Schools Re-Open

School buses remain parked as students who would be transported to schools are learning from home.

The Buffalo Public Schools (BPS) set plans for a safe and successful 2020-2021 school year in these unprecedented times, and have approached this work thoughtfully, collaboratively and with an enormous sense of responsibility for the health and well-being of the students, families, and staff. They are also planning in a sea of uncertainty. The coronavirus itself, guidelines and policies from health agencies, continue to evolve.

That means the BPS must be flexible in their ability to plan for and adapt to changing circumstances as smoothly and quickly as needed to support uninterrupted learning for students.

In developing this plan, community input and engagement guided their decision making. To be clear, this current plan may change, maybe even many times before and after the new school year begins based on guidance they receive concerning the appropriate response to the virus. The BPS will remain in daily contact with their health agency partners and elected officials to stay informed of the latest updates. They will continually receive and analyze data and feedback to make the most informed decisions and provide routine updates to the BPS community. Buffalo Public Schools serves approximately 34,000 students in Buffalo, New York.

Former Sabres Shine in NHL Playoffs

Zach Bogosian was unceremoniously shuffled out of Buffalo after a disappointing year. On February 14, 2020, the Sabres placed him on waivers. He was assigned to the Rochester Americans the next day after no NHL team put in a claim for him.

But Bogosian refused to report to the Americans and three days later the Sabres suspended him. On February 21, Bogosian was placed on unconditional waivers and his contract was terminated.

Bogosian drew interest as a free agent and was signed by the Tampa Bay Lightning on February 23rd to a one year, $1.3 million contract. He finally played in his first NHL playoff game on August 3rd. He has been a top four defenseman on the Tampa Bay Lightning, playing in all 21 post season games with one goal and six assists and an even plus minus rating.

Robin Lehner has supplanted three time Stanley Cup winner Marc- Andre Fleury as the number one goalie for the Las Vegas Golden Knights. After a strong showing in the round robin games and helping the Knights beat the Hawks in five contests in the first round, Lehner took over in the nets for Las Vegas. His performance in the Western Conference Semi Finals against the Vancouver Canucks validated his status. Lehner posted three shutouts in the seven game series.

He has played 13 games with nine wins and a sparkling 1.84 GAA, a 0-924 save percentage and four shutouts including a 3-0 blanking of Dallas Stars in game two of the Conference Finals, evening the series at one win apiece. Lehner played in Buffalo during three seasons from 2015-66 to 2016-18. He played in 133 games with a 42-61-22 record. He posted a GAA of 2.77 and a save percentage of 0.916.

Andrej Sekera has been a mainstay on the BlueLine for the Dallas Stars averaging 18:00 minutes of ice time in the regular season, the fourth highest total among the teams blueliners. In the playoffs he is averaging 14:09 of ice time and has only one point, an assist in the teams 18 games. But it was a huge assist as he set up the game seven overtime series winning goal by Joel Kiviranta, his third of the game as the Stars upset the Colorado Avalanche in the Western Conference Semi Finals.

PRAYER TO ST. JUDE

Most holy apostle St. Jude Thaddeus faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the name of the traitor who delivered your beloved Master in to the hands of the enemies has caused you to be forgotten by many, but the Church honors and invokes you universally as the patron of hopeless cases and of things despaired of. Pray for me who am so needy; make use, I implore you of that particular privilege accorded to you to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolations and succor of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations and sufferings particularly (here mention your petition) ... and that I may bless God with you and all the elect throughout eternity. I promise you, O blessed Jude to be ever mindful of this great favor, and I will never cease to honor you as my special and powerful patron and to do all in my power to encourage devotion to you. Amen.

I Had A Dream

Not the same one Martin Luther King had but one of my own. In fact I have had many dreams. During my three mile walk this morning, my head seemed to wander into the many dreams I remember having. Some good, some not so good. The bad ones are not that easy to recall as it seems you are just glad when you wake up, it was a dream you want to forget about it. Sometimes with great relief, as if it was reality, it would not be welcome. The better dreams are the ones that we seem to be able to attach to.

According to Wikipedia this is the definition of dreams: Dreams are successions of images, ideas, emotions, and sensations that occur involuntarily in the mind during certain stages of sleep. The content and purpose of dreams are not definitively understood, though they have been a topic of scientific speculation, as well as a subject of philosophical and religious interest, throughout recorded history. The scientific study of dreams is called Oneirology.

Dreams mainly occur in the rapid-eye movement (REM) stage of sleep—when brain activity is high and resembles that of being awake. REM sleep is revealed by continuous movements of the eyes during sleep. At times, dreams may occur during other stages of sleep. However, these dreams tend to be much less vivid or memorable.

Dreams can last for a few seconds, or as long as twenty minutes. People are more likely to remember the dream if they are awakened during the REM phase. The average person has about 3 to 5 dreams per night, but some may have up to 7 dreams in one night. The dreams tend to last longer as the night progresses. During a full 8-hour night sleep, two hours of it is spent dreaming.

Personally I am a very light sleeper. So I wake up easily and can be in the middle of a dream. They are mostly good dreams and ones that are easy to remember. Especially when it is a visit by someone who has passed away. Mother, father, brother, uncle, aunt and sometimes just a close friend. Usually nothing related to what really happened and sometimes in a place that it seems you have never been. A house, a building or a street, and when you awaken you wonder, where the heck was that?

The bad dreams seem to automatically wake you up anyway. Like in the movies where you sit up in the bed in a sweat. That has not happened to me, although I do wake up and look around and say to myself, "Wow am I glad that was just a dream!" My best dreams as a youngster, and to this day I still think about them, is being able to fly. Vivid pictures in my mind of being able to hover over other people after just a slight leap. Sometimes sailing through the air with the greatest of ease, looking down on the walkers below. Those kind of dreams you are disappointed when you wake and find you cannot do what you were just doing.

I am sure everyone enjoys the visits in their dreams from loved ones who have passed on. I do so like those kind of visits and even after forty some years still, on occasion, find myself with my mother or father in some kind of crazy situation. No matter how bizarre it is, it is still a visit. Remember we cannot control our dreams and what happens in them, happens. Who knows what evil and good lurks in the minds of men and women. Try dreaming and find out.

People typically have multiple dreams each night that grow longer as sleep draws to a close.

Buffalo Zoo Returns to Normal Operating Hours

On Wednesday, September 9 the Buffalo Zoo will return to normal operating hours from 10:00 am - 4:00 pm. Guests may remain on grounds until 5:00 pm.

After closing in March due to the global coronavirus pandemic, the Buffalo Zoo re-opened on Thursday, July 2, 2020, with enhanced health and safety measures in place to protect guests, team members, and animals alike.

This included two separate timed visitation sessions per day as well as pre-registration for all guests. Starting Wednesday the Zoo will return to one session per day, but will still require advance ticket registration.

"While there are still many hurdles to overcome, we are happy to return back to normal operating hours at the Buffalo Zoo," said Buffalo Zoo President and CEO Norah Fletchall. "Our peak season is coming to a close, so it made sense to return to our normal hours of operation."

Temperature checks, mask requirements, and modifications to some guest pathways and routes are still in effect.

For details and information on Buffalo Zoo operating hours or to purchase tickets, visit buffalozoo.org.

Ask Rusty - Can I Claim My Widow's Benefit at Age 57?

Dear Rusty: My husband passed away in 2001, and he paid into Social Security every year he worked, which would be over 30 years. If he were alive today, he would be 75 years old. I am 57 years old and still working full time. Am I able to collect his Social Security benefits now since I am still working?
Signed: Widowed Worker

Dear Widowed Worker: You are not eligible to collect a survivor benefit from your deceased husband if you have remarried, and you cannot collect the survivor benefit until you are at least 60 years of age. And if you claim at age 60 the survivor benefit will be reduced by 28.5% from what it would be if you waited until your full retirement age (FRA) to claim it (your full retirement age is 67). Any time any Social Security (SS) benefit is taken before

FRA, it is reduced.

You can claim only your survivor benefit (not your own SS benefit) at age 60, but whenever benefits are taken before full retirement age, and you are still working, you are subject to Social Security's "earnings test" which limits how much you can earn before Social Security takes back some of your benefits.

The earnings limit for 2020 is $18,240 (it changes yearly) and if the limit is exceeded Social Security will take back benefits equal to $1 for every $2 you are over the limit. Such lost survivor benefits are not recoverable. Social Security publishes next year's earnings limits in the fall of each year prior, so what the earnings limit will be when you reach age 60 isn't yet known, but it will be an amount that is more than the 2020 limit.

Assuming you will also be eligible for your own Social Security benefits from your own lifetime work record, you should evaluate which benefit, at maximum, will give you the highest benefit amount. If that is your survivor benefit from your husband (which, at your FRA, would be 100% of the benefit your husband was collecting when he died), then you should consider maximizing the survivor benefit by not claiming it until you reach your FRA. If money is needed earlier, you could claim your own SS benefit as early as age 62 and allow your survivor benefit to reach maximum at your FRA. Conversely, if your own Social Security benefit from your own work record will be higher at maximum than your survivor benefit, then you could claim your survivor benefit first and delay claiming your own benefit until it reaches maximum at age 70 (your own benefit will be 24% more at 70 than it will be at your FRA). Your goal should be to get the highest possible benefit for the rest of your life and comparing these two options will permit you to do that. You can find out your estimated benefit amounts in both cases by contacting Social Security.

Stream & Lake Map of New York

It was completed in 1965 after a 30 year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

Professor Higbee painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto the map. It sold extremely well - until the printer declared bankruptcy and hauled Higbee's work to the landfill.

But reprints were impossible because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue. Higbee was even offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

Then, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map.

Then the STREAM & LAKE MAP OF NEW YORK was created.

Why every angler and boater needs this map

Professor Higbee's Stream & Lake Map of New York is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. The 3.5-foot-by-4.5-foot New York map shows 65,000 miles of streams plus lakes.

RAVE REVIEWS

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman."
 —Joe Gordon, TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT, Johnstown, PA

"I have one of the original Higbee's Stream Map of Pennsylvania on my wall behind my desk. It's the best thing available as far as streams are concerned. I use it all the time for reference. I don't know of anything more extensive and it is the most accurate map out there as far as streams are concerned."
 —Dave Wolf, PA Fish and Boat Commission

ADOPT A PET

Sponsored By The Buffalo Rocket

This Week's Featured Friend: DOMINIC

Dominic is an approximately year old bully breed mix who came to the shelter as a stray and was never claimed. He is a happy and funny guy with lots of energy! Dominic will need an active home to keep him entertained and happy. This handsome guy is very strong and probably has not had much training, so his ideal home would be dedicated to helping him find the manners that he so sorely lacks. Because of his strength and wild ways, a home without small children might be best. Dominic has a very unique coat and the most lovely speckled marking; we don't know what's in his DNA, but perhaps he has some pointer or other breed thrown into his ancestry. Dominic has been happy to meet other dogs at the shelter and might do better with another energetic pooch to help burn some steam off. Check out this one of a kind cutie pie today! Pet ID 45294098
