, and pride in ways schools generally do not offer. The goal is to develop good students and citizens. Nothing is more rewarding than JROTC integrated-curricular activities. JROTC uses a unique but proven approach across the world to guide students toward success in high school, college, and beyond.

In 2010, Sergeant Brown enlisted in the New York Army National Guard as an Infantryman. While in the Guard he was deployed to Afghanistan.

Sergeant Brown returned home in 2013, married his wife Sierra and attended three semesters of school at Erie County Community College for Criminal Justice and maintained a 3.8 GPA.

He switched to active duty in June of 2014 and was deployed in support of Operation Inherent Resolve in 2015.

Thank you Sergeant Christopher Brown and all of the United States service personnel, for your service to our country.

On Saturday, November 12th at 12 noon, a birthday cake will be presented for the Sweet 16+100 Birthday party for the Buffalo Fire Department's historic Engine 20: Fireboat Edward M. Cotter, a National Historic Landmark. At the party on Erie Street in front of the Submarine Croaker at the Buffalo and Naval Servicemen's Park, Sam Guadagna, former Captain of the fireboat and a person most responsible for the Cotter's National Landmark Status and Buffalo Fire Commissioner Garnell Whitfield, Jr. will blow out the candles on a specially prepared birthday cake.

The Buffalo Firefighters Pipe and Drum Band will perform. Captain Guadagna will be available to answer questions on the history of the Cotter and welcome people aboard as the boat will be open for public tours on Saturday and Sunday. Cookies and warm drinks will be served from noon until 3:00PM both days.

The Fireboat Edward M. Cotter is the oldest working fireboat in the world. The Fireboat E.M. Cotter Conservancy is raising funds to help repair the Cotter with new props and shafts as its most urgent priorities and to bring the fireboat up to Coast Guard standards that will keep the E.M. Cotter self sustaining for decades to come. The Cotter plays a major role in ice breaking in the Buffalo River during the winter and spring, which prevents flooding in many towns upriver such as Cheektowaga and West Seneca. The E.M. Cotter is also a classroom museum and hopes to attract schools in the near future.

For more information call Sandy at 864-9174.

This Week's Featured Friend: JULIAN

Meet Julian an 8-9 month old Pit Bull Mix who is looking for his forever home. This sweet, handsome boy is full of puppy playfulness and a sense of adventure. He is longing for a family who is as enthusiastic as he is about working on mastering new skills and balancing out his obedience training. Julian is looking for structure and guidance so that he can blossom into a well-mannered gentleman. He is attentive and food motivated which helps make training a breeze. He is eager to work and to please his people. He is a fun dog who is well suited for an active lifestyle and would love to become your running, hiking or agility partner. It was reported that in Julian's previous home, he was not appropriate with the resident cats and his vigor is overbearing for small dogs. For this reason, he will only be adopted to a home without cats and small dogs. We also recommend that due to his unbridled zest for life that he go to a home without small children as he doesn't quite know his boundaries or strength yet. Julian is destined to succeed with a dedicated and patient family who is willing to put in the groundwork through training which will create an ever-lasting bond with this special boy.
