It's Cookie Time!

If you know a registered Girl Scout, reach out to her to find out how she's selling cookies in ways that meet local and state safety protocols.

Girl Scouts of Western New York and Girl Scouts of the USA (GSUSA) kicked off the 2021 Girl Scout Cookie season nationally, during a challenging time when many Girl Scouts are selling in creative, socially distant, and contact-free ways to keep themselves and their customers safe. Even in light of the COVID-19 pandemic, girls are adapting their sales methods to share the joy of Girl Scout Cookies through the largest girl-led entrepreneurship program—including taking contact-free pickup and delivery orders through a new national collaboration with Grubhub. Additionally, online cookie ordering is available to consumers. Customers who don't know a Girl Scout can still purchase cookies from a local troop for direct shipment to their homes or purchase and donate cookies to local organizations.

The Girl Scout Cookie Program has long taught girls how to run a business via in-person booths, door-to-door activity, and the Digital Cookie® platform online, which GSUSA launched in 2014. When the COVID-19 pandemic hit in the middle of the spring 2020 season and girls were faced with the same challenges as other small businesses, girls in Western New York quickly pivoted their sales methods. From running virtual cookie booths on social media to setting up drive-through locations to facilitating orders that ship di-

Bills Squeak by Colts, Next Up Baltimore Ravens

The Buffalo Bills hardly resembled a Super Bowl team in their 27-24 win over the Indianapolis Colts last Saturday in Orchard Park. The Colts dominated the game with possession in Buffalo territory on all nine of their drives except for a kneel down at the end of the first half. but the Bills showed how dangerous they are by scoring on their opportunities while their opponents did not. The Colts failed to get points on two of their drives in the red zone. In fact drives that halted at the Bills 4, 12 and 15, produced only three points for the Colts

Baltimore head coach Frank Reich decided with the ball on the four yard line late in the second quarter to go for the TD rather than kick a filed goal. The decision was sound from the viewpoint that you cannot beat the Bills with field goals because Buffalo is proficient at scoring touchdowns. You need to get the seven points to keep pace with the Bills attack. And if you miss the Bills have to go the length of the field to score. When the attempt failed, Josh Allen engineered a 96 yard touchdown drive to give the Bills a 14-10 lead.

Reich's decision to go for a two point conversion in the fourth quarter, after scoring a touchdown to make it a 24-16 game backfired when they failed to convert. The almost certain one point from the conversion kick, plus the lost field goal, would have provided four points to the Colts in a game where they lost by three.

Kicker Tyler Bass is a deadly weapon. His 54 yard filed goal set a rookie record for the longest FG in NFL playoff history. He made two FG's in the game and has made 17 consecutive kicks with many from 50+ yards. In a battle of rookie kickers Bass out dueled Colts kicker Rodrigo Blankenship had an opportunity early in the third quarter to cut the Bills lead to four hit the right upright. The momentum swung to the Bills and they went on a long drive into the fourth quarter and scored on a bomb from quarterback Josh Allen to wide receiver Stefon Diggs.

Blankenship was two for four making his sort kicks from the 22 and 24 but missed from 56 yards right before halftime as well as hitting the post. He finished fifth in NFL scoring among kickers with 139 points.

And then there is Josh Allen who has basically been carrying the offense on his shoulders. After a slow start he caught fire and finished the game with 26 completions on 35 attempts for 324 yards, an average of 9.26 yards per attempt, and two passing touchdowns. He was also the teams best runner with 11 carries for 54 yards and one rushing touchdown. And no turnovers. His passer rating of 121.6 is the third highest ever in a Bills' playoff game. His 74.3 completion percentage is the highest ever in a Bills post season game.

Next up is the Baltimore Ravens who will present a much tougher test for the Bills with QB Lamar Jackson and his running off their option plays.

The Bills led the NFL in completions (190) and yards (2,303) to the left and right sidelines in the regular season. Allen's arm allows him to reach receivers 25 yards downfield and along the sideline. Stefon Diggs and Gabriel Davis are like acrobats keeping both feet in bounds on sideline passes.

Safety Micah Hyde broke up three passes against the Colts on Saturday. This included the game ending Hail Mary in addition to seven combined tackles. He will play an important role in containing Jackson and the Ravens option game

The Bills and Ravens are similar teams, almost evenly matched. Allen's deep passing ability and the athleticism of the Bills secondary gives them a slim edge.

Josh Allen vs Indianapolis Colts.

Meet Halle! This 10 yr old beauty was surrendered to the shelter because she couldn't be cared for anymore. She is still spunky, happy and deserves to live her Senior years in a wonderful home with a comfy dog bed, good food and treats that she absolutely loves. Halle loves to play fetch with a ball, and will happily bring it back to you to throw again. It's so nice to see her get the ball like it's her job and toss it back to you to have her fetch again. She will sit for her treats and is very excited to know she will get one.

Because of the COVID19 situation, the shelter is closed to the general public. If you would like to meet any of the adoptable dogs, please fill out an application online (if you are not already pre-approved), call the shelter, and leave a message with your name and phone number and the dog you're interested in. Have patience, and they will call you back when they can. From there, a time will be scheduled for you to come and meet the dog. Please be patient, and remember they are very short staffed at the moment. Applications can be found at <https://friendsofcbas.org/adopt>

Ask Rusty - Do COVID-19 Bonuses Count Toward the Earnings Limit?

Dear Rusty: I'm 63 and still working, and I receive Social Security benefits. Because of COVID-19 my employer has been giving us a $300 bonus, every 3 months. This will be $1,200 for the year and it will put me over the $18,240 earnings limit for this year. My question is, since these bonuses are COVID-19 related are they still considered earned income? My second question is, if I go over the limit does Social Security stop my check, even if it might be a portion of the check? Signed: Working During COVID-19

Dear Working: Whether your 2020 earnings (and those bonuses) put you over the annual earnings limit will depend upon how the bonuses are reported on your Federal income tax return (or your W-2 if you aren't required to file). Your employer will send your W-2 earnings to the IRS which will, in turn, inform Social Security of your earnings. Social Security compares your 2020 W-2 earnings to the earnings limit to see if you exceeded the allowable limit. In other words, how your employer defines those COVID-19 bonuses and reports it to the IRS determines whether SS will count them toward the earnings limit. You should check with your employer's Human Resources department to see if your COVID-19 bonuses will be considered as taxable earnings reportable on your W-2.

If you exceed the limit, and you don't inform Social Security in advance that you did, they won't know about it until they receive your W-2 information from the IRS (sometime next year, after you file your income taxes). They will then send you a notification that you exceeded the limit and tell you how much you owe them, and they will want to recover $1 for every $2 you are over the limit (half of what you exceed the limit by). They'll give you the option to repay what they consider to be an overpayment in one lump sum, request a repayment plan or to have your SS benefits withheld for as many months as it takes for them to recover what you owe. Note they only withhold full months of benefits, not partial, so you could go several months without collecting any SS benefits until they recover what is owed.

The money they withhold because you exceeded the limit is not lost forever, because when you reach your full retirement age (66 ½ if you turned 63 in 2020) they will give you time credit for any months they withheld benefits. That means they will move your effective claim date forward by the number of months benefits were withheld, which will result in a small increase in your benefit amount. But you'll get that higher benefit for the rest of your life, enabling you to eventually recover the money they withheld because you exceeded the limit. And for information, during the year you reach your full retirement age (FRA) the limit goes up and the penalty is less, and once you reach your FRA there is no longer a limit to how much you can earn while collecting benefits.

Chinese Food (Now called Asian Food)

Much to my surprise my wife suggested Chinese food for dinner. She is not a big fan of Chinese food, excuse me, Asian Food. We have been ordering out more than usual since being down here in Florida. The restaurants are open to full capacity and seem to be doing well. It is the season! We had a couple of bad dinners lately so her thoughts were how wrong can you go with Chinese? Not completely true as they do not all follow the same rules.

In past years we have been patronizing a close take out restaurant that specializes in Chinese food called "Jeff's". Jeff was a Chinese fellow who came here from China and had an American wife. In the beginning, his wife took the orders and he did the cooking. Last year before he announced his retirement, he had all kinds of employees and a line out the door. No quick turn around like in most establishment of this kind. Got to know Jeff, over the years, however on my last visit, he was nowhere near the front counter. I did ask for him once and he came out to say hello. Told me he had enough and was calling it quits.

So now where do we go for Chinese? Asked "Siri" on my phone and she directed me to a new place close to where we live, called "Let's Eat". Found out later it was the same location as Jeff's old place. I called in the order only to find the prices were quite high compared to places up in good old New York. Example: up north I have Chinese for lunch at least once a week. Triple Delight, beef, shrimp and chicken with vegetables is my favorite. Cost for lunch, $5.63. Here for the same thing and not as good, $14.95. Seemed a little high when I ordered over the phone, but thought maybe there would be enough for two meals. That did not happen.

Very disappointed when I got home and realized what I got and what I paid. Live and learn. It was Jeff's former location but modernized. I mentioned to the people that I knew Jeff since the beginning. They told me he retired and went back to China. What? He went back to China to retire? At one time he had shown me pictures of his home and where he lived as a child. No thank you. Things must have changed dramatically for him to want to spend the rest of his life there. Makes you wonder if what we are told about China's living conditions are true. Who would want to give up US citizenship and return to what he showed me in the pictures, squalor. He was a smart man and knows what he is doing.

Makes me wonder though. Here in Florida we have Hispanics doing whatever they can to be Americans. We see almost no Chinese immigrants, at least here. I would imagine it is different on the West coast and especially in California. At one time in our history Chinese labor was responsible for building the Railroads and the Panama Canal. It was abundant and cheap. I do not know for sure but it just seems Chinese families are not choosing to move here. My granddaughter worked for the state department in Ethiopia for a couple of years, she sent me pictures of where she was staying in the capital, Addis Ababa. The Chinese seemed to have taken over the economy. Everything is Chinese, cars, food, and culture. She said the American ambassador told her it was that way all over Africa. The Chinese have moved in.

That of course has nothing to do with Chinese Food or as the sign said on the door: "We serve Asian Food". At first I was not sure I was in the right place. Asian could be Indian or Vietnamese or whatever as it is such a broad statement. It was Chinese or similar to what I am used to in New York.

Have you ever tasted real Chinese food? Attended a Chinese wedding in New York City once and they served real Chinese food. Let me just say after dinner, we had to find a McDonald's as the food was so bad we could not eat it. Maybe not really bad but not to our American taste. It was not like the Chinese food we get here. Remember they have to feed a lot of people so they eat everything. Nothing goes to waste. I know some of the food served at that wedding will never go to my waist. Yuk!
