

Flag Raised At City Hall

The St. Patrick’s Day flag raising took place at Buffalo City Hall on Tuesday, March 14th.

Mayor Byron W. Brown and South District Council Member Christopher P. Scanlon, joined by the United Irish American Association (UIAA), kicked off St. Patrick’s Day week by hosting an Irish flag-raising ceremony in Niagara Square on Tuesday, March 14th. The event celebrated the upcoming return of the UIAA’s St. Patrick’s Day Parade on Delaware Avenue and the Valley Community Association’s Old Neighborhood Parade in the Old First Ward. Both parades were cancelled in 2020 and 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. This year in Buffalo, both the Ukrainian flag and the Irish Flag will wave on the same pole in Niagara Square. “After two very long, difficult years, we’re thrilled to see the return of the St. Patrick’s Day Parades in Buffalo,” said South District Councilmember Christopher P. Scanlon. “While we spend this week celebrating and honoring the history of Ireland and its people, our hearts are with the people of the Ukraine who are fighting to keep their history and culture alive.” “It is an honor to be part of today’s Irish flag raising ceremony, as both of my parents were born in Ireland,” said Patrick McGuinness, the Grand Marshal of the St. Patrick’s Day Parade. and Western New York!” The ceremony is on Saturday, March 19th at noon, beginning on South Park Avenue and ending on Louisiana Street and the St. Patrick’s Day Parade is Sunday, March 20th at 2:00pm on Delaware Avenue.

A Personal Appearance!

Former Major League Baseball player Bobby Valentine signs his book Valentine's Way last month while visiting Bases Loaded Sports Card store in West Seneca.

Former Major League Baseball Player and Manager Bobby Valentine paid a visit to Western New York last month in West Seneca, promoting his 2021 memoir and signing autographs for local fans during the dreaded Baseball lock-out. The 71 year old Shortstop and Outfielder for five MLB teams from 1971-1979, played most of his career on the West Coast with the Los Angeles Dodgers, California Angels and San Diego Padres.

In 1977, the Padres traded him to the New York Mets for Outfielder Dave Kingman, where he spent two years before finishing his career with the expansion Seattle Mariners in 1979. He later managed the Mets for seven seasons, from 1996-2002, compiling a 536-467 record and a National League Pennant in 2000, when the team faced the New York Yankees.

The personable Baseball legend took time out of a busy schedule to visit WNY February 19 at Bases Loaded Sports Cards, on Union Road to sign copies of his 2021 book, "Valentine's Way" and answer questions from collector's and fans of the game.

"I started collecting Baseball cards when you were a rookie with the Dodgers," said one fan who said he once owned Valentine's rookie card in 1971. The fifth pick of the 1968 amateur draft by the Dodgers, led by Hall of Fame Manager Walter Alston, Valentine spent three seasons playing with the likes of Maury Willis, Steve Garvey and Billy Buckner. He batted .263 and drove in 57 runs against players like Willie Mays, Pete Rose and Hank Aaron in the tough National League Western Division.

While he chose not to comment on the ongoing strike that ended last Thursday evening between the Players Association and team owners, Valentine was very attentive to area fans, answering questions and listening to stories about Major League games held here for the Toronto Blue Jays last season.

"This is a great City and it's a pleasure to visit a place that loves the game even though there's no Major League team," said Valentine. "That tells me a lot about you."

Just as soon as a deal was struck last week, Baseball fans here in WNY drew a collective sigh of relief and watched as teams like the Blue Jays and Yankees, Mets and Dodgers, and all other teams, started reporting to their Spring Training sites in Arizona or Florida. With actual Spring Training games scheduled to begin Thursday, March 17, the 2022 season will begin on Thursday April 7.

Late Sunday night, the Yankees and Minnesota Twins completed a blockbuster trade, sending catcher Gary Sanchez and third baseman Gio Urshela to the Twins for newly acquired Shortstop Isiah Kiner-Falefa, third baseman Josh Donaldson and catcher Ben Rortvedt. The young catcher of the Twins might be the steal in the trade if he can help Bronx fans forget about Chris Sanchez.

Ask Rusty – My Husband Still Works; Must He Enroll in Medicare at age 65?

Dear Rusty: There is confusion between my husband and me on when he should file for Medicare. My husband will be 64 in July. While he does plan on continuing to work to age 67 and continuing with his employer's insurance plan, I believe there's a requirement that he file for a certain part of the Medicare retirement plan at age 65, otherwise there's some penalty at some point in the future after retirement. There's lots of confusion with this, and I'm hoping you can explain exactly what the process is in filing for Medicare at age 65 and after reaching full retirement age.

Also, please comment on whether continuing with employers' insurance is an option or if you should file for Medicare at age 65. Signed: Confused About Medicare

Dear Confused: From what you've shared, it doesn't appear that your wife will be entitled to a spousal benefit because her own benefit at her full retirement age (FRA) is more than half of your FRA benefit amount. If your age 69 benefit is about $3300, then your FRA (age 66) benefit amount was about $2660). Half of your FRA amount ($1330) is less than your wife's FRA amount ($1900), so no spousal benefit will be available to your wife.

In your specific circumstance, both you and your wife should consider your individual objectives in deciding when to claim Social Security. If you plan to claim next month at age 69, you will get a benefit that has increased by about 26% due to the Delayed Retirement Credits (DRCs) you've earned since you reached your FRA of 66. Claiming at her FRA, your wife will get the full SS retirement benefit she has earned from a lifetime of working.

Are You Shopping For A New Or Used Car?

Thousands of people buy and sell vehicles every year. The process of buying a car is not what it used to be – consumers are more educated and focus on a car's reliability, the model that meets their needs and how much the car should cost. The COVID-19 pandemic has caused major issues in the supply chain, especially when it comes to the automobile market. I believe it's safe to say that the car buying advantage has shifted from car consumer to the car dealer.

Prospective car shoppers should do their homework upfront. Some key considerations are your budget, your needs, your wants and the quality of the vehicle you are purchasing. Before spending your hard-earned money, it's important to learn about the vehicle you plan to purchase and the dealer you plan to purchase from.

Did you know that in New York State, every automobile dealer must register with the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) and that a registered dealer must obey certain state and federal laws that protect your purchase of a new or used car, truck or other vehicle, including one sold as salvage;

Did you know that when you buy a used vehicle, the dealer must certify, in writing, that it is "in condition and repair to render, under normal use, satisfactory and adequate service..." The vehicle must have all safety equipment and emissions controls required by state and federal laws for the vehicle's model year;

Did you know that new vehicles are also protected by manufacturers' warranty?

Did you know that New York State ranks among the states with the highest number of cars on the road -- over 10,000,000 -- thus emphasizing the importance of the Department of Motor Vehicles and the Erie County Auto Bureau to adopt to the needs of the driving public.

Along with the Erie County Auto Bureau, the NYS DMV's core purpose is to assist purchasers and buyers of vehicles, provide guidelines for vehicle transfers, offer registration and licensing documents and implement vehicle rules and regulations throughout the state to ensure safe business practices between car buyers and sellers.
