Buffalo Bills

It was stunning to watch former rugby star Christian Wade break into the open field for a 65 yard touch-down run against the Indianapolis Colts at New Era Field. His speed on that run topped out at at 21 M.P. H. showing his rare potential on his first touch of the ball in pre-season game action. "It was a dream come true," the former rugby star from England said.

Wade is attempting an ambitious switch from rugby to football American style in the NFL after spending eight years in the Englands Premiership Rugby league with the London Wasps via the International Player Pathway Program which is an NFL initiative that "aims to provide elite international athletes the opportunity to compete at the NFL level, improve their skills, and ultimately earn a spot on an NFL roster," according to the NFL's website. Wade demonstrated his skills at a pro day on March 20 alongside NFL veterans and 2019 draft hopefuls at the IMG Academy in Florida and was allocated to the Bills less than a month later.

Wade has been keeping himself busy off the field studying video into the late night hours studying f on the position's latest breed, specifically devouring tape on Alvin Kamara, Christian McCaffrey, Tyreek Hill and Tarik Cohen. "Those players, who are traditionally smaller but can run plays, run fast with shorter routes, how they move off the ball and move defenders to get open," Wade explains. "They're the players I've been introduced to on film and I try to emulate how they get open. If you don't know the plays, how and where to line up, what your assignment is, they won't put you on the field. The playbook is everything; you have to continuously update and add to your knowledge, reminding yourself of plays."

In spite of his brilliant run he was immediately critiqued by his coaches for bobbling the handoff which he took rugby style rather than football style. "I did it in an unorthodox way," Wade conceded. "The way I took the hand-off, I got in trouble for that. Initially I handled from the right pocket, the way I was taking the ball, but when I realized I would cut back, I went back to taking the ball like it was a rugby ball."

In the next game against the Carolina Panthers Wade took the field in the fourth quarter and caught a pass from former UB quarterback Tyree Jackson and took the catch 48 yards 48 yards, nearly scoring for the second straight wee before being hauled down at the two yard line. But again his rugby instincts failed him. Instead of taking the ball wide for what looked like a sure score he cut back tot he middle. In rugby running the ball in from the middle of the field gives the ball better placement for the extra point attempt.

With finals cut is creeping up Wade is a long shot to make the team. Remember that the players he is facing late in preseason games are not even going to be in the league when the regular season starts. If he is cut then every team in the league gets a chance to claim him on waivers. If no claim is made, which seems unlikely, then he could be placed on the Bills ten man practice roster where he can spend the season learning the nuances of the NFL game. There is an exempt 11th spot allowed for the Pathway Program playes which does not count toward the teams rosetr. Next season with Lesean McCoy and Frank Gore's contracts expired, a roster spot is more likely.

Other teams around the league are making note of Wade in the event that the Bills head coach Sean McDermott does not include him on the teams 53 man roster by the August 31st deadline. Maybe the Bills should shut Wade down so as to stop drawing attention from other teams.

20th Annual Elmwood Avenue Festival of the Arts

This year's parade theme is "Caravan of Kindness." It's a phrase that calls to mind understanding, cooperation, and generosity—all things that are as just important in creating outstanding music and dance as they are in building an ethical and meaningful life. Among our performers this year, you will see people from different generations, cultures, and walks of life who are all united in their commitment to creative expression. Whether they are part of a band or a dance company, a storytelling collective or improv troop, they rely on trust and collaboration to build something that is more than the sum of its parts. Even those who stand on the stage alone did not get there alone. We invite you to enjoy this community of creativity and kindness—and hope you'll carry forward the same spirit and values into your life well after the festival.

Since whatever we dwell on grows, at Kidsfest, we want to dwell on kindness, and our theme for 2019 is the Caravan of Kindness. A caravan is a group of people travelling together on a journey. For our children's parade, we will literally be travelling together down Elmwood Avenue. In a looser sense, we're also all fellow travelers with all people on this planet that we share.

What better caravan is there to travel in than one of kindness?

As you enter Kidsfest, you can spin the Wheel of Kindness, which will suggest an act of kindness to carry out. The activities within Kidsfest provide ample opportunities to express kindness in many ways: sharing, exchanging, thanking, smiling, collaborating, recycling, helping and more. In between you can polish, print, punch (holes in paper that is!), bead, shape, glue, drill, saw and draw your way through Kidsfest. Take in a workshop or performance at our world class performance tent, then join us for our Caravan of Kindness Parade on Sunday at 4PM. Line up begins at the M&T parking lot at Elmwood and Breckenridge. Kids and their parents, kids-at-heart and any and all kind energies are invited to join the caravan, providing their colors and spreading their kindness all the way to the St. James stage. The musical groove of the famous 12/8 Path Band will accompany us, as well as the spectacular theatrical artistry of Antonio Cruz Zavaleta, Kyla Kegerler and Franklin La Voie.

Did you know that Kidsfest plants a tree in the Elmwood Village every year? A big thank you to Cyd Cox and Anthony Brown for donating, decorating and planting our tree. Thank you to Diane Meldrum and Craig Gordon for acting as Masters of Ceremonies in our Performance Tent. Thank you to Aurora Waldorf School, Nardin Montessori Academy and Locust Street Art for their volunteer service. Thank you to Cousin Kelly for providing his artful wooden sculpture wonderland. Thank you to all the staff, volunteers, and donors for all their goodwill. And thank you to you, festival participants, for adding your kindness to our collective caravan. Almost Bought the Farm

One of the perks in owning a newspaper is the ability to read it before anyone else. Over the years it was kind of cool to see the classified ads before they were printed. Some may call it an unfair advantage as I did buy some of the items before they made the paper. Why not? The seller wanted to sell the item and the price was set, and if I was willing to pay what they were asking, everyone was happy. And the seller saved the price of placing the ad.

I recall one ad I took years ago. A young lady was moving out of town and wanted to sell her 1967 Volkswagen for $400. I did not hesitate to buy it. At the time I was driving back and forth to Angola in a 1975 Chevy station wagon and getting about 10 miles to the gallon. This little red "punchbug" got 40 MPG. No brainer. It was one of the best deals that ever came through the door. It was a stick shift, which would have made it difficult to sell to most people as that is a different way to drive. Most autos now have automatic shift which is much easier. I would say most drivers today would have a problem driving a stick shift. I loved the car and drove it for years. Saved a lot of money.

There is a downside to driving an economy car. Usually they are smaller and the loser if you unfortunately are involved in an automobile crash. I have firsthand knowledge of this kind of occurrence. My little beetle was no match for a full-size sedan and fortunately for me, it was a glancing blow and not a full-scale tee bone.

I was on my way home from the RocMar bowling alleys on a Friday night. We bowled the late shift and after having a sandwich it was about 2 AM in the morning. Not a lot of traffic but most that were out, seemed to have been imbibing in alcoholic beverages. Route five heading west was relatively quiet at this time of the night. I had slowed down to make my right turn on to Kennedy Road when suddenly a car came speeding over the hill and without slowing down ran right into me and kept on going. Like I said it was a glancing blow but enough to send me spinning across the whole road to the other side. Fortunately for me no traffic in the other direction. Stunned me for a moment but when I realized what had happened, I wanted to chase this person.

The passenger side rear fender was rubbing against to rear wheel, but the little bug was still running. I took after the driver of the car that hit me. No cars in front of me and I had this little motor giving its all. I caught the culprit. Cut him off and forced him to pull over. Then I did a dumb thing. I got out of the car and started walking back toward the other vehicle. He promptly stepped on the gas and tried to run me down. I jumped to safety and for a second time laid there glad to still be alive. Needless to say, I was angry.

I did get a glimpse of him through the windshield, he appeared to be Native American. The reservation was just down the road, so the hunt was on. Drove around for hours but never found the vehicle. I spotted a State Trooper in the Irving dinner having a doughnut, so I went in to report what had happened. Gave him a description of the car that hit me, and he filled out a formal complaint. He did contact me the next day and told me they found the car, but the owner claimed it was stolen the night before. They claimed they were not driving it. Had to accept that and after coming to my senses realized I was just lucky to still be here.

If he had hit me a couple of feet further up toward the front of the car, a matter of inches, I would have suffered more serious injury. Then to chase him down, knowing he was not a friendly guy, getting out of my car to confront him? What was I thinking, or wasn't thinking? Still had enough sense and ability to jump to safety, knowing he did not like me. Looking back, thanks to my guardian angel, or whoever was looking after me, I was lucky to have come out of that night with just a couple of scrapes and bruises. Next day I separated the rear fender from the tire on my Volkswagen and it remained drivable. Continued to drive it for a couple of years after that. Loved the car. It was a good buy, even if was almost my goodbye. In case you are wondering, this is a true story like all my columns.

Ask Rusty - About Medicare and Social Security

Dear Rusty: I know that when a person turns 65 he or she must enroll in Medicare. I have been informed that the charge for this would be deducted from the Social Security benefit, if it has been claimed. Otherwise, this will be another payment for my medical care, in addition to my existing coverage. Please explain the relationship between the two programs and considerations in timing the claim for the SSA benefit. Signed: Frugal Senior

Dear Frugal Senior: If you are already collecting Social Security benefits you will be automatically enrolled in Medicare about 3 months prior to your 65th birthday but, if not, enrollment can be done by contacting Social Security directly. You must enroll in Medicare at age 65, unless you have other “creditable” health-care coverage (such as from an employer) or you will be subject to a late enrollment penalty for enrolling after expiration of your initial enrollment period (your “IEP”). Your “IEP” is a seven-month window which starts 3 months before the month you turn 65 and ends 3 months after the month you turn 65. You should check with your employer to make sure your existing coverage is “creditable” and, if it is, you can delay enrolling in Medicare until such time as that other coverage ends and thus avoid a late enrollment penalty for not enrolling in Medicare Part B during your IEP. When your employer coverage ends, you’ll enter a “special enrollment period” during which you can enroll in Medicare Part B (and Part D, which is prescription drug coverage) without incurring a late enrollment penalty.

Medicare Part A (hospitalization coverage) is free if you are also eligible for Social Security benefits (you don’t have to be collecting SS, only eligible). Medicare Part B provides coverage for doctors and outpatient services and there is a premium associated with it ($135.50 for 2019). If you have other creditable coverage you can avoid paying the Part B premium by not enrolling during your IEP. If your existing plan also provides creditable prescription drug coverage, you can also defer enrolling in a Medicare Part D plan until your employer coverage ends, at which time you will have 63 days to take a Part D plan without incurring a late enrollment penalty. FYI, you must be enrolled in Medicare Part A to collect SS benefits after you are 65 years old, and since Part A is free for anyone eligible for Social Security, there is little reason to not enroll in Part A at age 65 (unless you have a Health Savings Account (HSA), in which case there are special rules to consider). Although you enroll in Medicare via Social Security, they are two very separate and distinct programs. Normally, if you are collecting Social Security benefits your Medicare Part B premium is automatically deducted from your Social Security benefit. But if you wish to delay collecting Social Security and want to enroll in Medicare Part B, you can do so and request alternate Medicare Part B premium payment arrangements, for which there are several options. As for the timing of your claim for Social Security benefits, you should evaluate your need for the money, your current health and your expected longevity. If you don’t need the money now and expect to live to at least average life expectancy (about 87 for women and 84 for men) then delaying your claim for SS as long as possible will yield you the highest monthly benefit amount as well as the most in lifetime SS benefits. For each year you delay claiming Social Security beyond your full retirement age you’ll get an additional 8% on your monthly benefit, and you could get as much as 32% more (depending on your FRA) at age 70. Age 70 is when your benefit would reach maximum so you shouldn’t wait beyond age 70 to claim Social Security.

Championship Victories!

The Hertel North Park Youth Baseball League season has ended for most of the 900 boys and girls that signed up to play this summer. As many as 57 teams competed weekly since early May for the right to claim first place in a division and win a championship on the diamonds of Shoshone Park. All that's left is to receive a trophy from their coach and display it properly at home. Let's get you out to the diamonds and relive the celebrations.

Six divisions of house baseball and softball teams will be at a banquet held early next month in North Buffalo to honor children in the little league of Shoshone Park after winning in the instructional divisions. They are: Rookie Boys, Rookie Girls, Second Minor Boys, Minor Girls, Major Boys and Major Girls. For most, a golden statue of a baseball or softball player atop a wooded base that you can hold in your hand is their first award for excellence in sports. Congratulations.

In Rookie Boys, the Mariners won the championship of the ten team division after winning two straight games over the top ceded Red Sox, 13-11 and 14-7. The Mariners needed to win both games after the Red Sox gave them their first loss in the playoffs, 11-7. Both teams played outstanding on the field and brought their bats to homeplate. For many, this division is the most fun to watch.

The Rookie Girls Division was very similar in that two teams, the Angels and the Devils battled all season long to see which team could win first place. Against five other teams, both squads defeated teams like Ravens and Rebels, Shamrocks or Diamonds to get to the playoffs. In two exciting semi-final games played just days apart, each team won against each other to set up a third and deciding game. The Devils won game one, 15-9. Followed by an Angel victory six days later, 17-15. Four days later, the Devils prevailed 5-1 to win the Championship for two very good teams. The winning hit came off the bat of Lawson Terhune of the Devils, who was celebrating her seventh birthday that day. "I just gave myself a gift," she said afterward.

The Marlins won the Championship in Second Minor Boys with an 8-5 victory over the Brewers. Pavel Schneidermann, Justin Daniels, Archer Palgutt, Jensen Leon and Isaiah Cormack were just five of the teams best hitters who led the way this season. Playing against a tough Brewers team, both teams got hot for the playoffs, knocking off the Dodgers and Padres. The team scored seven runs in the first inning and held on to victory.

In Major Girls, the top team in the division was the Astros. They put together 12 straight wins during the regular season and looked like the team to beat for the Rockies and Dodgers. Well, they did, on July 25th when the Rockies were ready and beat them, 13-8. Then after the Astros won over the Dodgers, the Rockies returned a week later and won the Championship in an upset, 16-8.

In Minor Girls, Izzy Gannon of the Indians singled in teammate Izzy Hornung in the bottom of the seventh inning with the score tied at 2-2 that gave the Indians their second Championship in as many years over the Orioles in a hard fought 3-2 victory. Katie Kooshoian of the Orioles tied up the game at 2 in the fifth with a homerun after the Indians had grabbed an early lead. Alana Waiki, Amelia Cline, Chloe Claeys and Mackenzie Gunnarson also played well for the Indians in an exciting game in extra innings.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN (Never known to fail)

Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3X). Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3X). Holy Spirit, You who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal, and thank You for Your mercy towards me and mine.

(Say this prayer 3 consecutive days, after which the request will be granted. This prayer must then be published.)

This Week's Featured Friends:
BANJO

This amazing dog is Banjo. He is a friendly guy that had a great time at the recent Taste of Buffalo event and was delighted to meet lots of new folks. He can be a bit strong if he is on a mission to get somewhere so training would be awesome for him once he settles into his new home. Banjo enjoys some serious lap time and will happily smother you with kisses if you allow him too. He has appeared to do well in the yard with some other shelter dogs during play time but does need a little direction when he becomes a tad..... "humpy". This is why we always require a meet and greet with resident dogs, to make sure it can be a good fit. Make sure you put Banjo on your list of dogs to meet when you are looking to add a new best friend!
